Republican Carries Ball In Filibuster Nearly 7 Hrs.

Dixie Democrats Loaf While Cain Berates Wallgren, Truman Nominee

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A Senate Republican yesterday supplied a new twist to the Southern filibuster by launching a long-distance attack on a White House nominee while Dixie Democrats just relaxed.

Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.), spoke for six hours and forty-five minutes against Mr. Truman's appointment of Mon C. Wallgren as chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

It was the longest continuous speech of the session but far short of the 16 hours Cain threatened to talk. The former paratrooper changed shoes three times in the course of it to rest weary feet, sipped sparingly of milk and coffee.

Sad Spectacle, Lucas Says

But when the Senate recessed at 9:04 p. m., Senate Administration Leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.), called it "a very sad spectacle" and charged flatly that "certain Republicans have joined Southern Democrats in conducting a filibuster that has nothing to do with the business before the Senate."

He called it "an example of how interested some Republicans are in civil rights."

Lucas, meanwhile, called a strategy conference of Northern and Western Democrats for this morning, apparently as a prelude to circulating a petition for cloture later today.

Not Laying It Aside

The Senate leader said he has no present intention of laying the rules change aside for ECA, rent control, housing and other pressing Administration issues even if he loses the cloture test.

There were some leadership differences on this point, however. Senate Majority Whip Francis J. Myers (D., Pa.) told reporters.

"Rent control can't die. If the filibuster continues and we can't break it, we may have to set it aside. In any case the public should have no fear whatsoever that rent controls will be allowed to lapse."

Cain took the floor at 2:15 p. m. after another Republican, Senator Arthur V. Watkins (Utah), spent nearly two hours on the floor renewing a demand that the President make immediately available to the Senate the text of the proposed North Atlantic treaty.

Thus, for the third straight day, Southern Democrats were under no compulsion to send in their men to keep the talk going. Every now and then one of them would ask Cain a question, but for the most part they strolled in and out of the Senate chamber or just rested.

Reading from a 264-page, 79,000-word address, Cain said he also

Byrd Wins Fight To Keep 'Lump' University Budget

Annapolis, Md., March 8—President H. C. "Curley" Byrd of the University of Maryland today won his fight to keep the university's budget requests on a lump-sum basis.

In what amounted to a personal vote of confidence in Dr. Byrd, the Maryland House of Delegates killed, 58-55, a bill to require the university to submit its budget requests in detail and account for all its special funds.

Proponents of the bill said the legislature needed the budget details to do an intelligent screening job. Opponents said a vote for the bill would show a lack of confidence in Byrd and the University's Board of Regents.

The bill got a favorable committee report over Byrd's opposition and a maneuver to delay it Friday lost, 57 to 50. Byrd came to the legislature Friday to oppose the bill.

Truman Urges Taxing of All Military Pay

Includes Allowances; Proposes Serviceman Retirement Deduction

President Truman proposes that all military pay be taxed, and that members of the armed forces contribute to their own retirement.

The recommendation is in a letter to Secretary of Defense Forrestal, dated March 5. It was read to the House Armed Services Committee yesterday as the committee resumed hearings on a bill to raise military pay generally and overhaul the retirement system.

The bill would raise service pay an average of 14 per cent. Individual raises would range from about 3 per cent for the sixth enlisted grade to almost 50 per cent for generals and admirals. The bottom enlisted grade, the seventh, would get no boost. Lower grades have had big percentage boosts in recent years.

440 Million Cost Seen

The total cost of the increases has been estimated at 440 million dollars a year by a civilian commission that recommended the raises.

The President's letter said "preliminary studies" indicate the bill would cost 590 million dollars a year. It added that "some way must be found to bring this cost down to meet budget requirements."

Mr. Truman did not say who made the study that resulted in the higher figure. His budget for the year beginning July 1 sets up 400 million dollars for military pay raises.

Mr. Truman suggested that the bill be revised to provide for full taxation on a gross pay basis. This would make military allowances, such as those for quarters and food, liable to income taxes. They are now exempt.

6 Pct. Basis Suggested

Mr. Truman also said he thinks the military retirement system should be put "on a six-per-cent contributory basis, similar to the system now in effect for classified employes." All "classified" or civil service employes for the Government contribute from their pay to the Federal retirement fund, but military personnel do not.

The bill should provide, however, that no member of the armed services would suffer an actual cut in pay, the President added.

Seized Near Culpeper, Man Is Whisked Away To Undisclosed Jail

By Richard L. Lyons
Post Reporter

Culpeper, Va., March 8.—After an all-night hunt in which he attacked a policeman and was tracked by bloodhounds, a 31-year-old mill hand was captured this morning and confessed to yesterday's murder of tenant farmer James G. Brown.

Thomas Brown, who recently served three years on a sex charge, was captured on the Southern Railway tracks near Remington, about 11 miles north of here, about 8 a. m. by State Trooper B. C. Nicodemus.

Three hours later, he had confessed the killing, had pleaded guilty to murder and was whisked away to an undisclosed jail. He said he didn't remember anything about the charge of the dead man's wife that he also raped her. No charge of rape had been placed against him tonight.

Find Revolver at Home

State and county police had been looking for Brown since yesterday afternoon, when they learned that he disappeared from his job. They also found a recently fired .32-caliber revolver at his home—the same caliber as that which killed the 23-year-old farmer.

A searching party of 10 State troopers and more county officials searched most of the night without success. But at 6 a. m., State police got a call that Brown had

Segregation Is Ended by D. C. At 18 Tennis Courts in Parks

Complying with an order of the Interior Department, the District Recreation Board yesterday voted to end segregation on 18 local tennis courts.

The board acted after deciding that the Interior Department has control over courts which are located on Federal park lands.

Tennis court permits, issued by the Recreation Department, will be reprinted to list the courts as "open units," Recreation Board Chairman Harry S. Wender said.

The courts are located at Anacostia, Garfield, Montrose and Rock Creek Parks, and at the Francis Recreation Center. All but two of the courts, those at Francis, now are designated as "white units."

The board also approved forwarding to Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug copies of permits issued by the Recreation Department for all other activities on park lands. Krug requested the copies in a letter to the board in which he ordered the courts opened on a "first come, first served" basis without regard to race.

Only the 18 courts at the 5 areas were opened by the board's action. An additional 85 courts located on land owned by the District and on land assigned to the Recreation Department by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission will continue to be operated on a segregated basis.

The Interior Department has appealed to Attorney General Tom Clark to rule that it controls the

House GOP Opens Fight On Rent Bill

Caucus Opposes Extension Beyond 90 Days as Filibuster Snarls Senate Action

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

House Republicans yesterday organized to fight Federal rent control extension for more than 90 days.

The Administration's plan to extend and strengthen rent control, meanwhile, is also seriously jeopardized on the other side of the Capitol where it is backed up behind the civil rights filibuster.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., told reporters yesterday that a mass meeting of GOP members overwhelmingly supported the idea of ending Federal rent controls and turning the problem over to the States.

Closed Door Caucus

After the closed door caucus, Martin said the Republicans "are overwhelmingly in support" of a 90-day extension only of Federal rent controls. Many, he said, want rent controls to die when the present law expires March 31.

Martin said that most GOP legislators believed the problem of rent control is one which should now be turned back to the States.

The temporary plan, he said, would give Congress more time to see where the Nation's economic machine is headed and to determine whether any further controls are needed.

The GOP caucus also agreed to support an amendment originally offered in committee by Representative Paul Brown (D., Ga.) providing that landlords be assured "a reasonable return on the fair value of their property."

When Brown's amendment was defeated in the House Banking and Currency Committee, he said he would bring it to the floor. Both Democrats and Republicans agree that the Brown amendment is more than likely to be accepted.

Martin would not predict what support the GOP might get from Democrats in defeating President Truman's rent control extension program, but it was apparent that many Southern Democrats in the House were angered over the civil rights battle.

The House is scheduled to start its showdown fight over rent control on Thursday. The Rules Committee alloted five hours for debate and left the bill wide open to amendment.

Civil Rights a Complication

Regardless, however, of what the House may do with the bill it still must clear the Senate before it can become law.

Senator John Sparkman (D., Ala.), chairman of the subcommittee handling the measure on the Senate side, has pointed out that continuation of the civil rights fight will kill the bill altogether. Both he and Senate Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) are agreed that if rent control is allowed to expire March 31 without action it will not be renewed.

The status of rent control in the District of Columbia is virtually the same as that in the rest of the country in that the law expires March 31. It is separate legislation, however, which has not yet been cleared even for House action.

Housing Administrator Tighe E. Woods has told both House and Senate committees that the "fair return" principle sounds equitable, but that he has not been able to find a formula for it which it would be practical to administer.

Colasanto Fired as Manager By Alexandria City Council

Nicholas A. Colasanto, city manager of Alexandria for 16 months, was fired last night by a 4-to-3 vote of the City Council. The council resolution charged him with failing in his job on 10 different counts.

Colasanto

Mayor William T. Wilkins, after the meeting, said no successor has been selected, although, he said, the council has in mind one qualified man.

He added the council will meet soon to appoint an acting manager to serve in the interval between Colasanto's departure from office March 15 and the incoming of his successor.

Colasanto's only comment to reporters was: "I'm not disturbed."

He sat through the half-hour discussion of his fate without saying a word.

The resolution firing Colasanto was presented by Albert A. Smoot and seconded by Marshall J. Beverley, who had first sought Colasanto's removal shortly after he (Beverley) took office last September.

Voting with Smoot and Beverley for the removal were Mayor Wilkins and R. Samuel Luckett, both of whom had opposed Colasanto's orginial appointment.

Voting against the resolution were John W. Tulloch, Leroy S. Bendheim and Roy C. Bragg.

Smoot's resolution charged Colasanto with failing to keep the City Council fully informed; to maintain good public relations; to maintain the necessary personnel to carry on the work of the city; to notify the city council about appointments and removals; to maintain "healthy morale" in several city departments; to properly prepare and present the 1949 city budget; to pay off a $200,000 bank note in December, 1948, for the city; to have certain work performed as called for in the 1948 budget; to give prompt action in installing sidewalks, streets, alleys, curbs and gutters, and to give the city council his resignation as requested by a committee last December 2.

D. C. Sales Tax Bill Offered In Congress

Senate and House Get Measure for 2% Levy; Only Food Is Excepted

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A 2 per cent tax bill for the District covering virtually everything a person buys except food for home consumption was presented to Congress yesterday.

The sweeping revenue-raising measure was introduced simultaneously in both houses. It was offered by the joint House-Senate District fiscal subcommittees which disclosed simultaneously that they were shelving proposals to boost the Federal payment to the District from 12 millions to 16 millions, and to double liquor and beer taxes and liquor license fees.

The sales tax measure will come up for action of the full House District Committee in an executive meeting Thursday at 9:30 a. m. Sponsors hope to send it to the House floor for passage Monday, a District day.

Change in Exemptions

Coupled with the sales tax would be a cut from $10,000 to $5000 in the unincorporated business tax exemption, effective this year, and a hike from $1000 to $5000 in the basic personal income tax exemption, effective next January 1.

The bill would boost annual city revenue by more than 16 million dollars.

Sales tax features were tightened in secret sessions of the subcommittees to make the levy hit medicine, building materials, fuels, candy, aids for the handicapped, coffins and caskets and other things for which exemption had been either recommended in earlier plans or asked in hearings.

Restaurant meals, beer and other beverages, and clothing would be taxed. Generally the tax would apply to all tangible property sold at retail unless freed by specific exemptions.

Hope It Balances Budget

With the new bill, congressional District leaders are putting into one basket all their hopes for balancing the new city budget, and granting municipal employes a $330 pay boost retroactive to last July. The budget was cut by the House more than four million dollars under what the Commissioners said was needed. The pay bill is being pushed by Capitol committees.

37-Million Pepco Bond Issue To Help Finance Construction

By S. Oliver Goodman
Post Reporter

In a surprise move, Potomac Electric Power Co. last night revealed plans to sell a 37-million-dollar issue of 3¼ per cent debentures to three institutional investors.

President Alfred G. Neal said an application has been filed with the Public Utilities Commission for approval of the issue which will finance in part a record construction program now under way.

Upon receipt of PUC approval, Neal added, Pepco also proposes to apply a part of the proceeds from the sale of debentures to the retirement of its outstanding bank loans and to the redemption of all of the 225,000 outstanding shares of 3.60 per cent preferred stock. The redemption price will be $53.25 a share.

That the plan was unexpected in local financial quarters is evidenced by the fact that offerings of the preferred stock were made at $48 a share at the close of yesterday's Washington Stock Exchange.

The proposed debentures issue, Neal said, will be Series A and will run for 20 years.

Of the proceeds of the new issue, $11,981,250 will go for redemption of the preferred stock and 17 million dollars for retirement of bank loans. The rest will be used for working capital.

A spokesman said the three institutions, which will buy the debentures, subject to necessary

Nehru Urges India to Spurn Power Blocs

Non-Entanglement Can Help Avert War, Prime Minister Says

New Delhi, March 8 (AP).—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said today India can help prevent another world war by avoiding a lineup with any world power or power bloc.

"The only possible (Indian) foreign policy in the interests of world peace," Nehru told the Legislative Assembly, "is not to get entangled, militarily or otherwise, with any power or groups of powers."

Referring to the dominion's future relations with the British Commonwealth, the prime minister said:

"India naturally and inevitably will become, in the next few months, an independent, sovereign republic. She never accepts the slightest degree of dependency on any foreign authority."

Nehru, whose government has deployed troops to combat a Communist-inspired railway, mail and telegraph strike scheduled to start Wednesday, told the Assembly "the various isms that threaten conflict are legacies of Europe's power politics.

"There is no reason why India should borrow any ideology in toto or join any power or group," he said.

"The major question today is the readjustment of relations between Asia and Europe. India has become a kind of meeting ground for various trends and forces of the East and West.

"The domination of Europe is largely gone, but her legacy of conflict and power politics still remains. Asia has no such legacy, making it easy for Asia—especially India—to prevent another world catastrophe.

"India is becoming a giant again. She is the largest single political unit in terms of population and, in the course of time, other potentials. Geographically, India is centrally located and nothing can happen in this part of the world without India in it."

(The dominion's population is about 320 million.)

The national government has announced it will use troops to replace strikers if any large number of railway, mail and telegraph service workers walks out Wednesday. Among other things, the workers ask more pay.

Atlantic Pact Informally Approved by Senate Group

Treaty Virtually In Final Form; Connally Lauds Progress Made

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Informal approval of the proposed North Atlantic security pact was given yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The treaty is now virtually in final form, and "satisfactory results may be expected and I feel are assured," declared Committee Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.).

Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson was before the committee for nearly three hours yesterday, to present and discuss the treaty at an informal meeting. When he left, Senator Connally told reporters:

"I feel that . . . the results will answer the complaints that are being made against the treaty here in the United States."

Action Due in Two Weeks

Senator Connally said the treaty will be signed in about two weeks, "and I think the plan is to make it public coincidental with the signatures." Later he clarified this to say he had been advised by the State Department that "the full text of the pact will be released in advance of its signing."

Secretary Acheson has indicated that it is proposed to make the draft public before it is actually signed, to give the public an opportunity to evaluate it and comment on it.

Great Britain, Norway, France, Canada, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands have been participating with the United States in the treaty negotiations.

Denmark's Foreign Minister, Gustav Rasmussen, is to leave Copenhagen by plane today to discuss the treaty with Secretary Acheson, and there is every indication that Denmark will join in the pact. There has been no official statement as to whether Italy, Portugal and Iceland will also participate; some of these nations may enter the pact later.

Provision on Arms Use

The defense pact is reliably reported to declare that an armed attack on any of the signatory nations will be regarded as an attack on all of them, and armed force, if necessary, will be used to repel the attacker.

Defense area for the pact signatories is described as their area in Europe, North America, Algeria, or any of their territory, island possessions, vessels or aircraft in the North Atlantic, which is defined as the sector north of the Tropic of Cancer.

It is reported that the treaty would remain in effect for at least 20 years, but could be reviewed after 10 years to determine if it requires changes or should be

Soviet Plans No War Move Now, Dulles Says

Cleveland, March 8 (NYHT).—John Foster Dulles, American delegate to the United Nations, said today he does not believe the Soviet Union plans war, but that it would use its army if it felt Russian territory threatened. Therefore, he warned against tactics in Scandinavia that would seem to bring an offensive threat to Russian borders.

Dulles delivered the opening address before the third National Conference on Churches and the World Order, attended by 400 delegates, representing 35 million Protestant church members and affiliated groups. The conference is sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches.

The leadership in international affairs that has now passed into the hands of the United States, Dulles said, must be a leadership "of peace, by peace and for peace."

This leadership must be grounded in faith, for, he added, "nothing would be more dangerous than to have the present great material power of the United States rattling around in the world detached from the guiding direction of a righteous faith."

So far as it is humanly possible

PEOPLE In The NEWS

New Foreign Affairs Head in House Known for His Orderly, Analytical Mind

John Kee, new chairman of the vital House Foreign Affairs Committee, is probably known to fewer persons in Congress-conscious Washington than any other Representative of equal service.

This is partly because he succeeds the late Representative Sol Bloom of New York who was such a colorful person as to overshadow any other member of his committee.

But it is more than that. The 74-year-old West Virginian who will now furnish the leadership on foreign affairs in the House is first and foremost a lawyer who vastly prefers desk work to the trial courts.

Scholarly, quiet, precise, Kee has a cool, orderly, logical mind which is constantly at work sorting, analyzing cataloguing facts. He is the sort of person who automatically suspends judgment on any issue until he is reasonably sure all the evidence is in.

Harris & Ewing
REP. JOHN KEE
In House 16 years

Has Dapper Appearance

His appearance spells the man. He is neat to the point of being dapper. His hair is parted in the middle, with great exactitude. His eyes are keen, and his mouth is that of the self-contained person who thinks far more than he speaks.

Kee is already popular with the staff of the committee on which he has served during the whole 16 years he has been in Congress. They describe him as 'able, conscientious, friendly and unruffled."

Politically, Kee describes himself as a Roosevelt New Dealer who has become a "Fair Dealer" under President Truman.

He is quick to add, however, that the Foreign Affairs Committee has been, and will continue to be under his chairmanship, remarkably free from politics because this Nation's foreign policy is not a political issue.

Wrested Control in 1932

Kee takes great pleasure in the fact that back in 1932 he took away West Virginia's Fifth District from Republican control and has held it ever since. In the 40 years before he was elected, Kee said, only two Democrats had served in the House from the Fifth District, each for one term only.

The West Virginian started his legal career in 1902 as attorney for the Virginian Railway. His job was to acquire all lands and rights-of-way for the road from the West Virginia coal fields to the Norfolk piers.

Later he went to Mexico to acquire oil lands for Standard Oil of New Jersey. After he came to Congress he found that his personal experience in dealing with this Nations' neighbors to the South was extremely helpful when it came to Latin American affairs.

A modest man, Kee can't help showing his pride in the Kee bill to reorganize the Nation's entire foreign service which was passed by the Seventy-ninth Congress. In the West Virginians' opinion, this country now has a foreign service equal to any in the world and he is glad of his share in helping make it one of which we can justly be proud.

Feels No Need for Hobby

Even to gratify a reporter's natural liking for color, Kee couldn't dig up a hobby. A man who is truly happy in his work, he opined, doesn't need any hobby.

The nearest he ever came to a hobby, Kee revealed, was the study of botany. One summer when he was just out of school he helped a professor catalogue and classify all the wildflowers in one county in West Virginia. Botany, he liked, he said, because it was an exact science.

The daisy, he learned, does not really have petals, but "bracts" or "rays" as the white ring around the center is called. The "daisy flower" is in the yellow center, and it is not one flower but a million little complete flowers, fully visible only under a microscope. This is not Gertrude Stein but pure botany.

Mr. and Mrs. Kee have two children—a daughter and a married son. The son who lives in Philadelphia, has two daughters, Kathleen and Kirsten, aged 8 and 6 respectively, who are in the opinion of their grandfather "the most beautiful children you ever saw and just about as bright as anyone can be."—Mary Spargo.

Veterans Bill Cost Set at $125 Billion

The Administration warned Congress yesterday that during the remainder of this century alone the cost of the veterans' pension bill sponsored by Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.) will reach at least 125 billion dollars.

Budget Director Frank Pace, jr., said that in the year 2000 expenditures would still be at an annual rate of four billion dollars.

Pace called instead for approval of President Truman's expanded social security program to meet the same needs on a broader basis. He pointed out that under the Administration's new improved system of old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits for men with dependents would be "very much better" than under the Rankin proposal.

Report to Representative Carroll

The budget director's views were contained in a report to Representative John A. Carroll (D., Col.) who had asked for a report from all interested agencies—Budget Bureau, Veterans Administration and Social Security—on the proposed legislation.

Carroll presented the budget director's views to the Rules Committee.

The Veterans Committee, which Rankin heads, has approved the bill, and has been trying to get Rules Committee clearance to send it to the floor.

Some Rules Committee members indicated to newsmen yesterday the group might turn thumbs down on the Rankin proposal which is slated for another hearing today.

Rankin's Alternative

If he is turned down by the Rules Committee Rankin can move directly for House consideration. He could do that next Monday, since under the revised rules of the House the Rules Committee cannot hold up any legislation more than 21 days.

Pace made these points:

1. Veterans of World War I and II are receiving better treatment than did veterans of preceding wars.

2. In the veterans' programs already provided, primary obligation is to service-disabled veterans and dependents of veterans deceased from service causes.

3. For veterans without service-connected disabilities, existing law already provides benefits under which most veterans in need at age 65 can draw $72 a month.

4. The Rankin bill "would be exceedingly costly and its costs will be superimposed on those (costs) for our present aid for veterans and our general social insurance program."

President Truman drew a sharp rebuff yesterday in his drawn-out battle to keep Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus and a top assistant on the Federal payroll.

A Senate Appropriations Subcommittee voted seven to four to retain a section of last year's Interior Department appropriations bill providing that the reclamation chief and his regional assistants must be engineers.

Neither Straus nor his California regional director, Richard Boke, is an engineer. If the provision stands, they automatically will be ousted from their jobs.

The subcommittee's action was taken behind closed doors, and still is subject to review by the full Senate Appropriations Committee and the Senate itself.

If the subcommittee should be upheld, however, it would be a blow to the President. He sent another special plea to Congress only last week urging the legislators to keep Straus and Boke on the payroll.

Lanphier Groomed for Air Post; Shot Down Yamamoto in '43

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Tom Lanphier, jr., young Air Force hero who shot down Japan's naval commander, Admiral Yamamoto, in 1943, is being groomed to succeed Cornelius V. (Sonny) Whitney as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force.

Lanphier, a wartime USAF colonel, has strong backing for the post and, until the last few days, looked like a sure thing. Some recent opposition to his appointment within military circles, however, may block his chances.

Fellow National Guardsmen and naval airmen may prevent his selection, aviation men reported last night.

Meanwhile, the name of John M. Franklin, president of United States Lines, was advanced as a probable successor to Army Secretary Kenneth S. Royall. Recent dispatches from Key West, Fla., where President Truman and aides are vacationing, have reported that Royall soon will resign.

Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) told reporters yesterday that "it's a pretty good guess" that Franklin will be named Secretary of the Army.

Brewster said he had talked to Louis Johnson, who has been named to replace Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. He did not say whether Johnson backed Franklin for this post.

Franklin was a major general during the war, serving as assistant chief of transportation for the Army.

Lanphier, who is only 33, lives in Boise, Idaho, and is ranking officer of the Idaho Air National Guard. A newspaperman before the war, he is the son of an Air Force officer.

Reportedly, the young Air Force veteran is backed by Floyd Odlum, wealthy aircraft manufacturer and heavy contributor to the Democratic war chest.

His opposition from National Guardsmen dates from the fact that he indorsed a proposal of the Air Force and Defense Secretary Forrestal to merge the Air National Guard and Air Reserve into a single Federal Reserve agency. Guard chiefs are bitterly opposed to the plan.

Lanphier also is known as a prononent of a single regular air force, embracing the present USAF and naval aviation. Last year, he served as president of the Air Force Association, which has been campaigning for such a merger.

A protest against Johnson's appointment as Secretary of Defense was made to the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday. The group is considering the nomination. The protest came from Inventor Lester Barlow.

Barlow was in the news prior to Pearl Harbor, when he charged War Department chiefs were ignoring a new, high explosive he had developed, which outstripped anything then known. He staged a highly publicized test of the explosive at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground, but none of the staked-out goats he promised to destroy were injured.

Senate Armed Services Commitee Chairman Millard Tydings (D., Md.), said Barlow complained to the committee behind closed doors that when Johnson was Assistant Secretary of War during this period there were repeated violations of the neutrality act. Tydings said his committee probably will act on Johnson's nomination next Tuesday, without hearings.

ment powers, came under new fire yesterday at the Senate hearing.

Mrs. Joselle Rhodes, president of the Arizona Property Owners Association, told the committee it should pass a law to "fine Mr. Tighe Woods and put him in jail when he flagrantly violates the truth and execution of the law."

Mrs. Rhodes demanded an end to the controls which she called "Communistic." But she added that if they are renewed "we (landlords) ask for a subsidy the same as the farmers, the copper mines and other private interests (whose rights) have diminished under war measures."

Glenwood J. Sherrard, a representative of the American Hotel Association, told the Senators that a provision of the House bill to recontrol residential hotel accommodations would result in "widespread unemployment, foreclosures and bankruptcy."

The Senate group also received a proposal for ending rent controls on a sliding scale. Nicholas J. Schorn, a Detroit landlord, suggested that starting April 1 dwellings renting for $150 a month or more, be decontrolled. The next month those renting for $140 would be freed, etc., until all ceilings were removed by July 1, 1950.

Hawaii, Alaska Bills Approved

The House Public Lands Committee yesterday overwhelmingly approved bills to make Hawaii and Alaska the nation's 49th and 50th States.

Only one vote was recorded against each of the twin measures to add two stars to the United States flag.

Representative Toby Morris (D., Okla.), said he is against making Hawai a State because it does not touch the continent.

Representative Fred Marshall (D., Min.), who said he favors Alaskan Statehood, voted against it because he didn't think there should be any difference in the committee vote on the two bills.

75-Cent Minimum Wage Bill Faces First Major Test Today

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Administration's 75-cents-an-hour minimum-wage program faces its first major test this morning, when the House Labor Committee reports out a bill amending the Wage-Hour Act.

Proponents of the measure believe the Truman-indorsed proposal to lift the present floor on wages from 40 cents an hour to 75 cents will be voted out without change.

This belief—or hope—is based on a nose count of the 25 committee members. There are 16 Democrats and 9 Republicans on the committee, but four of the Democrats are from the South. Three of the Southern Democrats—Graham Barden (N. C.), John S. Wood (Ga.), and Wingate Lucas (Tex.)—are expected to vote with the Republicans for a wage floor of 60 to 65 cents.

Administration forces believe—or hope—that the fourth Southern Democrat, Hugo Sims (S. C.), will cast his vote with the Truman Democrats.

Thus it may turn out to be that Sims will have the determing vote on the wage-hour legislation.

Vote Called Omen

Several members of the committee believe—and privately say it aloud—that the vote on this piece of Administration legislation will just about disclose the future vote the committee on the Truman-sponsored labor bill.

After numerous sessions, public and closed, the House Labor Committee plans to vote on the wage-hour bill this morning at 9. All members have promised to be on hand for the balloting, according to Chairman John Lesinski (D., Mich.). Representative Adam C. Powell (D., N. Y.), suffering from a back ailment and wearing a cast, plans to come here from New York City, cast and all.

Already, the bill has undergone alteration within the committee. At a special session last night, the committee voted to permit exempting the food processing industry from the minimum wage provisions for a period of 14 weeks.

Chief Issue Slated For Today

But the chief issue—a national floor on wages in most of American business and industry—is still to be fought out this morning. Instead of a new floor of 75 cents, Representative Sam McConnell (R., Pa.) would tie the minimum wage to the cost-of-living, and start off with a 65-cent level. A similar suggestion is to be offered by Representative Wood starting from 60 cents.

Administration forces believe—or hope—they can vote down both amendments and come up with a 75-cent minimum wage.

Prison Term Given Hiss Case Witness

New York, March 8 (AP).—A refusal to answer Federal grand jury questions in the Alger Hiss case today brought a six-month prison term to a 65-year-old Californian.

Rosen

Judge Simon K. Rifkind imposed the contempt of court sentence on William Rosen of Santa Monica.

Rosen declined to tell the jury anything about a 1929 Ford roadster which he allegedly bought in 1936 from a Washington automobile firm on the same day Hiss turned it in to the company.

Hiss, former State Department official indicted on charges of perjury, told the House Committee on Un-American Activities last summer that he gave the car to Whittaker Chambers in 1934 or 1935 and had no recollection of getting it back although he might have done so.

Chambers, one-time Communist courier, has named Hiss as the source of Government documents which he said he took to Soviet agents.

Rosen's attorney said the prison sentence would be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

The Californian appeared before the jury three days. Last week Rifkind told him he must answer the questions.

Rosen's attorney maintained his client feared he might incriminate himself.

A professor in a Midwestern university warned the House Committee on Un-American Activities about Judith Coplon, now charged with being in a spy conspiracy, as far back as 1946.

Representative John S. Wood (D., Ga.), chairman of the committee, said in a formal statement yesterday that the professor named Miss Coplon as one of four "pro-Soviet" Department of Justice employes who had "submarined" certain investigations refered to the Foreign Agents Registration Section.

Miss Coplon, 27, was an analyst in this section when she was arrested in New York last Friday night along with Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, a Russian engineer on the staff of the United Nations. They were charged with conspiracy to commit espionage to remove Government documents relating to national defense.

Wrote Committee in 1946

Chairman Wood did not name the Midwestern university professor who wrote to the Un-American Affairs Committee on September 3, 1946.

"The professor," he said, "stated that the employes of the Registration Section of the Department of Justice were adopting a policy that everything pro-Soviet was considered legitimate activity, and that everything anti-Soviet was condemned by the employes of the Registration Section.

"Four names of persons who were employed in this section at that time were given by the informant. One of them was Judith Coplon."

Required to Register

Under the law, foreign agents or their representatives in the United States are required to register with the Department of Justice. Miss Coplon, a graduate of Barnard College, was an analyst in the Registration Section and was valued because of her knowledge of foreign languages.

"The professor stated," Chairman Wood said, "that certain investigations referred to the Foreign Agents Registration Section of the department were in fact being submarined, and knowledge of them was being prevented from reaching higher officials of the Justice Department."

He said the professor furnished information about certain individuals who should have registered as foreign agents but never did so. This, he represented the professor as saying, was because of "manipulation" by certain individuals connected with the Foreign Agents Registration Section of the Department of Justice.

Chairman Wood said the files showed that the Un-American Affairs Committee requested certain information from the Department of Justice regarding the foreign agents registration section. This request, he said, was referred to one of the four persons in the section about whom the midwestern professor had complained.

"Never Furnished"

At any rate, he said, "the information requested was never furnished."

The Georgia law-maker said that legislation was now being prepared which would be directed at individuals active in espionage rings and individuals who form Communist cells within the Government.

He said that the clerical staff of the committee was now trying to answer a backlog of 250,000 communications from the American public.

Hearings soon would be held, he said, on the proposed new laws.

Woman Still in Jail

Meantime, Miss Coplon still was in jail in New York, having failed to raise $20,000 bail. Gubitchev, the Russian engineer, also was in jail, the Soviet government having failed thus far to put up $100,000 bail.

A New York grand jury will resume its inquiry into the espionage case today, listening first to one of the FBI agents who arrested the couple last Friday.

Over the weekend it was reported that a roundup of other suspected Government employes would grow out of the Coplon-Gubitchev case.

From all indications, however, Miss Coplon had no confederates in the Government service. In any case, it was evident yesterday that no wholesale arrests of Government workers was in prospect.

Brown was stricken seriously Sunday and was forced to quit the stage show "Harvey."

Dr. Louis Chodoff and physicians at Jefferson Hospital said they have used the new drug chloroquine with great success on Brown and that he will be ready to take his place in the show when it opens Monday at Richmond, Va.

'Lone Eagle' Not so Lonely, Now...

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

Odom Tops Light Plane Mark In 5000-Mi. Hawaii-U.S. Flight

Teterboro, N. J., March 8 (AP).—Lanky Bill Odom broke the world's nonstop distance record for light planes today by stretching $75 worth of gasoline from Honolulu to Teterboro, N. J.—a distance of 5000 miles.

"It was easy," the clean-shaven, immaculate Odom said as he stepped from his single-engined plane for the first time since leaving Hickam Field, Oahu, T. H., 36 hours before.

The 29-year-old World War II ferry pilot glided his tiny plane onto a runway at Teterboro Airport at 12:06 p. m. (E.S.T.).

It was Odom's second attempt to come nonstop from Honolulu to Teterboro in his 185-horsepower Beechcraft Bonanza, "Waikiki Beech."

First Attempt Failed

Bad weather forced an end to that first flight in January. Odom landed at Oakland, Calif., some 3000 miles short of his goal but still bettering the old record set by two Russians in 1937.

Doffing his smart gray Homburg to a crowd of some 1500, Odom stepped briskly from his plane and said there was nothing to the flight.

"I feel just like a businessman coming home on an easy trip," he said.

He wore a clean white shirt, red and white tie and a gray plaid suit. He said the suit was his "lucky one" he wore when he broke the speed record for around-the-world flights by circling the globe in 73 hours, 5 minutes and 11 seconds in 1947.

Odom said he was interested in a new global flight—this time touching at both the North and South Poles.

The career pilot said he was worried only twice during his solo flight from Honolulu. Once was when he found ice forming on his wings over the Rocky Mountains. The second time was when his engine suddenly went dead over Chicago.

The Chicago incident, he said, was the result of an exhausted gas tank. He said he was talking into his microphone at the time and didn't notice that one tank had run dry.

He switched tanks quickly, but not until the red and silver plane had dropped into a cloud bank.

"I had a helluva time finding the opening again," he said.

Odom landed with 14 gallons of the original 288 gallons of gas still in his tank. Three extra tanks had been fitted to the plane. Odom said that was the only extra equipment the monoplane needed.

He had no automatic pilot in the plane and said he needed none. He was able to eat, shave and change his shirt merely by letting go of the controls and depending on the plane's own stabilization.

Odom said he had "a special diet" which consisted mainly of chicken sandwiches, bouillon, chocolate bars, orange juice and water.

He said he needed no coffee or medical tablets to keep awake. "All I did was listen to the radio," he explained.

The flier said he undertook the Honolulu-Teterboro flight to "show that small planes can do a job." The flight was sponsored by the plane's manufacturer.

The exact distance of the record-breaking flight awaits an official check on Odom's instruments. The sponsors said it would be somewhere between 4999 and 5210 statute miles.

Caracas, Venezuela, March 8 (AP).—Jose Rafael Pocaterra has been named Ambassador to Washington.

Pocaterra, former Venezuelan ambassador to Rio de Janeiro, represented his country's military junta in Washington after the November 24 revolt, which overthrew President Romulo Gallegos. Later the United States announced recognition of the new regime.

$1400 Awarded For 2d Operation In Day, by Error

London, March 8 (U.P.).—A 60-year-old woman who said she was operated upon twice in the same day—once by mistake—won $1400 damages in a London court yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Coleman charged that after she underwent an abdominal operation at Hammersmith Hospital, attendants wheeled her out of the operating room, and then back again a few minutes later. She said they mistook her for another patient awaiting a thyroid operation.

The doctor, she charged, began operating again before he realized the mistake.

Sergeant Cleared Of Molesting Boy While Babysitting

Air Forces Sergt. Ralph S. Willetts, 29, was acquitted yesterday of taking indecent liberties with a 5-year-old boy he was minding as a babysitter.

A District Court jury found Willetts, who is stationed at Bolling Field and has no criminal record, was innocent. He was represented by Attorney Robert L. Marshall.

Visiting Judge Ben Moore advised the jury to scrutinize the child's testimony with care because of his tender years. There was no witness to the alleged acts other than the boy, but Willetts produced six character witnesses in his behalf.

New Anti-Red Campaign Opened in Congress

A new anti-Communist drive opened in Congress yesterday.

Two bills were introduced to force Communists and Communist-front organizations to register with the Government.

Neither attempts to outlaw the Communist Party, but each aims to spotlight its members and activities.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) introduced one bill in the Senate. It would set up a three-member board, named by the President, to determine in open hearings when an organization must register with the Attorney General, identify its members, and explain its propaganda activities.

Senator Mundt (R., S. Dak.) and Representative Nixon (R., Calif.) introduced in Senate and House a revised version of the anti-Communist bill they sponsored last year.

This measure also would force registration of Communist organizations and their membership.

The Mundt-Nixon bill also would set up a three-member "subversive activities commission." The members would be chosen by the President from the Department of State, Commerce Department and military establishment. They would work with the Attorney General in administering the law.

One section of the bill outlaws "peacetime espionage," Mundt said, and "requires the Communist Party to sever its umbilical cord with Russia or refrain from acts designed to establish totalitarianism in this country."

It would waive the statute of limitations on treasonable acts in time of peace.

"The new bill," Mundt said, "does not outlaw the Communist Party, but it set up specific regulations forcing its operations out into the open."

Like the Ferguson bill, it would deny Government employment and passports to members of organizations listed as subversive by the three-member board.

The Ferguson bill would provide fines of $2000 to $5000 and imprisonment of two to five years for violations.

60 Excused In Reds' Trial

New York, March 8 (AP).—Sixty of the 80 members of the first jury panel called in the trial of 11 U. S. Communist leaders had been excused as court adjourned today.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina brought in a second group of 90 persons as it became obvious the first panel might not supply the needed jurors.

All of those excused pleaded that service in a lengthy trial would cause extreme hardship in their business or personal life.

One talesman, Joseph Young, an insurance man, gave the "time element" as his first reason for wanting to be excused but added:

"My second reason is my absolute contempt of the individuals here charged."

He was waved from the jury box and reprimanded by the judge who told the other panel members:

"It is not proper for jurors to make such statements, which I consider outbursts. It is not fair to the defendants and it is not fair to the Government."

No jurors had been chosen yet as the session ended—the second devoted to jury selection. Medina asked those who sought not to serve to come forward for questioning first. Those who were willing to sit on the jury had not yet been examined.

Earlier Medina temporarily cut an hour of the daily time the court sits in the trial.

The judge observed that he expected selection of the jury to take at least a week. During this time, he said, court will start at 11 a. m. and quit at 4 p. m. since "I have become grievously fatigued during the long hours I spent from morning until evening examining exhibits."

The defense introduced 490 exhibits in its seven-week attack on the Federal jury system which ended last Friday with Medina's rejection of it. During this period, court generally met at 10:30 a. m. and adjourned at 4:30 p. m.

Stronger T-H Act Asked by Business

Two spokesmen for business yesterday asked Congress not only to retain the Taft-Hartley Act, but to strengthen and extend some of the provisions of the Labor Management Relations Act.

This management viewpoint on labor legislation was presented to a House labor subcommittee by Hoyt P. Steele, of Des Plaines, Ill., vice president of the Benjamin Electric Manufacturing Co., representing the United States Chamber of Commerce; and Jack Garrett Scott, general counsel, National Association of Motor Bus Operators.

Steele said that the Chamber—which includes 3050 local organizations and 1,250,000 businessmen-members—believes the Administration's bill repealing the Taft-Hartley Act and replacing it with an "improved" Wagner act is an unfair piece of legislation.

The chamber spokesman charged that the Lesinski bill—backed by the Administration and major labor organizations—fails to provide equality of obligation and treatment for employer and employes, and in addition, fails to give paramount consideration to the public interest.

"Our basic position is that the present law—Taft-Hartley Act—should be retained," Steele declared. He suggested strengthening the act by removing the 80-day limit on court injunctions forcing a cooling off period to precede strikes of a national emergency nature.

Steele also urged banning of union shops, as well as the closed shop which is already prohibited by the Taft-Hartley Act. He recommended regulation in the use of industry-wide bargaining between unions and management. He would widen the definitions of "featherbedding," already outlawed in the present law.

General Counsel Scott, of the Motor Bus Operators, declared that the Taft-Hartley Act has worked out well in the intercity bus industry. He, too, urged the outlawing of the union shop, permitted under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Both Steele and Scott argued for the independence of the Conciliation Service, presently autonomous. The Lesinski bill would transfer the service to the Labor Department.

The second day of 10 hearing days scheduled by the House Labor Subcommittee—headed by Representative Augustine Kelley (D., Pa.)—was again one long hearing unbroken by the traditional lunch hour. The hearing ended at 3 p. m. and will resume this morning at 10.

Miners End Sitdown in Frigid Shaft

Gallitzin, Pa., March 8 (AP).—A sitdown strike of 21 miners who remained underground in an unheated and unlighted mine shaft 32 hours ended late today. Shivering and hungry, the grimy holdouts emerged after previously refusing the entreaties of United Mine Worker officials urging them to submit their dispute through regular channels.

A meeting of the union local to discuss the grievance was set for tonight.

The dispute arose over division of work between the Bennington B mine and the smaller Nu mine operated by the company. Thomas Knee, committeeman of Local 1056, said the Bennington workers took issue when nine Nu mine employes were called to work Friday, supposedly an idle day for both mines.

Cross Nominated As ICC Member

Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville, Ill., was nominated by President Truman yesterday to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The White House said Cross would serve the remainder of the term of the late George M. Barnard ending December 31, 1950.

Priests Dig Graves Fifth Day of Strike

New York, March 8 (AP).—Francis Cardinal Spellman, for the fifth successive day, supervised a group of 200 priests and seminarians in the task of burying the dead at Calvary Cemetery, Queens, as a gravediggers' strike went into its eighth week.

Since 240 CIO gravediggers, all Catholics, walked off their jobs more than 1000 bodies have accumulated.

Some have been buried but mainly the seminarians have busied themselves with burial of the newly arrived dead.

Case of 'Axis Sally' Going to Jury Today

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

A District Court jury will begin weighing the fate of Miss Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars, 48, today at noon.

Following final arguments yesterday, Federal Judge Edward M. Curran announced he would begin a two-hour instruction to the panel at 10 a. m. today, after which deliberations will start.

Defense Attorney James J. Laughlin yesterday concluded an all-encompassing 5½-hour summation of his case with a reference to an oath of allegiance to Germany allegedly taken by Miss Gillars after being temporarily barred from the German radio.

"That act expatriated the defendant," Laughlin asserted, "and she should be acquitted on that ground if no other."

(Under the law only citizens may be tried for treason to the United States. At the beginning of the trial it was stipulated by both the prosecution and the defense that Miss Gillars is an American citizen.)

Lack of Corroboration Cited

But in rebuttal Prosecutor John M. Kelley, jr., reminded the jury that the defense had produced no one besides the defendant who was present when the oath was allegedly signed.

Kelley recalled that Miss Gillars had testified the oath was written in German by a friend named "Paul."

"She said translated it meant 'something like an oath of allegiance,'" Kelley said sarcastically. He then reminded the jury that Johannes Schmidt-Hansen, the official to whom the oath was supposed to have been presented, had testified he could recall no such incident.

Laughlin repeated earlier assertions that the "broadcasts were forced" on Miss Gillars. He asked the jury to remember that "the war has been over for four years and not a life has been lost as a result of the broadcasts."

Defense Refers to 'Tyranny'

He assailed the Justice Department for alleged indignities suffered by Miss Gillars following her arrest in Europe in 1946 by military authorities.

"The only way you can repudiate such tyranny is to acquit this woman," he declared.

"This lady fought communism in season and out of season," Laughlin shouted at another point.

At other times during his discourse, he referred to the Tilden-Hayes of 1876 as showing the value of compromise. He also alluded to Sodom and Gomorrah, the Atlantic Pact, the money being spent under the Marshall plan, and the right of free speech.

Concluding, he walked slowly to Miss Gillars side, placed his hand on her shoulder and addressing the jury said: "I ask you to look upon this defendant—and now I give you Miss Gillars." The defendant glanced briefly at the panel and turned away.

Kelley, in rebuttal, alternated between sarcasm and a tone of indignation.

Prosecutor Is Sardonic

"I'm not Mr. Laughlin's equal in matters of history and the Bible," Kelley opened sardonically, referring to his opponent's frequent discourses on American History and Biblical allusions.

"There is an old saying among lawyers that if you are afraid to talk about facts—give them a long speech with plenty of history—if you're lucky they may forget about facts . . ."

Asserting that Laughlin's charges of mistreatment accorded Miss Gillars was an attempt to make "a whipping boy" out of the Justice Department, Kelley reminded the jury that such allegations had nothing to do with treason—"the issue at stake."

Referring to threats alleged to have been made to the defendant by her superiors, Kelley thundered: "There is not one word of evidence in this entire record before you that this woman was threatened with death or a concentration camp!"

Taking up Laughlin's assertion that the right of free speech gave Miss Gillars sanction to attack Roosevelt, Jews and the British Empire, Kelley shouted:

"He has tried to blind your eyes with a smoke screen. He didn't remind you the statements were made not in the United States but in Germany at a time of war with the United States, into German microphones and uttering German propaganda that Germans saw fit to pay for."

Board Approves Summer Session For Bethesda High

An eight-week summer semester at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School from June 27 to August 19 was approved yesterday by the county school board.

Both morning and afternoon sessions will be held. Tuition of $15 per credit will be charged. Out-of-county students must pay a $10 registration fee. Transportation will be furnished to pupils from the Silver Spring area.

The board also accepted seven teacher resignations and made 13 appointments at its regular meeting in Rockville. A delegation from Burtonsville requested a new elementary school and a parent delegation requested establishment of a kindergarten at the Colesville School.

4 Clergymen Given Life in Sofia Trial

Sofia, March 8 (U.P.).—Four of Bulgaria's leading Protestant clergymen were sentenced to life imprisonment today on charges of espionage, treason and black market currency dealings.

Nine others received prison terms of from 5 to 15 years. Two, sentenced to one year each, were put on three years' parole and freed at once.

In addition, the 15 defendants were deprived of civil rights for varying terms, deprived of some or all property, fined an over-all total of about 10 million leva ($30,000) and ordered to pay court costs.

Defendants and the prosecution announced their acceptance of the sentences, so there will be no appeal.

The government is now expected to start prosecution of up to 50 more of the total of 138 Protestant pastors in Bulgaria.

Those sentenced today were:

Life imprisonment—Vassil Georgiev Zyapkov, 48, Congregationalist, ranking Protestant pastor in Bulgaria and representative of the United Evangelical Churches for Bulgaria; Yanko Nicolov Ivanov, 48, supreme supervisor of the Methodist Church; Nicola Mihailov Naumov, 49, secretary of the Baptist Church Union board, and Georgi Nicolov Chernev, 46, chief of the Pentecostal Church.

Fifteen years—Lambri Marinov Mishkov, 41, Congregationalist; Georgi Nicolov Vassev, 48, Baptist; Haralan Ivanov Popov, 41, Pentecostal, and Zdravko Ivanov Bezlov, 28, Methodist.

Ten years—Yoncho Nicolov Dryanov, 41, Pentecostal; Ivan Angelov Stankulov, 44, Baptist, and Zahari Spassov Raychef, 50, Baptist.

Six years and eight months—Mitko Mateev Dimitrov, 39, Church of Christ.

Five years—Ladin Ivanov Popov, 36, Pentecostal. He denied the charge of espionage and was not convicted on it.

One year, but freed at once in the courtroom on three years' parole—Angell Georgiev Dinev, 40, Pentecostal, and Alexander Georgiev Zahariev, 74, Methodist.

Haralan and Ladin Popov are brothers. Yanko is a son-in-law of bent, aged Zahariev.

The 13 men facing prison terms were taken back at once to the high-walled central prison to start serving their terms.

Each defendant was assessed $255 for court costs.

Import Shifts

Dollar-Saving Plan Offered For Europe

Paris, March 8 (AP).—A western European economic group proposed today that Marshall Plan nations cut down their 1949-50 imports from America as other sources of supply are found. The group said "the percentage reduction made by each country need not be the same."

The proposal was published by the executive committee of the Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

The aim would be to cut the dollar debts of 19 nations or areas in the European Recovery Program and balance their economies. This would mean using more of other kinds of money and barter systems.

The committee is made up of officials of Britain, France, Belgium, Sweden, Turkey, Italy, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

Bizonia Idle Top 1,000,000

Berlin, March 8 (U.P.).—Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, reported today there are now more than one million unemployed persons in the combined American and British zones of Germany.

Clay disclosed in his semimonthly report to Washington that the number of unemployed in the two zones had climbed to 1,019,000 on February 15, highest since the occupation began. The figure represents an increase of 77,000 since the first of the year.

He reported also that industrial production in the occupation zones rose in January to 80 per cent of the 1936 base period level, a rise of 1 point from December and an increase of 30 per cent since the currency reform was instituted last June.

Clay noted, however, that the one percentage point gain was the smallest for any month since the currency reform.

The report said about half the unemployed were receiving insurance benefits and that another 250,000 were getting unemployment relief.

Dulles Denies Reds Plan War

to judge, he said, "the Soviet government, under conditions now prevailing, does not contemplate the use of war as an instrument of its national policy. I do not know any responsible high official, military or civilian, in this government or any government, who believes that the Soviet state now plans conquest by open military aggression.

"They maintain a great military establishment. They encourage fear of it and allow Communists elsewhere to terrorize by picturing the Red army on its march. But for actual expansive operations, it has seemed up to now that Soviet leaders counted primarily on the Communist Party and its tactics of propaganda, penetration, sabotage, terrorism and, where circumstances are propitious, civil war."

Moscow Reports

New Shift Made in Red Cabinet

London (Wednesday) March 9 (U.P.).—Moscow Radio said today that Alexander Ilarionovich Yefremov had been named a deputy premier and thus had been freed "of the responsibilities" of minister for the machine tool building industry.

This new change in the Russian Cabinet followed the pattern of last week in which Deputy Premiers Viacheslav Molotov and A. I. Mikoyan were relieved of their duties as foreign minister and foreign trade minister.

Anatoli Ivanovich Kostousov, Moscow said, was named to replace Yefremov as machine tool minister.

Vice premiers normally have supervisory responsibility over individual cabinet members.

World Communists Mark Women's Day

London, March 8 (U.P.).—Russia led the world's Communists in celebrating International Women's Day today, a project the Marxists have taken up with vigor.

The Soviet line was to compare the "emancipated" Russian woman to her "capitalist" sister.

Trud, organ of the Russian trade unions, by implication showed that American women are so beaten down they have turned to alcohol. Trud quoted a New York newspaper as saying there are 600,000 female alcoholics in the United States.

The Communist newspaper Pravda said "democratic" laws in America deprive women of their most elementary rights.

"Especially acute in the U. S. is the problem of wages for equal labor," Pravd said. "Millions of toiling women get 30 to 40 per cent less pay for the same work as men. In some States women cannot dispose of their own wages which legally belong to their husbands."

Pact Informally Approved by Senate Group

The pact, in major respects, follows the Western Hemisphere Defense Pact, which was signed at Rio de Janeiro in 1947 and became effective December 3, 1948.

During his meeting with Senate committee members yesterday, Secretary Acheson apparently convinced them the treaty would not interfere with the power of Congress to declare war.

Presumably, he also satisfied the Senators about effects of the foreign military assistance legislation that is now being drafted at the State Department, to bolster the pact.

The aid bill is expected to seek about one billion dollars worth of military aid for pact signers, and about a billion dollars more for nonpact countries such as Greece, Turkey and Korea. This bill will be sent to Congress after the treaty is submitted for ratification.

On Sunday, Senators Walter F. George (D., Ga.) and Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) served notice they would demand substantial estimates of that military aid before supporting ratification of the defense pact. Other Congressmen have criticized "secrecy" of the treaty talk.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), said yesterday that he does not think the State Department "deserves criticism for any failure to make public day-to-day terms of a treaty while it is in the process of negotiation.

"All I can say is that the text is not yet in final form but, from what I know of the progress being made, I'm very confident that the fears which have been expressed about its prospective form will be dissipated by publication of the text."

Commented Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, jr. (R., Mass.), "It looks as though we are getting a good insurance policy against World War III."

Senator Connally said that "as far as we are concerned all the work has been done" on the treaty. Asked if he thought it would satisfy everyone, he noted dryly, "I don't think it will satisfy Mr. Stalin."

When signed, the treaty will go to Congress and the Parliaments of the other countries for approval.

At a National Press Club luncheon yesterday, Norway's Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne declared, "Never in history has there been an alliance so absolutely peaceful in purpose and aims as the proposed Atlantic pact."

Explaining Norway's difficult choice in joining in the pact talks without participation of all the Scandinavian countries—Sweden having chosen to attempt to maintain the same neutrality she had in World War II after breakdown of attempts at a Scandinavian defense pact—he declared:

"I think there are times for caution and times for bold action . . . Norway learned her lesson in 1940. We do not believe that neutrality today has any relation to the facts of life."

While Norway, which has a common 122-mile border with Russia, rejected an offer to join in a nonaggression pact with Russia, he said he saw no reason why sending American military aid to Norway should be regarded by Russia as a provocative act.

"I think she may have done that (sent arms) herself, with her friends," he said blandly.

Syria Turns Down Armistice Parleys

Rhodes, March 8 (U.P.).—Syria has turned down the invitation of Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations Palestine mediator, to negotiate an armistice with Israel, reliable quarters said tonight.

These sources reported this development placed the current Israeli-Lebanese talks in "a delicate position," since Syria and Lebanon normally coordinate their diplomatic actions, and since Syrian soldiers are based on Lebanese soil.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the Israeli and Trans-Jordan delegations met separately with Dr. Bunche today to discuss the demarcation lines on the approaches to Jerusalem.

Tel Aviv, March 8 (NYHT).—Prime Minister David Ben Gurion presented today a detailed foreign affairs and domestic development program which will guide the newly selected coalition government of Israel.

At the first Tel Aviv session of Knesset, or constituent assembly, Ben Gurion proposed a four-year plan of internal development and immigrant absorption as the basis of his new "austerity" regime.

The 10-point platform, upon which he will seek an assembly vote of confidence for his new four-party cabinet, reaffirmed Israel's traditional neutrality in foreign affairs, but promised some radical changes in the State's internal life.

U. S. Plans Snails' War In Marianas

The Washington Post

Cannibal snail shell (right) is dwarfed by that of the giant East African snail, which it devours

Nothing makes the mouth of a cannibal snail water more than the sight of a nice fat giant snail.

The cannibal snail is no bigger than a peanut, but his gastric delight is the giant East African snail, which is about 20 times larger, the size of a large rat.

In Africa, the natural habitat of both species, the cannibal snail has to do a little grubbing around for his giant snail steaks.

Now, a selected few of the little fellows are to be given a chance to eat themselves silly, the Smithsonian Institution disclosed yesterday.

Scientists will take them to the Marianas, American mandated islands in the Pacific, where transplanted giant East African snails are thicker than dust under the rug in a boarding house.

How did the giant snails get to the Marianas, you ask?

The Japanese, who took over the islands under mandate after World War I, imported them as a prospective food source. The Japanese liked them, but the natives didn't.

The giant snails found the environment perfect, and multiplied rapidly. When our Navy took over the islands, they had become a serious pest.

Often their slimy bodies covered roads so thickly it was dangerous to drive a jeep at night. A corps of them would clean up a garden in one evening.

So the cannibal snails find themselves happier in the Marianas than a hungry man turned loose in an automat with a 50-pound bag of nickels.

If the cannibal snails should lose their appetites after being taken to the Marianas, there is an alternative plan. The giant snails will be swept up by the millions, dried, and sent to Japan for food.

Paris Offers War-End Plan

Paris, March 8 (AP).—France today made a deal with a former emperor that she hopes will end the long war in Indo-China.

Under the arrangement, Bao Dai, ex-emperor of the Indo-Chinese state of Annam, will go back to the Far Eastern colony April 25.

He will take with him promises of increased independence for the Indo-Chinese people.

Under the tentative accord, the three states of Annam, Tonkin and Cochin-China can merge, either into a Viet-Namese monarchy or a republic. Viet-Nam is the Indo-Chinese name for the three states.

Exiled China Cabinet Told To Return

Nanking, March 8 (U.P.).—Parliament today ordered China's "refugee" cabinet to return to Nanking, as Acting President Li Tsung-jen began his search for a new premier to replace Dr. Sun Fo.

Sun resigned early today in a surprise surrender to legislative critics of his policies—and espcially atack on his "unwarranted, disorderly" removal of the executive yan (cabinet) to the southern part of Canton.

Several government leaders have already arrived here, and the legislative yuan (parliament) today adopted a bill instructing the others to return at once.

No decision had been reached on a new Premier, but it was believed certain the choice would fall either on Ho Ying-chin or Chang Chih-chung. Both possible choices are best known as military leaders.

1000 U. S. Dependents Evacuated From China

The Army announced yesterday all dependents of American military personnel in China have been removed from areas threatened by Communist invasion.

About 1000 persons, mostly families of military personnel on the American joint military advisory group at Nanking, were evacuated.

Rebels Seen in Control of Nearly All Burma

London, March 8 (U.P.).—Fragmentary reports from Burma indicated today that Thakin Nu's government has lost control of most of the country to rebel forces.

Tight censorship blocked detailed reports, but the London offices of British firms in Burma said they received messages relayed from India indicating Thakin Nu's government controls only a 12-mile radius around Rangoon.

They said the initiative now appears to be completely in the hands of the Karens and other insurgent groups.

New danger to Burma was reportedly developing on the Siam border, which uncensored dispatches said was entirely under Communist control.

The Burma Oil Co. office here said its reports indicated Yenangyaung, chief oil town in central Burma, is now in insurgent hands.

Several British companies, including Steel Brothers, Burma's largest industrial group, are reported to have chartered airplanes to fly their British staffs to Calcutta.

British Foreign Office sources said Thakin Nu had sent "a negative reply" to the Commonwealth government's suggestion for a conciliation mission to be sent to Burma.

Wardman Death Was Natural, Not Suicide

Builder Harry Wardman died of natural causes on March 18, 1938. The Washington Post regrets erroneously reporting his death as a suicide in a story concerning a Court of Appeals decision.

This department paid a visit to the Continental Balalaika not so long ago for a look-see at the show, a chat with dancer Ira Ari and chanteuse Helene Emee.

A letter is at hand, however, which brings to mind something she said the other evening—namely, that she writes poetry like mad.

Helene Emee

Now, it isn't often that a dancer writes poetry. Here is a sample of her verse:

"The wind carries my loneliness for love;
The moon reflects warmth in my eyes;
And everything without you is hopeless.
Life calls you to come here, my dearest."

It is only fair to state that Ira writes her poetic efforts in Portuguese, and that the quatrain above was written in that language originally.

The thing she does best of all, doubtless, is dance. Her Afro-macamba, she says, is a native dance learned in Amazonas, Brazil—one that is spiritual. The thought comes to mind during a performance of it that an American Indian would trade plenty of wampum for the feathered headdress she wears.

Helene Emee, on the other hand, appears in the most modish of frocks for her singing stints. In this she may be catching a cue from Hildegarde (currently at the Statler's Embassy Room). the star she makes no bones about wishing to emulate.

Once again at the Mayflower (Hotel) Lounge are Florian Zabach, his violin and his orchestra, and the dance team of Artini and Consuelo, who entertained the President and White House correspondents last Saturday night.

It's the second engagement at the lounge for them within a short period of time. Their tenure, according to the management, is indefinite. They opened Monday after being returned "at the insistent demand of their hundreds of admirers."

Currently at the Casino Royal is a young man named Jack Marlin with a highly entertaining repertoire of song impersonations.

Marlin, equipped with a better-than-average voice, uses it to sound more like Crosby and Jolson than they do. He also works in materia of his own, all of which adds up to an enjoyable act.

MEMORABILIA . . . Leonard Mitchell, one-half of the Olmsted Restaurant, reports that the establishment's State Week program is going over better than expected. James Prahms, the other half, says he had a heck of a time figuring out a food specialty beloved in California . . . Charlie Ventura and his poll-winning band—the best among hoppers—opened last night at the Club Bali for a week's engagement. The outfit won top honors in both the Metronome and Down Beat polls as the Number One small band in the land.—ROBERT P. JORDAN.

Milton S. Kronheim, jr., Nominated for Municipal Judgeship

velop names of candidates for submission to the judicial selections committee.

Kronheim, of 3701 Chesapeake st. nw., is th son of Milton S. Kronheim, sr., Washington liquor wholesaler, and contributor to Democratic party war chests. His name was suggested in some quarters in December, 1947, for the Municipal Court judgeship left vacant by the death of Judge Nathan R. Margold.

His name was among some 25 recommended to the Bar Association judicial selection committee and he was considered a leading contender. However, he was not one of the three recommended by the committee. On of the thre, Frank H. Myers, was appointed by President Truman.

Clark told a reporter that he had recommended Kronheim because he appeared the best candidate left among those considered for the Margold vacancy.

"This is not a political appointment," Clark added. "Because of the crowded condition of the court we had to take some quick action."

Clark said that he called last week for the files on candidates considered for the 1947 vacancy.

The Attorney General said he found in the records that several Bar Association members, judges as well as Capitol Hill Democrats, had indorsed Kronheim, who appeared to be a "good man" with substantial courtroom experience. Nobody had "been in to see me about Kronheim" since McMahon's death, Clark added.

He noted that the Bar Association letter requesting deferment of an appointment until the group made its recommendation arrived after Kronheim's appointment had been approved by the President.

"I will continue to cooperate with the bar, even though we sometimes don't agree, and generally follow along with them pretty closely," he said.

Kronheim is a member of the law firm of Donohue, Kaufmann and Kronheim, with spacious offices in a converted house once occupied by Daniel Webster, also something of a lawyer.

The firm was formed in February, 1946, after Kronheim left the Navy with the rank of lieutenant commander.

He served 14 months in the Caribbean as communications officer with an air scouting squadron. The rest of his 3½ years in the Navy were spent at Floyd Bennett Field in New York, where he was legal officer; at the War College, and as assistant recorder of the naval clemency and prison inspection board in Washington.

He passed the bar examination in 1947 and started his legal association with F. Joseph Donohue, a present partner.

A graduate of the Cooke School here and Staunton Military Academy, he received a B. A. degree in economics at Johns Hopkins University and an LL.B degree from Georgetown University Law School.

An 186-pound 6-footer, he doesn't smoke or drink—"not even coffee."

For 20 years he's dropped around regularly to play handball at the Jewish Community Center. He likes Gilbert and Sullivan music, and has memorized the lyrics of an aria from "Pagliacci," though he says he has no singing voice.

He took up flying after he left the services. After two solo hours he decided to give it up because "the way I did it wasn't safe."

He lives with his wife, the former Tillie Segal of Vinton, Iowa, and three children, Richard, 8; Nancy, 5, and Robert, 2, in a three-bedroom house.

Clothier's Family Offers Reward For His Slayer

The family of Charles Scheer, 48, clothing merchant, whose death last December is still being investigated, has offered a reward of $500 for information leading to arrest of his slayer.

In announcing the reward, Chief of Detectives Robert S. Bryant added that two homicide detail men, Detective Sergts. Richard Felber and Harold F. Huffman, have been specially assigned to the case since Scheer's death.

Scheer, who lived at 1413 Saratoga ave. ne., died of a fractured skull and brain injuries in George Washington Hospital December 4 after he had been found unconscious in his clothing store at 1100 North Capitol st.

The coroner's office said the injuries could not have been suffered in a fall.

Fairfax Village Owners Request 10 Pct. Rent Boost

A request for a flat $7-a-month, 10 per cent, increase in the rents of the 826 units of Fairfax Village apartments, 38th st. and Alabama ave. se., was filed with the District Rent Control Administration yesterday.

The Realty Management Corp., through the law firm of Barnard & Henry, filed a petition asking for the rent boost on the basis of increased cost of operations. Present rents range from $50.50 a month on a 3-room unit to $69 on a five-room apartment.

A previous request for a rent increase filed in 1947 resulted in a lengthy fight between a group of tenants and the owners.

Greeks to Try Officers For Not Ousting Rebels

Athens, March 8 (U.P.).—The War Ministry announced tonight that a Greek major general will face a court-martial for his inability to drive guerilla forces from the beleagured town of Karpenesion.

Six other senior officers, the announcement said, will be tried along with Maj. Gen. Venezianos Ketseas for their failure to recapture the town. Karpenesion was taken by the guerillas in January, and held for 20 days.

Old Gold Pieces Found

Toulouse, France, March 8 (U.P.). A box of 800-year-old gold pieces, believed to have been hidden in the days of the Crusades, was found in a cave here yesterday.

We Agree!

"I think Congress should take the taxes off oleomargarine."
"So do I, but it shouldn't be offered as butter."
"I don't quite understand what you mean."
"Well, we know butter by its golden yellow color. Should oleomargarine be colored yellow in imitation of butter, our way of identifying butter on sight would be lost."
"That's right, it would be confusing. There might come times when we'd pay for butter and get something else instead."
"True enough. It's happening now in other foods. Every few days newspapers are reporting horsemeat being sold and served as beef."

TAKE OFF TAXES—PROTECT BUTTER COLOR

The dairy farmers of the nation agree with the housewives. There should be no tax on oleomargarine. Also, there should be some positive safeguard against misrepresentation of product.

Oleomargarine manufacturers, too, are against fraud. They take protective steps in the labeling of their containers. But what means of identification is there once the product colored in imitation of BUTTER is out of its original container? What safeguard is there against fraudulent acts once the product gets beyond the manufacturers' control?

So to free the public from taxes while at the same time preventing fraud, the dairy farmers make this honest, straightforward proposal to Congress:

1. Remove all taxes and license fees on oleomargarine paid by the public and the food industry.
2. Prohibit the use of yellow color in the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine in imitation of BUTTER.

Such action would give you a free choice of products. You would get a choice between yellow BUTTER and a product not colored in imitation of BUTTER. It would prevent fraud. You would pay no tax. This is certainly a fair proposal in the public interest—your interest!

ONLY BUTTER CAN BE BUTTER—America's symbol of good living. It's a natural product churned from pure cream. Into every pound of BUTTER goes the butterfat of four pints of cream. The golden glow and concentrated goodness of cream give BUTTER that natural, delicious, creamy flavor. As a spread, in cooking, for seasoning, there's nothing like BUTTER.

Congress Receives D. C. Sales Tax Bill

McMillan (D., S. C.), in calling the Thursday meeting for sales tax action, indicated that if the revenue bill is cleared in time, the committee may also be asked to act on the $330 pay raise bill for police, firemen and teachers.

The next tax measure is designed to increase city revenues by $16,100,000 in the year starting July 1. The sales tax would take effect then if enacted by May 1, and would yield $14,900,000 in the year, based on 11 months' collections. Another $1,200,000 would come from lowering the District unincorporated business tax exemption.

When fully operating, the sales tax is estimated to produce $16,225,000 a year. The bill would offset the increase with a future annual revenue loss slightly under two million dollars starting in the fiscal year that begins July 1, 1950, by raising the personal District income tax exemption.

Decision Is a Surprise

Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.), chairman of the House group, introduced it in the House. All three members of the Senate subcommittee joined in sponsoring its introduction in the Senate—Chairman Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.), J. Allen Frear, jr., (D., Del.) and Andrew F. Schoeppel (R., Kans.).

The decision to drop for the time being the separate bill for doubling liquor levies came as a surprise since the joint subcommittees had previously announced their approval of such legislation in principle.

Representative Smith said that since that time there had been no further action on either the bill for doubling liquor taxes nor on the proposed Federal payment increase.

He voiced belief that Congress "just would not" increase the Federal payment. He said that if the new bill failed to produce sufficient revenue, the bill for doubling liquor taxes might be given new study.

Would Broaden Income Levy

With the personal income tax, the bill would broaden the levy to catch some persons who do not have to pay it now.

This would be done by striking out the present income tax language that exempts from the levy the official salaries of Federal employes who have a legal residence outside the District.

The joint subcommittees wrote language into the bill to keep congressional office staffs from having to pay the District income tax. Members of Congress and presidential employes subject to Senate confirmation and serving at the pleasure of the President would be exempt as now. Also exempt from the tax would be any employe serving on the staff of a Congressman who is a bona fide resident of the same State as his boss.

Sales tax features of the bill are the most sweeping yet sponsored by congressional committees, outdoing, for example, the Maryland sales tax which exempts medicine and some other items that would be taxed under the new District measure.

Other Features Similar

Other features are similar to those in force in Maryland, like the exemption for food for home use, and the scaling of the tax according to price.

All articles costing 13 cents or less would be exempt. Those costing 14 to 50 cents, inclusive, would be taxed a penny. There would be an additional penny tax for each additional 50 cents, or fractional part of 50 cents, on the purchase price.

The tax would apply to:

Production, fabrication or printing of tangible personal property for a price; charges for transient rooms in hotels, tourist camps and homes, inns; sales of newspaper, radio and television advertising.

The tax would also apply to:

Fuels, except when used in manufacturing, processing, assembling or refining; building materials; property leased on a permanent basis whenever the property, if sold, would be subject to the tax; candy, confectionery, liquor, beer, and sodas; coffins and caskets.

Automobiles and trailers would be taxed at the rate of 2 per cent at the time they are titled in the District.

Among those other articles exempted from the proposed tax are:

Sales to Federal, District, State and semipublic agencies (charitable, religious, educational); gasoline and other motor fuels; theater, sports and other amusement tickets; sales based on contracts drawn before the bill becomes law.

Other exemptions include:

Sales of transportation and communication service; sales of property bought by a public utility to furnish service; sales of newspapers; casual and isolated sales; sales of livestock and other agricultural supplies; food and drink sold in a dining car, airplane or boat operating in interstate commerce.

Merchants would collect the tax from buyers in cash at the time of purchase. There would be no tokens. The merchants would make monthly payments to the District of the taxes they had collected. Erased from the bill was a proposed 3 per cent commission on the amount of taxes collected by merchants to cover their collection costs.

As in Maryland, the sales tax proposed for the District would be paralleled by a "use tax"—a 2 per cent sales tax applied to articles bought outside the District for use here if they would be taxed when bought within the District.

Celler Predicts More Judges for District Court

Representative Emmanuel Celler (D., N. Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, last night predicted passage of a bill authorizing three more judges for District Court here.

Addressing the District Bar Association at the Mayflower Hotel, he said Federal judges are "pitifully underpaid" and expressed hope for enactment of a bill to increase District Court judges' salaries from $15,000 to $20,000.

Other speakers at the Association's District Court night were District Court Judges T. Alan Goldsborough and Henry A. Schweinhaut.

Flood Serious In Nebraska

By The Associated Press

Floods were serious yesterday in parts of Nebraska but elsewhere the threat was fading.

The Missouri River, which flows through eight States from northern Montana downward to southern Illinois, was harnessed by sudden, freezing cold. The Government weather station at Chicago said the freeze would last several days, permitting a gradual runoff in tributaries.

Scattered sections were inundated, however, by waters of suddenly wild tributaries of the main, large rivers.

The Big Blue River in Nebraska overflowed several city blocks at Crete. Scores of families were driven from homes as water covered a two-mile area. Emergency preparations were being made at Beatrice, Neb.

The Missouri was steadily dropping in Kansas and in Missouri.

Farm Slaying Suspect Held

been seen in a store at Brandy, on here.

Bloodhounds from a nearby State prison camp were put on the trail, but Nicodemus spotted Brown on the railroad tracks, walking north while the dogs were still more than a mile behind him.

Brown gave the officer a false name and got into the automobile, handcuffed to Nicodemus, without a struggle. When Nicodemus started to drive away, however, the short, wiry Brown grabbed for his gun, the officer said. Nicodemus said he stopped the car, dragged Brown out and the two rolled over and over on the ground for several minutes before the big trooper could subdue him.

State Police Capt. R. C. Barham said Brown confessed the killing verbally, but would not sign a written statement.

Officials said the secrecy over Brown's present whereabouts was simply a "routine precaution." They added there had been no open threats of lynching, but they weren't taking any chances. The one sure thing was that he isn't in Culpeper County jail. It is undergoing alterations and has no tenants.

Despite Brown's contention that he "didn't remember" raping Mrs. Brown, the 21-year-old mother of two identified him today as the man who had raped her outside her home about 2 a. m. after her husband was shot. The dead man worked at William Smith's dairy, 3 miles east of Culpeper on Route No. 3, and about 70 miles southwest of Washington.

The FBI reported in Washington that Thomas Brown had been paroled from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta las October after serving nearly three years for "assault to rape." He had been originally sentenced to 20 years by a court-martial in England in 1944, the FBI said.

Murphy Arrives Here To Set Up New Office

Ambasasdor Robert D. Murphy arrived from Berlin by plane yesterday to organize a new Office of German Affairs in the State Department.

Murphy has been diplomatic adviser to the American military commander in Germany since the occupation began. His task here will be to concentrate all German economic, cultural, and political policies in a single office—a move designed to produce greater civilian control over American occupation policy in Germany.

Cain Talks 6 Hours, 45 Minutes in Filibuster

planned to read some 2000 letters and thousands of words of testimony from Congressional, California and Washington State Un-American Activities legislative hearings. He said it might take 16 hours to deliver it all.

Can Talk All Right

At 5:50 p. m. Lucas told Cain he intended no recess and would stay until Cain finished.

Cain said that "strength permitting" he would attempt to conclude before the night was over.

"In two or three hours?" Lucas inquired.

"All of that," said Cain.

"Well, we will accommodate the Senator," replied Lucas.

A very tired Cain finally took his seat at 9 p. m. He told the Senate, however, that he hadn't nearly exhausted his material and expects to speak again on the Wallgren nomination at some future date.

Earlier, Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) tried to give Cain some rest by asking unanimous consent for a quorum call at 7:29 p. m. Two Democratic Senators, James E. Murray (Mont.) and Matthew M. Neely (W. Va.) objected.

At the outset of his speech Cain quoted from a column by Drew Pearson in Tuesday's Washington Post, saying that Southern Senators have quietly passed the word to block appointment of Wallgren as the first act of reprisal against Truman for his stubborn stand on the filibuster and civil rights.

He said he had no idea of whether that was correct or not, adding that on some occasions Pearson had "a magnificent disregard for accuracy."

Then he demanded that the Senate Armed Services Committee subpena Pearson to repeat under oath charges which Cain said Pearson made to him in a telephone call on March 4.

Allegedly Won $50,000

"Pearson told me that Wallgren won $50,000 in a craps games from Johnny Meyers in Palm Spring, Calif., about three years ago," Cain told the Senate.

Meyers was "public relations" man for millionaire plane builder Howard Hughes, whose alleged parties and favors for high officials figured in a Senate investigation of aircraft contracts two years ago.

Cain further quoted Pearson as telling him over the telephone tha the FBI started and then droppec an investigation of the alleged cra game. He said he did not know i he charges were correct or not, but Pearson "should eat his words if they are not true."

Wallgren told reporters he didn't think Pearson said that but "here's not one word of truth in it. I know of no such game. I didn't win a single dollar, not even a penny from Mr. Meyers."

From Palm Beach, Fla., where he is vacationing, Pearson denounced Cain's statement as "irresponsible" and "malicious." He said Cain was "using me to belt Mon C. Wallgren over the head and, incidentally, also under the belt."

Pearson said he suggested that Cain check Meyers' entertainment of Wallgren through 'the official channel at his disposal," and accused the Senator of repeating the report without checking it.

Repeats Earlier Charges

Cain went on in his speech to repeat his earlier charges that Wallgren lacked the qualifications to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board and had been "soft" toward Communists while he was Governor of Washington.

Earlier, the Senate Armed Services Committee postponed action on Wallgren's nomination until next Tuesday. Armed Services Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) said they had a definite understanding to vote at that time.

Tydings denied that any Republican-Southern Democratic opposition to Wallgren is connected with the Dixie filibuster in the Senate.

"The Senators will pass on the merits of the appointment," he said. "That would be a pretty low estimate of a Senator to think that such a maneuver would influence his vote."

Tydings said he would resign his chairmanship of the committee if he thought that members were influenced by "other matters" in casting their vote.

Subversive Dragnet

Maryland is approaching the baffling problem of what to do with its Communists in a rather frightening manner. The State Senate has unanimously passed a bill penalizing various subversive acts by fines up to $20,000 and prison sentences up to 20 years. Those penalties could be used against anyone teaching, advocating or advising the overthrow of the Government by force or violence or alteration of the Government by "other unlawful means." Even though it fails clearly to define what subversive activities are, the bill would place sweeping enforcement powers in the hands of a special assistant attorney general. It is described as being more drastic than the Mundt-Nixon bill that failed of enactment in the last Congress.

We have every sympathy with the people of Maryland who wish to make certain that no State institution will become a hotbed of communism. The recent Foster-Dennis statement has reminded us afresh that the Communist Party is a fifth column rather than an ordinary political party. In the present climate of world affairs Communists are not to be trusted as public officials or as teachers in the public schools. Their first loyalty is to the Kremlin. But recognition of this disturbing fact is no excuse for embarking upon the kind of irresponsible witch hunts that the subversive activities bill proposed at Annapolis would invite.

The first major objection to the bill is that it is a local approach to a national problem. Whatever curbs on Communistic activity may be necessary in this country, they certainly ought to operate on a Nation-wide scale. By embarking upon what would inevitably be a spy-hunting venture, Maryland would be running competition with the Department of Justice. Surely the legislators at Annapolis ought to see the wisdom of leaving this national problem to the Federal Government.

Even more serious would be the inevitable encroachments upon freedom. Promoters of this kind of legislation usually forget that "subversive activity" is a dragnet that an ambitious prosecutor may use to harass and perhaps snare a vast number of innocent nonconformists. The result is to create a furor, to link the injustice of witch-hunting with the existing American system and thus create a fertile soil in which communism can flourish. The seriousness of the Communist menace makes it the more imperative that freedom-loving people maintain their sense of balance. We should think the Free State would be the last to succumb to the hysteria of professional Red-baiters who seem to be more interested in running down a Commie or fellow traveler than in the protection of their political heritage.

Sol Bloom

Sol Bloom would have been pleased but incredulous if someone had come to him 50 years ago with a prophecy that he would one day become chairman of a congressional committee on foreign policy. Mr. Bloom had no formal education in foreign policy or in anything else. He got his schooling the hardest way, through having to use his wits to keep alive. He showed such talents in business and in showmanship that he was a wealthy man when he went to Congress 26 years ago. Special training did not qualify him to head the Committee on Foreign Affairs; the arbitrary seniority rule put him into the chairmanship and kept him there long after a younger man should have had the post.

Yet Mr. Bloom was an effective chairman within the committee room. His career had taught him, at least, how to deal with human beings, and how to do it with a flourish that made him popular. It fell to him to pilot through the committee and the House some of the most important legislative measures in all our history—the Lend-Lease Act and the United Nations Participation Act among others. His political skill was such that his big and sometimes quarrelsome committee approved many of these measures by unanimous votes. In general he was less interested in the substance of a bill than in getting it passed if the Administration wanted it. But he came, too, to understand the necessity of American leadership in the postwar world. He was something of an eccentric, a showman to the end of his days. He had his vanities, but they were unimportant, because there was no arrogance in him, and no rancor. He was a lively and colorful American who gave devoted service to his country.

Holding The ECA Line

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee seems to have fought a brave defensive action against the pressure groups which were trying to pervert the European Recovery Program. The Greeks at Thermopylae may have done a more stout-hearted job of holding the line, but after reading the comments of Senator Connally, the committee chairman, we doubt it. The Senator says that spokesmen for no fewer than 109 commodities and products turned their guns on his committee, in the hope of getting special privileges in the second full year of ERP. If the committee members had yielded to this pressure, Europe would have been swamped by unwanted surpluses of grapefruit juice, prunes, peanuts and what not, and its economic recovery would have been smothered to death.

As it is, the Senate committee left the ECA administrator just about as free to operate the program as he has been for the past year. It approved authorizing the full amount requested for the next 15 months, although a few members reserved the right to favor appropriations smaller than the authorized figure.

The committee's backbone weakened in only a few instances. In one of these the Senators decided that the administrator would have to send at least half of ECA shipments from the United States in American ships, even if foreign ships were available at far cheaper rates. More than half can be sent in foreign ships only if American vessels, at American rates, are not available. This provision is an obvious compromise, aimed at forestalling the vicious Bland bill which has already been reported out by the House Merchant Marine Committee. It suggests once more that never in the field of human government has so much noise been made and so much pressure exerted by so few men as by the shipping industry and its spokesmen on Capitol Hill.

The real battle over the future of ECA can now be expected on the floor of the Senate and House and in the Appropriations Committees. The producers of surpluses probably will redouble their efforts to push through amendments which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee wisely rejected. Members of the Appropriations Committees will not only try to cut the funds but may try, as they did last year, to attach conditions which have no place in an appropriation bill.

There are, moreover, 18 new Senators and 118 new Representatives who did not go through the long debates of last year, and who therefore need to learn about ECA from the ground up. We hope that these freshmen, busy as they are, will make a special effort to read the record of the Senate committee hearings and some, at least, of the documents submitted by ECA. The future of our boldest postwar enterprise depends not only on the congressional leaders but on the newcomers whose votes can wreck it or preserve it as one of the great "unsordid acts" of all history.

No Goldfish Bowl

Some unfortunate misapprehensions have gained currency regarding the intelligence bill passed Monday by the House. This measure is not what it has been dubbed, a "secret spy bill." Actually the bill itself is perfectly open, like any other legislation. It is concerned with placing the Central Intelligence Agency on a sound administrative basis. The only place where secrecy enters is in the detailed justifications made by the agency for individual provisions in the act. These involved disclosure of certain methods of intelligence operation, and hence were presented to the Armed Services Committee in executive session. To disclose and debate these methods publicly on the floors of Congress would, of course, be to thwart the clandestine operations of the agency.

It may well be that the cloak and dagger aspects of Central Intelligence have been overstressed, that most of the provisions of the bill could have been talked over without compromising operations. But it would be foolish to assume that all intelligence activities can be conducted in a goldfish bowl. Most intelligence, to be sure, consists of a distillation of readily available facts. But there is a core of information-gathering that must of necessity remain under cover. Especially in these days of cold war it is important that the country have a mature understanding of this vital phase of defense.

The most controversial feature of the intelligence bill is quite open and has to do with the admission of 100 aliens a year without regard to immigration laws. As was explained to the House, this so-called "defector" provision is designed to protect persons in other countries who give intelligence information at danger to their lives. It does not confer immunity on such aliens after they reach this country, and in any case the number is not sufficient to worry about. Other sections of the bill govern pay, procurement and the like. Central Intelligence would be exempted from publication of personnel ceilings and would be provided unvouchered funds for use in emergencies. But a representative of the General Accounting Office would be on hand to supervise the correct use of funds, and in all cases the agency will remain ultimately answerable to Congress.

As an administrative measure, this bill has little to do with whether Central Intelligence is doing an efficient job, whether morale is good or whether continuity is hampered by military domination. There are many reasons for believing that all is not sweetness and light within the agency. But certainly an essential requirement for improvement in operational direction is the establishment of a stabilized administrative routine.

Eclipse In China

The resignation of Premier Sun Fo and his entire cabinet seems to have come as something of a surprise in Nanking. But its suddenness gives it no particular significance. Sun apparently knew he faced an overwhelming opposition in the Legislative Yuan and took the face-saving way of resigning before he was voted out, although he had stoutly denied up to the last that he had any such intention. In fact, it is hard to be sure that Sun's departure has any real significance at all.

Insofar as Sun and Acting President Li Tsung-jen were at odds on the timing and urgency of peace negotiations with the Communists there may now be some change of atmosphere in Nanking. Li is supposed to be in favor of opening immediate talks on terms not so stiff as Sun desired. But the Communists have given every overt indication of caring nothing about making peace for the moment. Partly, they have asserted the absence of any real government in Nanking they could negotiate with; partly, they have probably felt that the increasing cleavages in Nanking would eventually throw the situation into their hands anyway; and partly they have not wanted to take responsibility for feeding the populations of the large cities, a task beyond their present resources.

There have been some indications, such as the appearance at Nanking of provincial leaders who had declined to come at Chiang's behest, of a new coalescence around the Acting President. If a strong enough group congeals on the lines indicated, Li's bargaining position may thereby gain some strength. It will, however, need an infusion beyond present probabilities to overcome the fundamental ineptitude and corruption of the Kuomintang.

Tardy Justice

In 1945, jury cases in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia came to trial an average of three months after they were put on the calendar. Non-jury cases came to trial in an average of five months. This was almost equivalent to a current basis. Since then the case load of the District Court has increased so tremendously that cases are now 13 to 15 months behind. Attorney General Clark, in his testimony before the House Judiciary Committee Monday, translated this case load in terms of the burden on individual judges. It has risen from an average of 372.2 cases for each of the 12 District Court judges in 1944 to 540 per judge last year.

These random statistics give strong support to the plea for an additional three judges on the District Court bench. A similar situation in the United States Court of Appeals here argues for the requested increase of its six judgeships to eight. The consideration most important is not that of lightening the labors of overworked men, though not to do so partakes somewhat of keeping them in a juridical chain gang and inviting errors due to exhaustion. The real issue is the doing of justice promptly, not justice long delayed which in many cases verges thereby on injustice. Promptness in dealing with pleas to the court is an inseparable part of fairness in dealing with them. "Delay in justice is in reality its denial," Chief Justice Stephens of the Court of Appeals told the District Bar Association last month. And the vital need today in seeing that no mechanical deficiency hinders the functioning of our judicial system ought to be conclusive argument for the provision of additional judges.

Only 109 Billion

Representative Rankin has now conceded that his $90-a-month veterans' pension bill will cost an over-all total of 109 billion dollars. This should come as a sort of negative relief, we suppose, after the estimates of nearly 200 billion accompanying the original version of the Rankin bill. But let no one be deluded as to the amounts entailed. Rankin's estimated 62-million-dollar cost the first year amounts to sugar-coating; relatively few eligible veterans, even of World War I, have reached the requisite age of 65. When the 14 million veterans of World War II start qualifying for payment, the annual burden, even under Mr. Rankin's figures, would reach almost 4½ billion dollars.

The worst part of the Rankin raid is that the demand seems to come not so much from the veterans themselves as from their professional friends on Capitol Hill. The bill has no relation to need; it does not take into account the extensive benefits of the GI Bill of Rights. It is simply an attempt to put a blanket commercial value on patriotism—which is in itself a negation of true patriotism. As such it amounts to a mere political bribe—a bribe which veterans would be paying in substantial measure to themselves. It would be the height of inconsistency for members of Congress who dissect the District budget so ruthlessly to open the floodgates for Mr. Rankin's effort to buy the veterans.

Fierlinger's Freedom

The Stewart Alsop story of March 6 about Czechoslovak Vice Premier Zdenek Fierlinger being in jail is nothing but another Alsop fabrication. I talked to Fierlinger Monday on the phone. Mr. Fierlinger was speaking from Hradcany Castle in Prague from the chancery of the President of the republic, Klement Gottwald, whom he was just visiting.

Informed about the Alsop story allegedly based upon entirely reliable intelligence reports, Mr. Fierlinger remarked laughingly that there was neither a base nor intelligence in that story—which, by the way, did not amaze him too much in view of the constant output of misinformation about Czechoslovakia by American journalists and radio commentators. Mr. Fierlinger authorized the Czechoslovak Embassy to qualify the Alsop story as rather stupid and vicious falsehood.

Minority Rights

Since Mr. Henderson Bogart (letter published March 2) has avoided the main issues involved, and give you a clearly prejudiced statement of the "Southern problem," I wish to refute the logic of his claims without taking either side in the basic controversy.

Of Southern Senators he says, "in their scheme of values the South comes first, the Democratic Party second, and the Nation last of all." By the same token we might say of anyone or any group that their home comes first, their city second, and their State last of all. Is that not as it should be?

Regarding Mr. Bogart's statement of the filibuster being the traditional last refuge of these "Southern politicians" against majority rule, is it not a last refuge of any minority against the inherent danger of majority rule? Ironically, this issue is a battle of a minority (in the Nation) to maintain its majority (in the South) over another minority (the Negro), and if the Jim Crow laws were just now being introduced in Southern Legislatures, they would stand a good chance of failure only because the present minorities (even whites) who opposed them could filibuster them out of existence.

In spite of the stigma attached to this name given to the lengthy argument in debate, the filibuster has become one of the few remaining checks against abuse of the majority rule, and the South is not the only section or group which has used it for that purpose.

MacArthur's Position

No one has more admiration than I for General MacArthur's military genius and accomplishments. He undoubtedly performed the task of disarming the Japanese, and punishing their war criminals, promptly and efficiently. But I am afraid the general has begun to regard himself as the "indispensable man," accountable to no one.

As I read the Potsdam declaration, and Japan's acceptance of its terms (remembering that Russia was a party to that declaration) it seems to me that Japan has fulfilled her promises, and is entitled, at once, to have a government, freely chosen by its people, assume rule of the state, and to be freed of a foreign army of occupation.

Instead MacArthur intimates the occupation must be continued (presumably under his direction) for three or four years more, and that the United States is obligated to defend Japan militarily against any Russian attack.

Isn't it about time for the President or the Secretary of the Army to order the general back to Washington, so that the Congress and the people—and not the general alone—may judge and determine, after hearing all he may have to say, what is to be our future policy in the Far East?

Children's Discipline

I was very interested in Malvina Lindsay's article of March 3 "U. S. Children versus British." Incidentally she might have said "European versus U. S.."

Born in this country, I lived in Europe from 1919-1946 and have had ample opportunity to study children here and abroad as mother and teacher of dance and art and as director of various play schools.

I fully agree with Mrs. McDermot Morrah as regards the connections between numerous juvenile crimes and parental laxity.

I do not think (as mentioned in Miss Lindsay's article) that human values may be lost through discipline—judiciously used of course; on the contrary I feel that these values are more often lost through lack of discipline. To me it seems very dangerous to "ignore bad behavior," a theory which I have come across in play schools and among parents here quite frequently. The child, I feel, then deteriorates morally and spiritually. And traits and bad habits are allowed to grow and choke, like weeds, the fundamentally and basically fine spirit, the personality kernel, which to my mind, is inborn in the majority of children!

Children need attention and help in mental and spiritual growth; need to be led to develop their finest qualities and talents. Freedom is a wonderful thing—but I feel it is often misunderstood in child raising.

Filibuster's Meaning

Walter Lippmann's column of March 3 on the filibuster misstates the issue.

The question is not whether it is desirable for a majority to rule against the consent of a minority. Decisions have to be made and cannot always be unanimous.

Assuming a lack of agreement, the question is, therefore, whether it is more objectionable that decision be made by a majority than by a minority. Specifically, is a decision by one third plus one less dictatorial than a decision by one half plus one?

Merchant Marine Draft

The present Selective Service legislation committed a grave injustice by drafting Merchant Marine veterans after their hazardous wartime shipping service all over the world. The new Congress has before it no fewer than nine bills demanding exemption from the draft for all Merchant Marine veterans who have received their certificate of substantially continuous service. Such a certificate exempted them from service under the former draft legislation, and it is therefore only just to renew this exemption.

"Power For TVA"

In his March 4 letter attacking your editorial of February 19 regarding the proposed steam plant for the TVA, Mr. Raymond Sparks remarked among other things that the building of such a plant would constitute "another long irrevocable step toward the nationalization of the electric power industry."

To me the very expression "privately owned public utility" is an irreconcilable contradiction. The first 20 years of my life were spent in Shelbina, Miss., a town of 2500 people. That small town has its own electric light and power system now some 50 years old. Shelbina's residents have not only secured power at rates lower than those paid private companies in nearby towns but the income from the recently modernized (diesel) plant contributes substantially to the current administrative expenses of the town.

From 1927 to 1940 I lived in Lincoln, Neb. During most of my residence there the city was served by two power plants, one publicly and one private owned. Since about 1940 the city has joined a quasi-publicly owned system which links much of the State and utilizes economical hydro-electric power as well as steam plants.

From 1940 to 1942 I worked at what was then Boulder, now Hoover Dam. Until it is surpassed by Grand Coulee, the Boulder Canyon project will be the world's greatest power plant. Both are public projects. I don't think that private ownership would have ever financed either. Some power from these projects is distributed by private companies. I think that such a policy is both illogical and uneconomical.

Toy Weapons

Recently while walking along F st. I came abreast of two boys; the older, not more than 10, carrying a toy revolver in his hand and twirling it in true Western fashion. The younger, about 9, held his weapon concealed in his side pocket, projecting it menacingly.

The other day, I saw five boys all under 12, playing "Kidnap." They had their victim on the ground, bound to a board; even his mouth gagged with a dirty cloth. While the unfortunate was groaning—he was being unmercifully stabbed by a wooden dagger.

At the same time on a nearby broken down porch, three boys even younger than the others were aiming guns, from behind posts, at imaginary enemies and laying them low.

To prevent occurrences of such tragic portent, I would like to suggest that our local government—or better yet our national Government—enact laws, making the selling of toy weapons unlawful.

Varied services and courtesies and acts of kindness performed by the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross and other workers of that organization mean much to patients in this hospital. ## One-Track Nation

By Malvina Lindsay

Buried Talents

LOOKING AT the keen, alert young faces of the 40 finalists in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search who have just ended their five-day institute here, one felt confident and secure about the material future of the Nation. These boys and girls, all of whom shared in the $11,000 science scholarship awards announced Monday, could be depended upon to help hold the American lead in invention and technology, to help provide more comforts for daily living, push the standard of living higher and higher, make possible greater production, vaster commerce, stronger defense.

Yes, it was a great thing to glean this promising youth from 18 States, and thus encourage other American boys and girls to work harder in their school laboratories, to start more basement and attic projects in their homes. All this was sound investment in tomorrow.

But—this also brought disturbing visions of what lay ahead in other fields. Here was the teacher shortage rearing its ominous head again. At least 100,000 new elementary teachers needed by September! Yet, only about 22,000 available! And students still fighting shy of schools of education.

And what about nurses? Forty thousand additional ones needed at once, and at least that many more in the next three to five years under normal conditions. What would happen in an emergency? And an increasing aged population was bringing more physical and mental illness.

THEN ALL those warnings about the need of more psychiatrists and others trained to care for the mentally ill. Only about 4000 experienced psychiatrists available. Yet four times that many needed to staff hospitals, out-patient clinics, research and teaching staffs. And one-half of hospital beds occupied by those mentally ill.

Besides there were the vast rural regions without doctors of any kind. And the empty churches lacking preachers.

How would it seem, one pondered, if every year there came to Washington, in addition to the promising young physical scientists, 40 or more girls—yes, and boys—selected from throughout the Nation as outstanding potential teachers of young children? They would have been chosen, their sponsors would point out, because they had, first, a great liking for and interest in children, and an eager desire to teach; also because they were intelligent, happy, emotionally well adjusted; because they liked people and seemed to have a gift for imparting knowledge and inspiring mental enthusiasm. And they also would be given a five-day institute, tours of the Capital, receptions and scholarship awards.

Or, how would it seem to see a group of bright, enthusiastic young women who had been selected as holding promise of being great nurses? They would have been chosen because they liked and were sympathetic to human beings; had an eager intelligent interest in the care of the sick; were wholesome physically and mentally, and had sensitivity and imagination. They likewise would be honored, feted, and given scholarships.

ONE COULD also see a group of young men and women who had shown a driving interest in becoming doctors, preachers, psychiatrists, psychologists. They too would have shown great talents in their fields, as well as promise of becoming wise and understanding men and women. They also would be encouraged financially and otherwise in developing their urgently needed gifts.

Looking into the future one could see the ever-widening eddies of influence circling out from these talented people into the lives of millions of Americans. One could see other boys and girls with bents in these fields discovering themselves, getting encouragement, a firing of ambition, and often financial help to go on. One could even see the public gaining a new respect for the professions it had neglected in its worship of the dynamo.

Finally, one could see more knowledge, health, peace of mind spreading among all the people, and giving them a core of strength greater than their industrial production or their atom bomb. Why, one kept on wondering, wasn't such an investment as this also made in the Nation's future?

Communist Loyalty

The statement of the two Communist leaders in America that they would not support a war of American imperialists against Russia is in itself not sufficient evidence to convict them. These two were clever enough to use the very phraseology that appears daily in the American press, allying themselves with "democratic and peaceful people."

If we put the Communist trial on the plane of ideology, i.e., either democracy or communism, we get nowhere because ideologies can easily overlap. But nations cannot overlap and one is either an American or something else; and since Russia is the only power dead against us that "something else" must be Russian.

A Communication

Point IV and The Population Problem

By Eugene M. Kulischer

Population Analyst

THANKS to the President's inauguration speech, the problem of underdeveloped areas is in the spotlight of public attention. All troubles from which backward countries are suffering are being discussed under this heading. There is danger that such an approach may render the discussion vague and confused and submerge the problem under a flood of well-meant and meaningless talk including everything from the promotion of international trade to music (as was suggested in a recent discussion on underdeveloped areas).

The problem is broad but definite. The now famous Point Four of the President's international program refers to the development of natural resources where there are large possibilities of such development and/or where it is needed to improve the standard of living as a means of warding off communism.

Latin America is in such a position, in view of its immense resources which still lie dormant. China badly needs not only industrial but also agricultural improvement, because the output of an intensive but, nevertheless, pre-scientific farming is insufficient for feeding the dense Chinese population.

THESE two examples illustrate the overlooked role of population as one of the main elements in the problem of underdeveloped areas. Latin America is mainly underpopulated, and the lack of adequate labor is a handicap to her progress. In China the horrible overpopulation casts a gloom over the present situation and the future prospects. A few years ago, when a highway across Hongkong was constructed, engineering companies with modern equipment were underbid by a Chinese firm, which built the road, using largely women workers equipped with nothing but baskets. A superabundant labor force has often been an impediment to technological progress.

In any program formulated under Point Four, we can assist only by providing capital, i. e., means of production and technological help, our know-how. This is a truism. But what is mostly disregarded is the intimate connection between capital investment and technological help on the one hand and population resettlement on the other.

LESS THAN a hundred years ago the United States was an underdeveloped country. She became what she is now through combined capital investment and mass immigration. Recent researches have destroyed the romantic conception that economic development was due exclusively to the immigrant, who came with bare hands or at best brought with him his modest savings.

As was pointed out by Hanson (who devoted his life to the study of immigration and colonization in the United States): "Without labor, capital is dead; without capital, labor was helpless. In the early decades of colonization they moved together. In later time, although they proceeded by different ships and different routes, ultimately they came together on the prairie or in the rising industrial town.

"On the outward voyage European freighters carried locomotives on rails, pumps and drills for the mines, sometimes gold for the payrolls. The economist describes this traffic as the export of capital and, when the statistician traces it upon chart, he very properly finds a remarkable conformity to the fluctuations in the movement of European emigration."

It should be emphasized that in the latter nineteenth century men and capital came from different European countries: The former from countries overloaded with people and the latter from those with capacity to produce capital goods. The same picture has been presented more recently by the astonishing development of Palestine. It was the combined result of capital which streamed from America and western Europe and of people, who came from eastern and later also from central Europe.

THE CASE of Palestine illustrates also another role of immigration in the development of natural resources, that of skilled labor. Technological assistance means not only advising regarding the work to be performed and the general dissemination of technical knowledge among the population, but also includes the supply of skilled labor. The Jewish mass immigration into Palestine meant an influx of skilled labor. For this reason it did not encroach upon the economic "living space" of the Arab population, but, on the contrary, the Arabs' earning opportunities were greatly increased. This was due not only to capital investment but also to the fact that large numbers of unskilled workers can be employed more productively in combination with specialists.

Up to a certain degree overpopulation is a relative notion, since the ratio between population and means of subsistence can be improved in a progressing economy. There is, however, a stage where superabundant manpower becomes a barrier to technological and economic progress, where the practically unlimited human force precludes mechanization, and where sanitary improvements only increase the pressure of population on the means of subsistence.

More than half of the inhabitants of our planet, living mostly in eastern and southern Asia, still turn in this vicious Malthusian circle of overpopulation—poverty—backwardness—overpopulation. To preach in these areas birth control, essential though it is from a long-range point of view, means evasion of the problem, relegating it to a far-distant future.

Here, too, only a combination of capital investment and technological assistance with resettlement can bring at least a partial improvement. Even in the overpopulated Asiatic areas there are still lands fit for colonization. Thus, the Netherlands government had achieved some results through resettlement of Javanese to the outer islands.

PROJECTS of internal colonization should go hand in hand with land reform, which in these peasant countries is one of the strongest bulwarks against the Communist demagogy. It may be questioned how far such projects could be extended, even with the help of larger capital investment. An enlarged program of world-wide redistribution of population appears illusory under the prevailing conditions. But, at least we should do all that can be done (of course, not under the antiquated slogan of free migration, but in a regulated way).

Moreover, we should not foster any illusions about the possibilities of solving the problem of underdeveloped areas without taking into account the population problem. And we should face the grim reality which awaits the backward countries—and ourselves—if their progress is not pushed, vigorously and without delay. In the recognition of this fact lies the great merit of President Truman's now famous Point Four.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Civil Rights Hogtied

SOMETHING very like demoralization exists among Democrats in the Senate. They have a paper majority of 12, which in practice is entirely ineffectual.

Childs

It is not merely the continuing filibuster that demonstrates the sad plight, on taxes, on almost every controversial issue, there is simply no cohesiveness.

The newcomers on the Democratic side—particularly those who came in with aggressive, liberal objectives—complain of an almost total absence of leadership. No one, they say, is calling signals from the White House. The majority, so the complaint goes, invariably rides off in all directions.

"Guidance on legislation!" exclaimed one of the newcomers. "I never felt so alone in my life. Why, I wasn't even told where the men's room was."

The seriousness of this situation now that more than two months of the session have passed is being pointed up by letters from back home. Some of the rosiest promises in the Truman campaign were made to the farmers. As yet no farm bill has been put before Congress and no one on Capitol Hill seems to know what the Administration wants in the way of farm legislation.

From the rural areas the letter writers want to know why the delay. At the same time they see commodity prices dropping. This is bearing down hard on Senators Hunt of Wyoming, Douglas of Illinois, Humphrey of Minnesota, Kefauver of Tennessee.

THE dissatisfaction centers partly on Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, but most of it focuses on the White House. President Truman's press conference declaration in favor of a simple majority for shutting off debate had a dismaying effect on the leadership and on those who are theoretically being led.

Nothing had previously been said at White House conferences with congressional leaders about the nature of the majority. The day after the press conference statement nearly 30 Democratic Senators from outside the South met to consider what could be done about the filibuster. Not one, including even Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, Wallaceite candidate for Vice President, supported the simple majority proposal.

The block of Southern Democrats, disciplined by a common conviction and skillfully led, had previously shown that they were likely to win the rules fight. The President's statement alienated some who might have been willing to go along on a constitutional majority—49 of the 96 Senators.

Even more important, it gave the Southerners tangible and dramatic support for their charge that a change in the rules could under certain circumstances mean imposition of the will of a minority. It robbed those who should have been on the President's side of any maneuverability for bringing about a reasonable and face-saving compromise.

NOW THE effort is being made to end the stalemate by agreement that debate could be closed by a three-fourths majority. This would, of course, be a complete triumph for the Southerners. But it may prove to be the only way to get around the road block of the filibuster so that vital legislation can be considered.

Many of the letters now pouring in show that the average citizen has no understanding of or sympathy for the rules fight. By those who took the Truman campaign promises at their face value it is regarded as an annoying and technical distraction. Why don't you, the cry is, get down to doing some of the things you talked about?

There is a larger issue of strategy at stake here. Many Senators believe that a proper approach by the President to moderate and progressive Southerners would have resulted in acceptance of at least 60 to 70 per cent of the civil rights program. A definite social gain would have been achieved, with little bitterness or rancor.

Instead, the President has chosen the head-on attack. One consequence may be the failure of the Congress at this session to adopt any civil rights legislation.

With respect to labor legislation the same head-on attack has put the President's friends on Capitol Hill in a bad spot. And here, too, there is a failure to bring together the leaders immediately concerned to try to determine what is the best that can be salvaged. A presidential message is a token of good intention. But if campaign promises are to be translated into reality, it will take a lot more than good intentions.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Europe 1949: The Hardest Test

THE FINAL impression left by an intensive inquiry into the state of Europe is that the hardest test is still ahead for the United States. The state of Europe itself is vastly improved; indeed, in western Europe we have won the first major engagement in the world struggle between the Soviet Union and the West. But the makers of Soviet policy notoriously think not in years, but in decades. Having been cheated of their expected easy victory in Europe, they are merely settling down for the long pull.

The question is whether we in America also have the foresight and guts to settle down for the long pull. This is the hardest test that is now ahead. It will not be an easy test to meet, since we shall be progressively deprived of our habitual stimulant, our customary political eye-opener.

Instead of stirring European crises, the new danger signals will be slow political changes in distant regions whose peoples and geography are equally strange, as in China; a Soviet rearmament effort which we may sense as huge but cannot exactly measure; and a program to put the whole Soviet Empire in military array, the sternness and effectiveness of which will be three quarters masked from us by the iron curtain. Yet the whole future will depend upon whether we respond to these only dimly described danger signals.

This may seem to be a double overstatement of the case. But while Soviet intentions must always remain enigmatic, what little is known of Soviet actions is enough to give the alarm. For instance, Soviet heavy-tank production is now known to have reached a figure of between 3000 and 5000 tanks annually, which will give the Red army an armored force of between 20,000 and 30,000 tanks in six or seven years time.

THIS IS NOT a statistic which can be lightly disregarded by the almost unarmed West. Fit data of this sort into the pattern of the drive for political conquest which the Kremlin is already carrying on. You must thus conclude that it is no longer safe to go on hoping for the best without preparing for the worst.

Equally, there is no overstatement above of the American responsibility in the period we are entering. An American student of politics abroad in these times occasionally wants to paraphrase Kipling's slightly peevish address to his countrymen, "Ye nothing know of England who only England know."

American policy is not the imperialism that Kipling was talking about. But every responsible European leader frankly acknowledges that all major decisions of the world struggle must ultimately be made in Washington. Even Europe's internal politics are intimately influenced by the views and measures of the American Government. . And even including Britain, the European nations have neither the strength nor the resources to carry them safely through, unless the United States willingly makes the sacrifices and bears the burdens that must be made and borne by the acknowledged leader of the West.

If this is the underlying situation, what is to be done about it? The Atlantic Pact and the inauguration of a program to rearm western Europe are, of course, major first steps in the right direction. But unhappily, they are only first steps.

It is not enough to organize the defense of the Atlantic community, any more than it would have been enough for Hindenburg and Ludendorff to hold their lines in France in the First World War, meanwhile permitting their position to be flanked by Churchill's Gallipoli campaign. Europe is the undoubted center of world politics. But our whole political-economic-strategic position can also be made untenable if the Kremlin much further extends its sway in the Far East, or if the strategically vital Middle East is seriously menaced.

THE STEPS that must immediately follow the Atlantic Pact are therefore steps to stabilize the situation in these more distant threatened regions. The task will be long, dirty, tiringly complex and unpleasantly costly. But it is certainly not a task which cannot be accomplished. The emerging Anglo-American partnership, previously reported in this space, will be perhaps the major instrument for doing the job. But the first thing to realize is that, one way or another, the job has got to be done. And it is more important at the moment to grasp this necessity than to worry about methods.

Then, even when the situation has been stabilized on the vulnerable colonial flanks of the Western nations, it will still be necessary to meet the challenge of Soviet rearmament. The Western nations may have, in fact we do have, over five times the total annual steel production of the Soviet Empire. But the experience of 1939 should be enough to prove it is never safe to rely on preponderant but unmobilized resources, while permitting any enemy to achieve preponderance of immediate military might. We need not militarize ourselves as the Soviets are doing. Aggression is not our purpose. But we must unquestionably make enough effort and sacrifice to retain for the West a very strong defensive advantage.

If we fulfill both these difficult requirements, we shall be safe. And as time goes, we hope that the inner contradictions of the Soviet system will lead to changes, which in turn will transform the armed truce into real peace. But at present, because of the inner contradictions of our system, we are fulfilling neither requirement. If there is another world catastrophe, we shall have only our own hankering for business as usual to thank.

Eduation Our First Line Of Defense, Truman Asserts

By Marshall Andrews

Post Reporter

Winter Park, March 8.—President Truman today received the Degree of Doctor of Humanities from Rollins College and in his acceptance speech cal'ed for Federal aid to pre-college education.

"Education," Mr. Truman declared, "is our first line of defense." The said that:

"In the conflict of principle and policy which divides the world today, America's hope is in education. Through education alone can we combat the tenets of communism.

"The unfettered soul of free men offers a spiritual defense unconquered and unconquerable."

World's Best Hope

No one knows, the President said, what lies behind the Iron Curtain, but "we do know that the intelligence of the people in the embattled democracies of Europe, who live in front of the Iron Curtain, is the world's best hope today."

Then Mr. Truman declared that "education is the most important task before us," and called for enactment of federal support of elementary and secondary schools.

"The Congress," he said, "should enact legislation authorizing federal grants to the States to assist in meeting the operating expenses of elementary and secondary scholos. There is general agreement that such aid can be given without interference with State responsibility for the scope and content of the teaching."

Mr. Truman made clear his conviction that education is one of the instruments of freedom.

"If our country is to retain its freedom in a world of conflicting political philosophies," he said, "we must take steps to assure that every American youth shall receive the highest level of training by which he can profit."

The President closed his brief talk by referring to two themes which he made keystones of his successful political fight last fall: World peace and civil rights in the United States.

The Constitution, he said, "gives us the ability to live together in peace . . . To see that justice comes to every man, be he rich or be he poor."

Pray and Work For Peace

"We are working for peace," he concluded. "We want peace. We pray for peace all the time in the world.

"And to attain that peace, we must learn how to live together peaceably, and to do to our neighbors as we would have our neighbors do to us. Then we will have a happy world, and that's what we want."

President Truman was introduced by Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida, who described him as "a liberal." Warren asked what were the great liberal issues now and answered:

"At least three of these are transcendent, and in each one of them President Truman has already played the role of a leader. They are, in brief, the race issue, the economic issue and the peace issue. They are fundamentally issues of justice.

Rich Brewer to Work Full Time Organizing White Collar Union

Milwaukee, March 8 (AP).—A senior member of one of the Nation's wealthiest brewery families said today he planned to devote his full time "to encouraging the organization of white collar workers."

He is 73-year-old Joseph E. Uihlein, former vice president and manager of the vast Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., one of America's largest beer producers.

"I believe five to six million Americans can better their lot by joining white collar unions," declared Uihlein, who said his brewery stock, now distributed among his children, earned more than $1,200,000 last year.

"I hope to do what I can to encourage this. I am not in it for any honor for myself, but only through a desire to help the working class."

A year ago, Uihlein said, he tried to join the Brewery Workers Union "but I was turned down."

"I've been thinking about this for about 15 years," he said. "I began to discover that a lot of these people of wealth are not deserving of what they possess. I found something was wrong with the wealthy class and I think a lot of them would be better off if they had to work."

Joseph and his brother, Erwin, now president of Schlitz, have been at odds recently over Joseph's suggestion that the brewery establish a one million dollars annual welfare fund for its employes by contributing 25 cents for each barrel of beer sold.

The CIO Brewery Workers took up the suggestion but Erwin said Joseph had "no authority to speak for the company."

Railroads, Unions Ask for Body To Rule in Dispute

Chicago, March 8 (AP).—The Nation's railroads and non-operating unions representing one million of their employes in a wage-hour dispute asked today that a fact finding board enter talks for a third time.

Committees representing the two sides asked the board to rule on any points found to be in disagreement between the disputants.

The carriers and unions are agreed, a spokesman said, that the board's ruling shall be binding.

The spokesman, who asked anonymity, said the application of a staggered 40-hour work week "is the major issue in disagreement."

Young Democratic Clubs Meet Here Apr. 2

Roy G. Baker of Sherman, Tex., is retiring as president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, the organization anounced yesterday.

At the same time Baker called a meeting of the national committee of the clubs for April 2 in Washington. A successor will be named at that time to serve until the biennial convention which comes this year. The committee also will consider a date and site for the convention. Baker, a lawyer, said pressure of personal affairs made his retirement necessary.

Pepco Plans 37-Million Bond Issue

approval of regulatory agencies are Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Equitable Life Assurance Society and Prudential Insurance Co.

The utility is in the midst of a 86-million-dollar expansion program, started in 1948 and expected to be completed in 1952. As the first step toward financing this program, Pepco obtained 15 million dollars in January, 1948, through the sale of mortgage bonds. In February, 1949, the company borrowed five million dollars from banks, in addition to the 12 million dollars of bank loan notes then outstanding.

Rumors had been current that Pepco planned an additional issue of common stock. It is known that such plans had progressed to the point where local underwriters and Pepco officials had been discussing terms of such an offering. Apparently, Pepco did not deem the time opportune for additional common stock financing.

In addition to expanded transmission and distribution facilities, Pepco is constructing a new power station at Alexandria, Va., which ultimately will have a capacity of 400,000 kilowatts. The first section of this power station will include two 80,000-kilowatt turbogenerators. One will be completed this coming summer and the other in 1950.

Maryland Jobs Fall 22,600 in Month

Baltimore, March 8 (AP).—Non-agricultural employment in Maryland fell by 22,600 in January, a sharper drop than the corresponding monthly decline last year.

The Department of Employment Security said, however, that "despite recent declines," over-all employment in January was "substantially above the level of last year."

A decline from mid-December, 1948, to mid-January, 1949, had been "anticipated as a result of normal seasonal factors," the department reported.

But the downward trend apparent in manufacturing industries for the past several months has speeded up, it added. There were employment drops in all major industries.

Some 722,900 Marylanders were employed in nonagricultural tasks in mid-December. The figure for mid-January was 700,300.

The department disclosed that the corresponding seasonal reduction in 1947-48 was 17,200 or 5400 less than the present drop.

Plant Lays Off 700 In 50% Output Cut

Elizabethtown, Tenn., March 8 (AP).—The American Bemberg Corp. today reported the layoff of 700 employes in a 50 per cent production cutback.

I. Rogosin, president of American Bemberg and the companion North American Rayon Corp., said the cutback was due to a "decline in orders for March."

The corporation laid off 450 employes last month. The cutback today raised the total to 1150 workers.

Rogosin said the plant hoped to return to full production soon.

Senators End Reciprocal Trade Act Hearings

Public hearings by the Senate Finance Committee on extending the reciprocal trade program ended yesterday in a flurry of criticism of South Africa for "premium sales" of gold.

Chairman George (D., Ga.) said the Senate Committee will begin closed sessions Thursday to draft a bill. The House on February 9 passed a three-year extension of the tariff-cutting program dated from June 12 of last year.

Sales of South African gold in London at $42 an ounce—or $7 above established world values—were protested by Senator Brewster (R., Me.) and F. A. Southard, United States executive director of the International Monetary Fund.

Southard testified at the request of Senator Millikin (D., Colo.) about relations of international monetary controls to the world trade program.

Brewster asked what the monetary fund was doing about the "premium sales" of gold at about $7 an ounce above the rate recognized by this country and other nations in the World Monetary Fund.

Southard replied that the fund "opposed" the South African sales and had been told they will cease as soon as the present contract for sale of 100,000 ounces in London is completed.

Southard added that South African officials contend the gold sales were "properly safeguarded" for use only in nonmonetary channels, such as industry and jewelry. He said fund officials do not agree.

Brewster said fund officials should show a "little more steel" in enforcing the agreement to stabilize currencies and monetary values.

Southard agreed the fund should have "steel and backbone" in its actions.

But he disagreed with Millikin when the Coloradan suggested that the present official par rate for exchange values of currencies of most nations fixed by the fund in 1946 "is unrealistic."

Millikin pointed out that world-wide inflation and postwar trade volume and demand has pushed prices upward but the fund still held to its 1946 exchange rates. He said this gave the dollar less buying power in world trade.

Southard denied this although he agreed that there may be need for overhauling of exchange values for some nations.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, March 8 (AP).—Grains closed mostly lower after a rather listless session today at the Board of Trade. All futures started on the easy side and drifted lower until a rally developed near the midday point.

Buying attributed to milling interest and southwest commission houses gave wheat a lift for a time, but that grain could not get above the previous close. Traders said there was some evidence of Government buying, but this was offset by continued reports of good winter wheat prospects.

At the finish, wheat was 1¼ to 2 cents lower, corn was ¾ to 1¼ lower, oats were unchanged to ¼ higher, rye was unchanged to 1 cent lower, soybeans were ½ to 1¾ lower and lard was 8 cents to 15 cents a hundredweight lower.

One on the Aisle—

'Earliest Runs' At Lust Drive-in

By Richard L. Coe

BETWEEN THE PYRAMIDS you can spy:

Sunday night's opening of Sidney Lust's Beltsville Drive-in . . . The policy this year will include "earliest runs," that is pictures just getting into the neighborhood indoors for the first time . . . Sunday's opening will be "Wake of the Red Witch," the Republic seascape with John Wayne and Gail Russell . . . Friday and Saturday nights will play double features; other nights singles only . . . No news yet on the other drive-in openings, though E. M. Lowe's Don King was spied in town t'other eve.

SPRING ALSO closer with Visitor Richard Skinner, the Olney manager . . . Three items are set for the strawhat boite: it will open Memorial Day, there will be air-conditioning and Helen Hayes will top the final week with her daughter, Mary MacArthur, in William McCleery's new comedy, "Parlor Story," a pre-Broadway tryout . . . Dick's laid down his chores as company manager for the Guild's "The Silver Whistle," which toots merrily on after a novel "show train" in Gotham last week; this special train of the New Haven Railroad carted Nutmeg-Staters to a performance for commuters only . . . The travel bug must have been contagious, for Dick's now plotting a jaunt to Guatemala to pull himself together for those four busy months out at Olney.

THE FELT HAT theater, which had penciled in last night for its opening at Hyattsville, has to build up and tear down to conform to fire regulations, but Owner Dean Goodman reports he hopes to be ready to raise the curtains in about a month. . . . Advices on this have gone out to the early birds who've been quick with their mail orders. . . . "We'll open okay," says Goodman.

"THE RED SHOES" will slip out of the Dupont Saturday night. . . . Into its spot goes a double bill: "Bush Christmas," an Australian combination of horse opera and five kids who trek to the hills to track down a band of horse thieves, and "Dulcimer Street," a slice of less than middle class life and murder in London.

THE "WORST" pictures of 1948, according to the Allied exhibitors, who check up on the receipts with bux as the only measuring rod, were: "Captain From Castile," "Gentleman's Agreement," "The Big Clock," "Miracle of the Bells," "The Pirate," "Down to Earth," "The Lady in Ermine," "The Treasure of Sierra Madre," "Time of Your Life" and "Arch of Triumph." . . . Yes, that's what it says: "The Treasure of Sierra Madre" was one of the "worst" pictures of 1948 . . . Do you wonder that this pyramid stuff started in California?

THE "BEST" pictures, according to the same list, were: "Fuller Brush Man," "Green Grass of Wyoming," "My Wild Irish Rose," "Easter Parade," "The Best Years of Our Lives," "Scudda Hoo, Scudda Hay," "The Wistful Widow of Wagon Gap," "Road to Rio," "Bride Goes Wild" and "Sitting Pretty."

AFTER HEMMING and hemming, Catholic University's speech and drama department announces its next production, to be directed by the visiting Basil Langton, who already has directed the students in "Heartbreak House" and "King Lear," the first a notable achievement, the latter an interesting attempt . . . Langton's choice originally was "Peter Pan," but production arrangements snagged and he's come up with a classic, all right, that standby of rep companies in search of a play, "Arms and the Man," the total of whose non-professional productions must be pyramidical.

MARLENE DIETRICH'S in the local news on two counts . . . At last two of her songs from "A Foreign Affair" are on wax and the disc shop finds background music of "Black Market" and "Illusions" a cert for provocative record buyers . . . Marlene's swell on these, and here's hoping they hurry along the third song of that pic, "The Ruins of Berlin" . . . Miss D. also will be Friday and Saturday night's heroine of the Institute of Contemporary Art revival, "The Blue Angel" . . . 1322 New York ave. is the place, 8:30 the hour.

LIANE PLANE, who only last year was studying with Lisa Gardner and the Washington School of Ballet, has had a busy year . . . She's just stepped out of the cast of "All for Love" to join Ballet Theater, which will be at Constitution Hall Saturday night the 19th for a one-night stand . . . Quite a triumph for so recent a student, and Lisa's that proud.

DID YOU KNOW that the great pyramid of Cheops took 30 years to build, so what chance have you got? . . . Sorry I've had to turn down all those phone invitations . . . I just ain't jinin'.

DOROTHY LAMOUR WEEK—Dottie, who always has a busy social time every time she visits here, is equally alert on the downtown screens this week. Today her "Slightly French" arrives at the National. Tomorrow she'll be seen with Brian Donlevy, above, in "The Lucky Stiff" at the Metropolitan

Mechanized Dodgers Have Machines Tossing Knucklers

Camp Is Combination of Baseball, Army, Baby Farm

By Red Smith

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 8 (NYHT).—A newspaperman covering the Brooklyn baseball mills here came hustling across the parade ground of Dodgertown obviously excited.

"Hey!" he cried. "News. I've just discovered you can get out of this place. There's a wire fence all around the compound but it seems they tore down a section of fence to build the batting cages. Want to make a break for it tonight?"

Just them a jeep drove past and another fellow pointed to it.

"See that?" he said. "They've got a bunch of 'em here for running down lammisters. It's no use."

It must be a daily occurrence for Dodger rookies to awaken in their barracks and imagine they are back in the Army. The military routine even extends to paper work which is reminiscent of wartime system. There are, for example, registration forms which even the Ebbets Field regulars fill out upon arrival—name, age, address, state of health and so on. One outfielder wrote that his state of health was Pennsylvania and he misspelled that.

His cellmate is the Dodgers' batting practice champion. He has been around for several years without winning a regular job, but his power in the batting cage continues to awe his proprietors.

"How many practice home runs did you hit in Ebbets Field?" he was asked.

"A hundred sixty-four," he said.

"But you don't do it in games. What are you, a dressing-room fighter?"

"Not me," the young man said. "I drove a truck all winter."

Dodgertown is one part baseball factory, one part military reservation commanded by Generalissimo Branch Rickey, and two parts baby farm. Wives and offspring swarm across the campus, tots are fished howling out of the newly built swimming pool, and the patter of litle Dodgers rouses the late sleeper. Here comes a baseball writer in for breakfast, leading a toddler with one hand and pushing a go-cart with the other. There goes one to cover a practice game, encumbered by typwriter and babe-in-arms.

Generalissimo Rickey stands at the "strings" reviewing his pitchers. Wooden posts flank the plate and white cords are stretched between them, making a rectangle outlining the strike zone. The strings are a temporary makeshift; General Electric has been asked to build a machine that will flood the strike zone with photo-electric energy and automatically flash a light near the mound when a pitch goes through the zone.

The generalissimo watches, comments, advises, questions, criticizes, applauds. He lays a $5 bill on the plate and invites a wild young man to hit it. After several failures, the pitcher succeeds.

"Son," says the generalissimo, "once a farmer was dissatisfied with the way his boy did his job of cleaning the stables. He offered $5 for a good job. The boy worked hard and earned the money.

"'All right,' the farmer said, 'here's your pay. But now that I know you can do it, you'll do it for nothing hereafter.'"

He picks up the banknote and hands it to the pitcher.

"Take this," he says, "but now I know you can control the ball and, Judas Priest, you're going to do it often for nothing."

Machines do everything. Besides the batting tee, there are three different types of pitching machines—a bazooka which fires at batters without warning; a thing known as "Iron Mike" that looks like a siege gun and throws knuckle-balls, and "Overhand Joe," a contraption with a metal arm that delivers the ball.

A rookie steps into a batting cage and takes his stance at a tee. Ballplayers don't get a stationary ball in games, but that's one of the first things they do here. The tee is a metal stake topped by a rubber sleeve on which the ball is placed. The tee is adjustable as to height, and can be placed in any position around the plate.

A coach with a pencil stuck over his ear measures the distance between the hitter's feet and the plate. Maybe the young man is warned that it is impossible for him to hit a pitch over the outside corner from his position. The tee is set up there and if he cannot hit the ball solidly he may be convinced that a change in style is essential.

Workmen are laying sewer pipe for a mechanical retriever of fly balls. When a ball is fielded it will be rolled through inclined pipes into baskets near the pitching machine. "Next year," says Fresco Thompson, "we'll have three mechanical batters and can leave the players home."

There are about 200 players being processed in this $200,000-a-year plant. Before they depart, their fastest time for 60 yards will be recorded and tabulated, their keepers will know exactly how far each hitter stands from the plate, how many inches he strides, and which ones have a hitch in the batting stroke.

If a pitcher can throw 84 of 100 balls through the strike zone, the ledgers will reveal that fact.

But is there anyone in the factory who can hit the home runs that would win the pennant for Brooklyn? Nobody knows. How could anyone tell? Every player here looks exactly like every other one.

With Shirley Povich

(Editor's Note—Today, Shirley Povich interviews Pollyanna in the Nats' training camp. Tomorrow, he will get the views of Grumpy.)

ORLANDO, FLA., MARCH 8—Your full name, please.

"Just call me Pollyanna."

And you are a Washington fan?

"That's right, and I think the Nats are wonderful."

Why? They finished seventh last season.

"But this is a different year."

You are exactly right. But what is so different about the Nats?

"A whole lot. Buddy Lewis is back. And the pitching is better. So is the infield, and our hitting."

Lewis was only a .260 hitter in 1947 when he went into retirement, you know.

"I know. But he had business worries that season. Even so, he has a lifetime batting average of .300.

POVICH

What is so much better about the infield?

"Everything. Take first base. We don't have Mickey Vernon anymore. That's a help."

You mean Ed Robinson is a better first baseman?

"Not only that—he's a better hitter. No slap hitter like Vernon. Robinson led the first basemen with 16 home runs last season, and he gets those hard-hit ground balls Vernon waved at around first base."

AND THE REST of the infield? Same second baseman, Al Kozar.

"But with another year's experience in the big leagues. He always did make the plays around second base, and this year he'll hit with more confidence. But ask me about shortstop."

What about shortstop?

"That's the big improvement in our infield. At last we have a shortstop who can go in all directions and start double plays and be the middleman, if necessary."

Then you like Sam Dente, the kid from the Browns.

"I like him, and so does everybody else in the training camp. He is a better shortstop than Eddie Pellagrini, the fellow the Browns kept when they traded Dente to Washington."

That brings us around to third base.

"And that brings us to Eddie Yost. He's wonderful. The more they bunt against him, the farther he throws them out. Best pair of hands in the league. One of our strong points."

Yost only hit .249 last season.

"I knew you'd bring that up. Unluckiest hitter in the league, he was robbed of a couple of line drives in most every game. But did you see the power he was getting in the last part of the season? Changed his stance and hit his first two big league home runs."

WHAT'S SO GOOD about the Washington catching?

"What's so bad about it. Who throws base runners out better than Jake Early and Al Evans? Nobody except Hegan of the Indians, perhaps. And they've been good catchers for a long time."

But they don't hit much, remember?

"That's right, and neither do any of the other catchers in the league. Gus Niarhos of the Yankees topped 'em with a .268 average."

What's so hot about the outfield besides Buddy Lewis?

"Ed Stewart, for one thing. The Yankees are sorry they ever let him go. Al that fire and hustle and a fair .278 batting average. Led the league in triples with 13 until Tommy Henrich nosed him out in the last week of the season; hit seven home runs."

That's only two outfielders. Where's the third?

"Naturally, we'll have a third outfielder. This could be the year when Gil Coan might start to hit. Or this fellow Clyde Vollmer, or John Simmons. Vollmer hit those 32 home runs in the International League last year. Takes a wonderful cut."

AND YOU LIKE the pitching, too, I suppose?

"You are exactly right. Pitching isn't one of our worries this year."

Pardon me, but why not?

"Ray Scarborough, for one thing. Won 15 and lost only 8 with poor support last year. Sid Hudson will recover from his sore arm. Walter Masterson can have one of his good years. Ed Klieman and Joe Haynes, from Cleveland, always were good pitchers. Mickey Haefner will make a comeback after his operation. Forrest Thompson is one of the best relief pitchers in the business."

Thank you very much, Pollyanna.

Nats Play First Squad Game Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 8.—Manager Joe Kuhel, somewhat secretive about his opening-day lineup heretofore, tipped his mitt today in making intra-squad game assignments.

For the six-inning affair on Thursday which will be the first semblance of a ball game in the Nats' camp thus far, Kuhel announced the following lineups:

| A SQUAD | B SQUAD |
|---|---|
| Coan, lf | Simmons, lf |
| Lewis, rf | Robertson, rf |
| Stewart, cf | Vollmer, cf |
| Robinson, 1b | Bevil, 1b |
| Kozar, 2b | Christman, 2b |
| Yost, 3b | Difani, 3b |
| Dente, ss | Miranda, ss |
| Evans, c | Obrie, c |
| Calvert, p | Scarborough, p |
| Klieman, p | Thompson, p |
| Weltroth, p | Masterson, p |

The chief item of significance is Kuhel's apparent determination to give Gil Coan first shot at the vacant leftfield job in preference to two hot-shot rookies from the International League, Clyde Vollmer and John Simmons.

Buddy Lewis is returning to his old second-place slot in the batting order, and the long-hitting Robinson is fitting naturally into fourth place. The centerfield job is apparently Ed Stewart's to have and to hold as long as he can.

Bevil Utility Man

Kuhel's plans for Lou Bevil, the player-of-all trades now apparently includes duty as a first base replacement for Robinson, in an emergency. Mark Christman is the only other player with first base experience.

Bevil, who relinquished the job as playing-manager of the Orlando farm team to take another shot at the big leagues, played every position in the infield with Orlasdo, was the leading pitcher on the club, and also hit .365. He is only 27.

To balance the hefty edge in batting power held by the A squad, Kuhel has assigned his better pitchers with the B team. Ray Scarborough, who is headed for the opening day's assignment in Washington, will pitch two innings, as will Forrest Thompson and Walter Masterson.

Quick Start for Cuban

For Gullermo Miranda, the little Cuban from Chattanooga, who will play shortstop on the B team, it will be a rapid introduction to the Nats. He was not due to arrive in camp until late tonight.

CLARK GRIFFITH missed todays morning workout to visit briefly with President Truman who was receiving an honorary degree at nearby Rollins College, after a motor parade through Orlando's main drag . . . The President greeted Griffith with "glad to see you, Clark, and wish we had much more time to talk baseball, and get away from politics" . . . Clyde Vollmer continues to show power at the plate in the batting workout and not only reached the fences but drilled some murderous shots through the infield . . . Jay Difani, loaned out to Newark last year, is expected to stick with the Nats this season in a pinch-hitting role . . . The Nats may give a contract to Rudy Rott, of the Tinker Field grounds-keeping force, and take him north as a batting practice pitcher.

Park Hearing Set

Sarasota, Fla., March 8 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler will hold a closed hearing here at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning on the two St. Louis clubs' controversy about use of Sportsmen's Park.

Oregon State Coach Quits

Corvallis, Ore., March 8 (U.P.)—The resignation of Oregon State Head Football Coach Lon Stiner, dean of the Pacific Coast conference coaches, was accepted by the intercollegiate athletic board today.

Herndon Girls Win

The Herndon Hornetts, girls varsity basketball team, last night nosed out Fairfax girls, 18-17, on the loser court. The winning point was made by Jean Hager

Court Order Asks Why Players Should Not Be Reinstated

New York, March 8 (U.P.)—Max Lanier and Fred Martin, two former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers who were suspended for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946, handed organized baseball a series of staggering blows today when they filed suite for $2,500,000 damages and obtained a court order which could lead to their immediate reinstatement.

Shortly after Attorney John L. Flynn filed the whopping triple-damages suit against organized baseball, Federal Judge John Clancy signed an order instructing baseball's controlling executives to show cause on March 15 why Lanier and Martin should not be reinstated.

The suit and the possible order of reinstatement were not the only thrusts the deposed pair took at the sport, however. They also seek in their injunction an order which would permit them to sign contracts which no not contain the "reserve" or "termination" clauses.

These clauses, often criticized as unfair to the player, are now in all baseball contracts. The reserve clause gives the club an option on the player's services even though the contract has expired. The termination clause permits the club to cancel the contract on 10 days' notice.

Follows Gardella Suit

The sweeping attack on the present structure of organized baseball followed the $300,000 damages suit filed by Danny Gardella, another Mexican League "jumper" who formerly played with the New York Giants. Gardella's suit originally was thrown out of court, but a Federal Court of Appeals subsequently ordered that the suit be tried.

Lanier and Martin, both 33, did not show up at the clerk's office when Attorney Flynn strode in, a herd of reporters on his heels, to file the suit he had promised. They remained in Flynn's Wall Street offices and saw newsmen after the suit was filed.

In their suit, which names as defendants Commissioner A. B. Chandler, the American and National Leagues and their presidents, Minor Leagues President George Trautman and each major league club individually, the former Cardinals claim Lanier suf-

Danny (Of All People!) Blasts Boys for Suit

Mount Vernon, N. Y., March 8 (U.P.).—Danny Gardella, the man who started all the shooting over baseball's reserve clause, leveled a blistering broadside at Max Lanier and Fred Martin tonight, charging them with "jumping on the gravy train."

The former New York Giant outfielder said:

"There are a number of reasons I'm against them.

"First of all, Martin and Lanier and the majority of the other players are contract 'jumpers.' I never was one.

"Secondly, they all received $5000 bonuses from the Mexican League which I did not receive.

"Thirdly, circumstances forced me to jump. No one was forcing them."

Connie Mack Unhurt in Auto Crash

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 8 (AP).—Connie Mack, 86-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, was shaken up in an automobile accident today.

A car in which Mack was riding was hit from the side by another car, police reported. The veteran manager was returning from an intrasquad game at the A's training site here.

Connie's car was driven by his chauffeur, Windsor (Chuck) Roberts.

Mrs. Mack said that Connie returned to his hotel after the accident and took his customary afternoon nap. She said he appeared to be unhurt.

Ashburn Knocked Out

Clearwater, Fla., March 8 (AP).—Richie Ashburn, fleet young Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder, was knocked out by a thrown ball today as he tried to score from third base on a wild pitch by Charlie Bicknell.

Catcher Ken Silvestri, who had to run back to the stands to recover the pitch, made the throw to Bicknell, who was covering the plate, and the ball hit Asburn above the right eye.

Dr. Edwin A. Talbot of Joliet, Ill., who was in the stands, examined Asburn and had him sent to Clearwater Hospital for 24 hours observation.

DiMaggio On Bench

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 8 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio sat on the bench today and the New York Yankee regulars took an 8-to-4 licking from the club rookies in a practice baseball game.

DiMaggio, the club's No. 1 star, was idle because of blisters on four toes, suffered when he inserted arch supports and new inner soles into his baseball shoes during a brief morning drill.

Celebrities Golf June 4-5; Francis Ouimet Enters Meet

Tournament officials yesterday selected June 4-5 as the dates of the third annual National Celebrities Golf event at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Ouimet

Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Arthur Godfrey will be among the stars from the entertainment world in the tournament.

Frances Ouimet, captain of this year's Walker Cup team, yesterday became one of the first golfing greats to enter the 1949 tournament.

"I was planning a trip abroad but I'll either delay it or pass it up in order to play in the Celebrities tournament," he said yesterday from his home in Boston. "I consider it that much of an honor to be invited."

Ouimet is among America's traditional golfing figures.

He had held both the open and amateur championships. He won the open in 1913 by shooting a 72 in a playoff with England's Harry Vardon and Edward Ray.

He won the amateur in 1914, defeating Jerome Travers in the finals, 6-5, and he won the title again in 1931—the year after Bobby Jones' last triumph in the amateur.

Ouimet is a charter member of the American Walker Cup team, having played on the 1922 team that defeated Great Britain, 8-4, in the first international matches.—BUS HAM.

C Club Refuses To Alter Rules Of Track Meet

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Central Alumni "C" Club yesterday rejected a request by the high school principals to change the rules governing its annual track meet.

The principals' request followed a threatened boycott of the District schools by Maryland and Virginia.

The two neighboring States are members of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, which have refused to sanction the "C" Club meet because:

It is not sponsored by the Board of Education;

And it permits high and prep athletes to compete against each other.

Shut off Civic Interest

Bob Newby, spokesman for the "C" Club said last night: "I'm not quite sure what will happen now. But even if it means the end of the "C" Club meet, the club is sticking to its guns.

"This meet has been run successfully by the club for 30 years, and didn't run into any trouble until the federation dictators stuck their nose into it," Newby stated.

"The federation's headquarters are in Chicago, a long way from here. Its officials do not understand our problems here.

"The only conclusions that we can gather fro mthe federation's attitude are:

"It wants to shut off civic interest in athletics by eliminating "C" Club sponsorship.

"And it's trying to inflict an inferiority complex on the high school athletes.

Violets Thump CCNY by 65-52

New York, March 8 (AP).—New York University's basketball Violets kept their tournament hopes alive tonight by thumping their local arch rivals, City College of New York, 65-52, before a sellout crowd of 18,137 in Madison Square Garden. Two hot spurts in the second half carried the blazing Violets to victory.

Eagan Says 'No' to Louis

New York, March 8 (AP).—Joe Louis' New York debut as a promoter sold out a midtown restaurant today but the retired heavyweight champion was forced to admit defeat in his first venture here in the promotional field.

Louis said Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, had rejected his request to have the proposed Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott bout sanctioned here as for the world's championship.

The Brown Bomber told a large gathering of newspapermen, photographers and radio people, of his meeting with Eagan this morning.

Louis said Eagan was "friendly and offered to help me in any way.

"The commissioner told me that he could not sanction any one fight as for the world's championship," Louis said.

Abe Greene, commissioner of the National Boxing Association already has given Louis' recently formed international boxing club permission to name the Charles-Walcott winner the "World's Champion."

Louis said he would like to have the blessings of both bodies and didn't relish the idea of dual champions. He said he considered both fight bodies as equally important.

D. C. Glovers Win by Kayos

New York, March 8.—Three first-round knockouts were registered by Washington, D. C. punchers tonight as the Eastern Golden Gloves tournament of champions went through its quarterfinal round.

Roland Randall, 160-pounder from the Nation's Capital, stopped Trenton's Lamar Britton in 1:13 of the first. In the 147-pound class Leon Daughtry needed one minute and 37 seconds to knockout Howard Collins of Charlotte, N. C. Light-heavyweight Elliott Powers was one second faster in disposing of Cleven Murray of Huntington, W. Va.

Eugene Smith of Washington stopped Tommy Rohatch of Trenton, N. J., at :58 of the third round. Washington's Pete Cilinski, in the 135-pound division, outpointed New York's Al Niang. Pat Thomas, Washington's 126-pounder, was knocked out by Juan Curet, of Puerto Rico, at 1:19 of the third.

In the heavyweight ranks, Washington's Eddie Grant was knocked out in 47 seconds of the first round by Bob Baker, Pittsburgh.

Vinnie De Angelis Colonial Coach

Vinnie DeAngelis, assistant business manager of George Washington University, will take over as temporary baseball coach until such time as Head Coach Arthur "Otts" Zahn is able to return to active duty, the school announced yesterday.

A former baseball and grid star for the Colonials, DeAngelis served as assistant or head diamond mentor from 1939 until last year.

Ducks on Increase, Convention Told

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Ah, there was good duck news last night!

Just when the wildlife experts were predicting publicly and privately that wild ducks and geese would be extinct in another 50 years—and they could be right—the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service tossed a stack of mimeographed sheets at the current National Wildlife Conference.

The conservation boys and girls, gathered at the Statler Hotel for the three-day confab, didn't have time to duck.

When they read the handout [illegible] cheerful and ducky, in distinct contrast to almost every other bit of information gathered in a day of ear-bending.

Improved condition on the breeding grounds coupled with stringent hunting regulations of the past two years are credited with the new gains.

The inventory was conducted in mid-January by an army of trained observers at important wintering points from Alaska to Guatemala. In addition to the personnel of the Fish and Wildlife Service, pilots of the armed forces of all nations involved took part.

On the other hand, quail ain't doing so hot, if you know what I mean.

Phil Goodrum, of the Atlanta office, says the population of these birds has been on the decline for 10 years and 1948 was no exception.

The state of the Union, as far as ducks and geese are concerned, is darned good, according to Albert M. Day, director of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

He makes that statement after the annual inventory of North America's migratory waterfowl on the wintering ground. "An encouraging increase in the continent's duck and goose population," says the paper.

Brother Day, however, pointed out that there was a heavy decline

St. John's, Gonzaga Tangle for Catholic Crown Tonight

Both Take 7-1 Records Into Uline's

Gonzaga and St. John's clash in the Catholic High League basketball championship game at 8 o'clock tonight at Uline Arena.

Eliminated in the early rounds of the Metro tourney, they were slated to meet in the consolation game at College Park Monday. But they decided that their game is enough of an attraction on its own to draw a sizable crowd to Uline.

Both teams wound up with 7-1 records in the league competition. They've played each other twice, and split even. St. John's won the first game, 33 to 27, and Gonzaga upset the dope in a return match, 38 to 37.

After compiling impressive winning records during the season, the two clubs have tapered off during the past week. St. John's was upset by Central, 33-30, in the Metro after having beaten the Vikings by 18 points earlier in the year. And Gonzaga lost to George Washington of Alexandria and Washington-Lee of Arlington.

Going into tonight's game, Gonzaga has a 21-5 record, compared to 24-4 for St. John's. Its record was good enough to earn St. John's a place in the Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic Invitation Tourney March 24-26 in Newport, R. I.

Gonzaga has a height and psychological advantage in tonight's contest. All five Eagle starters tower over 6 feet, 1 inch, while St. John's starters, Don Kokes and Bob McLinden, are less than 5 feet, 10.

'C' Club Won't Alter Rules

tance of high school races, placing the high school boys under a handicap when they reach college.

"The federation is hoodwinking the public into thinking it has a grip on the scholastic athletic program of the Nation. It claims that 46 States are members of the federation.

"What it carefully omits is that the federation has attracted only the rural schools. The cities have shied away.

"For example, Illinois is represented in the federation. But Chicago, the site of the federation's headquarters, still hasn't joined up. Maryland belongs, but Baltimore still doesn't. New York City is not a member either.

"I'm not quite sure what will happen next, but you can be sure that the 'C' Club will make an issue if the threatened boycott results in cancellation of our meet," Newby concluded.

In addition to their request to the "C" Club, the principals yesterday also appointed a committee, headed by Miss May P. Bradshaw of Roosevelt High, to investigate easing the eligibility rules of the Interhigh League. Under present rules, bona fide athletes must maintain passing grades in four major subjects.

The committee will report at the principals' April meeting.

Cooper, Cardenas Rematched for Bout Next Monday

A chance to even an old score will be given Jimmy Cooper, popular local scrapper, when he tangles with Jose Cardenas in the 10-round feature of next Monday's fight card at Turner's Arena.

Cooper lost an exciting eight-round match to the little Mexican a year ago. Since then he has gradually improved, his latest fights resulting in victories over Art Llanos and Tony Longo. It was the first loss in 74 fights for Llanos.

Mr. America Shows On Arena Mat

There'll be a lot of other beef on the Turner's Arena wrestling card tonight, but of chief interest to lady fans will be the 215 pounds of it carried around by Mr. America, whose normal name is Gene Stanlee.

Mr. America meets Joe Kamaroff, Russian meanie, in the feature. Other shenanigans involve Nanjo Singh and Wilbur Nead, Ditch Schweigert and the Golden Superman, Tony Cosenza and Marvin Mercer, and Henry Piers and Bibber McCoy.

Earl Himel Stops Charging Papa Bear

Earl G. Himel, of Forest Hills, L. I., tells this story. "My brother and I had a close call while hunting bear near Marshall's Creek, Pa. A big 'blackie' caught us by surprise and charged us, growling. Two fast shots from my lever action Marlin 30-30 stopped him. A cub scampered away. Our bear, it turned out, was not his mother, but a protective papa!"

"And for fast-shaving blades that can take it, give me Marlins every time!" adds Mr. Himel. "100 Marlin Blades lasted me a full year in the South Pacific." Single or Double Edge—12 for 25c; Economy Packs 25 for 50c, 60 for $1.

Sports Unlimited: Bluege Nats' Busiest Man as Farm Boss

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

THE NATS' BUSIEST MAN these days isn't at Orlando. e's Farm Director Ossie Bluege who is trying to place undreds of talented (?) young players owned by the club . . three persons guessed exactly the weight of the rock-sh frozen into a block of ice at the Sportsmen's and Out-ors Show. They were R. O. Nichoff of Arlington, Marian ameson of Alexandria and F. A. Burch of LaPlata, Md. he weight was 15½ pounds.

Joe Palmer reminds me that despite inflation the $2 mutuel ticket has not gone up. Let that one sink in . . . Buddy Lewis, Nats' outfielder, flew over India's hump many times during the war, but may find it harder to get over the come-back hump of baseball after a year away from the sport . . . T. T. A MIDWESTERN FISHERMAN, casting on Lake Michigan one lay, allowed his rod to slip out of his grip and thereby tossed way more than $150 worth of equipment—rod, reel, line, etc. . . . so he set about seeing that it didn't happen again, coming up with an invention, soon to be marketed, called "Retrieve-A-Buoy." It's a neat corrugated aluminum cylinder that fits on the handle of a rod and contains a cork-like buoy topped with red, some 30 feet of nylon silk and a heavy spring. When the rod sinks to the bottom, water dissolves a thin paper releasing the spring and sending the buoy on the way to the top . . . the rod can be pulled in on the 14-pound test nylon thread . . . I predicted long ago that the three animals would meet some day in the eighth race on a half-mile track. This could be the year . . . sorry I handled roughly the fellow who phoned me in the wee hours the other night to ask what cards were wild in playing Evil Eye. I just wasn't in a kidding mood . . . why not rematch the Maryland U. and Catholic U. boxing teams and fill the Armory? And how about a special four-rounder between Heinie Miller and Eddie LaFond? . . . a youngster, watching the water ballet at the Sportsmen's and Outdoor Show, asked his dad, "What kind of bait do you use for mermaids?"

Lane Signs Prince Georges Bill For 92-Member Jury Panels

By Phillip J. Austensen
Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 8.—Prince Georges County will draw a venire panel of 92 instead of the present 72 under a new law signed today by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr.

The measure was hurried through to permit Judge Charles C. Marbury to operate under it for the April term of court.

A House bill to establish city manager government in Takoma Park was referred to the Montgomery and Prince Georges County delegations as a select committee, to become effective January 1 unless disapproved by two voters at a referendum November 8.

In another bill introduced by Delegate William H. McGrath (D., Prince Georges) and John R. Reeves (R., Montgomery), the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission would be empowered to construct storm drainage systems and assess the cost against those benefitted. The bill was referred also to the Montgomery-Prince Georges delegations.

Creation of a fund to provide for volunteer firemen injured on duty is provided in a bill introduced by Senators Louis L. Goldstein (D., Calvert), Paul J. Bailey (R., St. Marys) and Harry T. Phoebus (R., Somerset.)

The bill would require fire insurance companies to set aside one per cent of premiums collected to go into a volunteer firemen's fund to be turned over to the State insurance commissioner. Injured firemen would be paid at the same rate as persons under workmen's compensation. Proponents assert the firemen's work has reduced fire losses and saved the companies money and the firemen should be compensated for their injuries.

Another bill passed by the House would authorize Riverdale to levy a ten-cent tax for fire prevention equipment, in addition to the 55-cent levy for municipal purposes. The bill is to be submitted to referendum May 2.

Referendum Proposed On Maryland Bonus

Annapolis, Md., March 8 (AP).—Some Maryland veterans pleaded today that the people should be allowed to vote on a soldier's bonus. Others said this was plain buck-passing.

Veterans' affairs got an airing in two General Assembly hearings, but an expected outpouring of former GIs did not come to pass. Only a few persons were around to hear the arguments.

The Senate Finance Committee heard a dozen persons tell how they felt about the 100 million dollar bonus and whether it should be on the ballot in 1950.

The House Ways and Means Committee listened with considerable interest to a plan for a five-million-dollar State fund which would guarantee loans by veterans who want to start in business or buy household goods.

The American Legion, the Progressive Party of Maryland, the Communist Party of Maryland, representatives of the CIO Textile Workers in Cumberland and others lined up behind the bonus bill.

As written by Minority Leader Kimble (R., Allegany) of the Senate, the bonus would be voted on at the next election. It would pay $10 for every month served in this country and $15 for every month overseas. The most any veteran could get would be $500.

Governor Lane has indicated he would veto the bonus referendum on the grounds the money isn't provided for, but Kimble said privately today he didn't think the Governor would veto the measure.

The American Veterans Committee, the Reserve Officers of Naval Service, the Baltimore Junior Association of Commerce, some unattached veterans and others spoke out against a bonus.

Toned-Down Chiropractor Reports Are Adopted

Annapolis, Md., March 8 (AP).—The House today adopted favorable committee reports on toned-down chiropractor and chiropodist measures.

The public health and welfare committee headed by Delegate Steward (D., Prince Georges), a physician, brought out amended bills in an effort to compromise conflicting views presented at public hearings.

A section of the chiropractor bill which doctors said would have "put chiropractors right into the practice of medicine" was reworded.

Wayne Millner Joins Flaherty As End Coach of Hornets

A coaching staff made up exclusively of former Washington Redskins was almost completed by the Chicago Hornets yesterday when Wayne Millner, playing and coaching ace of the 'Skins, confirmed a report he would coach ends for the All-America Conference team this season.

Millner will work under Head Coach Ray Flaherty, Redskin mentor from 1936 to 1942, when he entered the service. Acting as line coach for the Chicago club, previously called the Rockets, is former Redskin Tackle Jim Barber.

Millner, an All-America selection in 1934 and 1935, left the Redskins when his contract as end coach was not renewed after last season. He had been a playing star from 1936, the Redskins' last year in Boston, until he joined the Navy in 1941. In 1943-44 he acted as player-coach and since has devoted his full time to coaching.

The raw-boned veteran said he had no regrets about leaving the National Football League. While engaged in his off-season job with the J. J. Sullivan Constructors, he had considered coaching posts with the Los Angeles Rams and New York Bulldogs.

"I'm just pleased about getting back with Flaherty," Millner said. "He always does a good job of coaching and I know as long as I produce I'll have a job with him."

Probe of Public Golf Courses Asked by Congressman Rivers

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

A Congressman last night added his voice to the growing chorus of those dissatisfied with the present condition of the District public golf courses.

Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D., S. C.) announced that he will introduce in the House today a resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of the privately operated concession.

Rivers said his resolution will ask the House Committee on Public Lands to investigate Department of Interior lease renewals for the courses and all facilities connected with them.

"It's obvious the courses are poorly run," said Rivers, "and it's high time somebody carefully looked over the whole setup.

"My aim is to speak for the golfers who have to play them and insist that they are run properly."

The 43-year-old Congressman said he first played on the public links here in 1936 when he was a special attorney with the Department of Justice.

"It was plain to see then that nobody tried very hard to please the golfers," Rivers said, "and it's still plain that nobody seems to care.

"It's this proprietary attitude I object to. These courses shouldn't be run to make money either for private concessionaires or the Government.

"These courses are for the people. I'm going to try to see that they get more enjoyment out of them."

Mount Vernon Romps To County Title, 77-39

Capitol Heights Seniors Win County Crown

A goal by Paul Niedenback senior title in the annual Prince gave Capitol Heights five the Georges Boys Club tournament last night at Ritchie Coliseum, 28-26, over Bladensburg. In the junior division Oxon Hill rolled over Capitol Heights, 44-38, for the crown.

fered $500,000 damages and Martin $333,333.33. They ask triple damages under the antitrust laws for at total of $2,500,000, $1,500,000 for Lanier and one million dollars for Martin.

In addition, they seek reinstatement.

"There Will Be More"

Baseball now must answer the show cause order March 15—next Tuesday. In addition, it has within 20 days to answer the damages suit. If it does answer, the case will then be placed on the court docket. No answer could result in an immediate cash judgment for the two players.

Attorney Flynn said: "We have no intention of letting this drag through the courts. We believe and hope the entire matter can be decided within two weeks."

But this, he indicated, was only the beginning of his attack. Asked if he's contemplating further suits on behalf of other suspended players, Flynn said:

"There will be more."

He refused to reveal what other players might sue. However, nearly a dozen of them still are under the five-year suspension ordered by Commissioner Chandler when the Mexican League raided American talent in the spring of 1946.

Lanier told reporters that he didn't want to sue at first, that he held off even after Gardella's successful flight into court in the hopes that Chandler would reinstate him.

"Chandler indicated that he would give us a decision on our reinstatement by February 14," Lanier said. "When that didn't come, I wired him. Eight days later I got a letter saying no reinstatement was contemplated 'at present.'"

House Unit Boosts Funds for Health

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The House Appropriations Committee, not unmindful of Budget Bureau economies, yesterday voted $8,445,000 more than asked of them to fight cancer, heart ills and mental disorders.

Hearing transcripts, also released yesterday, revealed that committee members scored the Budget Bureau for not following the will of Congress.

Yesterday's committee report recognized those research needs, at least for cancer, mental illness and heart disorders. In each instance, the committee recommended greater appropriations than had been asked in President Truman's budget.

The funds were set up in a $2,211,794,085 Labor Department-Federal Security Agency appropriation bill to be debated today in the House of Representatives. Also included were appropriations for the National Mediation Board and the Railroad Retirement Board.

FSA Gets Most

FSA was apportioned the bulk of the money, $1,478,426,585, of which $1,058,000,000 is to match State payments of old-age assistance and aid to dependent children and blind persons.

For health measures the committee recommended:

1. For cancer research and control, $16,400,000 in cash and five million dollars in contract authority, an increase of $4,400,000 over those budget requests approved by the Budget Bureau.

2. For the National Heart Institute which directs research in heart ailments, $7,725,000 cash and $3,850,000 in contract authority, an increase of $3,220,000 over the "approved" budget.

3. For the mental health program, $11,387,000, an increase of $825,000 over budget requests.

4. For the National Dental Research Institute, which like the National Heart Institute, was created by congressional act last year, the committee granted the full amount recommended by the Administration, or $1,780,000.

Rehabilitation Fund Upped

The committee also approved $20,500,000 to help the States carry on vocational rehabilitation work among handicapped persons. The sum is $2,500,000 more than that appropriated for the current fiscal year.

Transcript of the committee hearing showed close questioning of witnesses over the possible effects of Budget Bureau cuts on the work of their divisions.

At one point, Representative Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.), a committee member, expressed himself as "shocked" at Budget Bureau cuts in appropriations requested to finance the national mental health program.

"I am rather shocked at this time to see what I consider to be the ultimate guts of this program desecrated in this way by the august body that we call the Bureau of the Budget," Representative Keefe declared.

Victor Johnston To Direct Senate GOP Campaigners

Victor A. Johnston, Madison, Wis., former campaign aide of Harold E. Stassen, yesterday was appointed executive director of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

Johnston was manager of Stassen's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in the Wisconsin primary last year. After the Philadelphia convention he was national director of Dewey-Warren clubs. Since then he has been administrative assistant to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.).

Johnston will be in charge of newspaper and radio publicity and of the field organization in States having senatorial contests in 1950.

Few Shifts Allowed In Personnel Under Labor-Security Bill

Very few personnel shifts would be made by the Labor-Federal Security supply bill which was reported to the House yesterday by the House Appropriations Committee.

It's possible, under the bill, for FSA's Bureau of Employment Security to provide funds for several thousand additional employes in its State offices. But the people won't be hired unless unemployment grows. The offices pay insurance to the unemployed.

At headquarters here the bureau would have to lay off 88 employes. Its Veterans' Employment Service would have to wipe out 204 jobs. In brief, this is how other FSA agencies were treated by the committee:

No substantial change in personnel would be made in the FOOD & DRUG ADMINISTRATION or the BUREAU OF EMPLOYES' COMPENSATION. The committee would require the OFFICE OF EDUCATION to absorb 75 per cent of the cost of last year's $330 pay raises, but it said employment would remain about the same nevertheless.

PUBLIC HEALTH. About 65 administrative jobs would be wiped out of the Federal-State Hospital program staff. The committee ordered the agency to continue its practice of commissioning medical and dental interns. The Budget Bureau wants the interns in civil service jobs that would pay about half the young doctors now receive as commissioned officers. To conduct Federal worker health programs, the agency was given $167,000, a reduction of $225,000 under this year's appropriation. For general salaries and expenses, PHS would get only $24,000 more than it has for this year.

BOASI: The Bureau of Old-Age & Survivors Insurance would get funds for only 23 additional employes. Its officials pleaded for better office space. Public Buildings officials were quoted as saying their headquarters offices in Baltimore are the worst in the Government. . . CHILDREN'S BUREAU: The committee knocked out the $48,000 it requested to hire 10 more employes to study practices of childbearing and early infancy in a selected community.

ADMINISTRATOR'S OFFICE: Its plans for a new 16-man program staff were rejected. In fact, the committee knocked out the entire proposed increase of $223,000, which would force a small reduction in this office.

LABOR: In the Secretary's office, the personnel division would have to lay off 29 employes. Four new employes were allowed for other offices. . . . LABOR STANDARDS: It was given the budget estimate of $391,000 which would maintain its present staff. The agency would resume its training of State factory inspectors under the bill . . . VETERANS' REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS: This bureau of 44 employes would be continued unchanged . . . APPRENTICESHIP: The budget estimate of $2,605,000 was approved. The bureau would have four fewer employes.

BLS: The only substantial personnel change would be in the Bureau of Labor Statistics. BLS was given funds to hire 162 new employes. Most of them would be at headquarters here. Increased BLS money would be used principally to study State and local employment, hours, earnings, etc. During the hearings it was revealed that the Budget Bureau whacked $1,155,000 from BLS estimates.

WAGE AND HOUR: It would be required to absorb the cost of ingrade promotions and of reclassifying some inspector jobs. However, the committee emphasized that no inspectors are to be laid off if a reduction becomes necessary . . . WOMEN'S BUREAU: It was given funds to hire 10 new employes to study working conditions in the garment industry.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD would have funds for about a dozen new employes. It was given an increase of $674,000 but $651,000 of it is needed for pay raises voted by Congress . . . NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD was given all it asked for, $928,500. The committee said the agency made "very modest" requests for funds.

HEARINGS on the many pay increases and retirement bills in the House were promised yesterday by Chairman Tom Murray of the House Civil Service Committee. The chairman revealed his plans in a talk to the AFL's Government Employe Council. He made no promises as to hearing dates or bills that might be reported. Murray did indorse the Administration bill to increase the benefits for employes who are injured on the job.

Earlier, the AFL group criticized both the Administration and the Congress for the "slowdown" on employe legislation. It demanded prompt action on the many Federal worker reform measures. The House and Senate Civil Service Committee hasn't even been able to get reports on the various bills from the agencies.

Montgomery Planning And Zoning Move Beaten

Bill to Transfer Park Commission Functions Meets Assembly Defeat

Legislation to vest in Montgomery County government the planning and zoning functions of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission was defeated yesterday by a nearly solid party vote in the Maryland General Assembly.

Only one Democrat, Delegate Thomas Francis Dempsey (Baltimore, Third District) shifted from the party line, as the House adopted committee reports on the legislation by a 78-to-32 vote.

Court Challenge Hinted

Meanwhile, at a regular meeting of the Montgomery County Council in Rockville, Councilman J. Douglas Bradshaw suggested the council might consider "challenging the entire Park and Planning Commission act in the courts."

Council President Frederic P. Lee also hinted that the council might set up its own zoning agency if the Park and Planning Commission continues to refuse to do so.

The General Assembly vote in Annapolis followed more than two hours of debate between Montgomery County delegates and Prince Georges County's all-Democratic delegation.

Montgomery delegates contended the bills merely would restore to the county council the rights and prerogatives over zoning that every other county in Maryland has and that the bills would not interfere with park planning and acquisition duties of the commission.

Prince Georges delegates described the legislation as "ripper bills" to destroy regional planning adjacent to the Nation's Capital. They asserted both Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties should be treated as an entity in planning.

Duplication Question

At the Rockville meeting of the Montgomery Council, Councilman P. G. Ligon asked President Lee if establishing a separate county agency for zoning would not be a duplication. Lee admitted it would, but he said he felt the county taxpayers would rather have duplication than a "continued situation in which there is no enforcement."

Council developments followed disclosure that Mayor John C. Post, of Takoma Park, had written the Prince Georges and Montgomery County legislators in Annapolis to complain about the lack of zoning enforcement.

J. Bond Smith, counsel for the Park and Planning Commission, replying to Mayor Post's blast, labeled the mayor's letters "a red herring maneuver by proponents of the ripper legislation, in an attempt to confuse the issue."

Some Applications For Auto Licenses Carry Headaches

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp yesterday said his biggest headache is those applications for auto license tags that have to be returned because they lack something.

Some applicants don't enclose last year's registration card. Some lack a check or money order. Some checks are made out to the traffic department instead of the collector of taxes. Some checks come in—without applications.

Keneipp estimates he's receiving about 500 such applications daily.

One solution is to purchase the tags directly at the traffic department office in the Municiual Building. At the present time, there are no lines, no waiting.

Reappointment of G. R. Young Urged by Summit Park Group

The Summit Park Citizens Association last night endorsed action of the Federation of Citizens Associations calling for another three-year appointment of Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young to the District Board of Commissioners.

Meeting at the An Beers School, Alabama ave. and 36th st. se., the group named a committee to nominate candidates for its April election. President Arthur E. Morrisette was indorsed for the District Junior Chamber of Commerce annual attainment award in civic affairs.

The association also agreed to sponsor a boys' softball team to be entered in the Hilltop Recreation Council.

Midway Civic Group Indorses Houston

The Midway Civic Association last night indorsed Attorney Charles Houston for Commssioner after it had earlier been told that Thomas P. Morgan, jr., would definitely be chosen to succeed Commissioner John Russell Young, whose term runs out in May.

Addressing the meeting informally at the Morgan School, Champlain and California sts nw., Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott said he had been informed by "an outstanding Democratic leader" that Morgan was "definitely' in. He urged Negro civic groups to get behind Morgan's appointment.

Discussing a proposed home rule bill now under consideration, Judge Scott said a provision calling for a city-wide election of a city council would make it impossible for a Negro to get on the council.

In addition to getting on record in favor of Houston's appointment, the 25 members present at the meeting also voted to get together with the churches to evolve a program to curb juvenile delinquency.

Randle Highlands Group Asks Speeding of Bridge

The Randle Highlands Citizens Association last night asked the Distrct government to expedite plans for the construction of the proposed Massachusetts ave. bridge over the Anacostia River.

Meeting at the Randle Highlands School, 30th and R sts. se., the group also approved a report on suggested improvements in Washington, Marlboro, and Annapolis Bus Co. service, drawn up by representatives from citizens associations in the area served by the company.

Thomas Circle Citizens Indorse Sales Tax

The proposed District sales tax was indorsed last night by the Thomas Circle Citizens Association.

The group of 10 members, meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Ella M. Thompson, 1536 16th st. nw., also submitted a request to the District Commissioners not to remove the elm trees from New York ave., and donated $5 to the National Symphony Orchestra drive.

Parkview Businessmen Support J. R. Young

The Parkview Businessmen's Association yesterday unanimously urged reappointment of Commissioner John Russell Young to the District Board of Commissioners when his term expires in May.

Sponsor of the motion, Association President Henry Schneider, said, "We wouldn't care for anyone but Commissioner Young and we hope, if reappointed, he will accept." The motion was seconded by Jack Zoltrow, association secretary-treasurer, at the lunch meeting at the Miami Sea Food Grill, 3642 Georgia ave. nw.

Lamond Citizens Favor Rezoning Along B & O

A motion to request District Commissioners to rezone to residential or first commercial, the tracts of land along the B. & O. Railroad's tracks, between Underwood st. ne. and Riggs rd. ne., was adopted last night by the Lamond Citizens Association.

The newly named association, meeting in the Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne., heard from the group's president, H. F. Baxter, that the association had been officially accepted into membership of the Federation of Citizens Association.

Formerly designated the Chillum-Castle Manor Citizens Association, the group's attendance last night was nearly 50 members.

Fort Dupont Citizens Name Shoap President

Richard L. Shoap, 1635 Fort Davis pl. se., last night was elected president of the Fort Dupont Citizens Association, at a meeting at the Ann Beers School, Alabama ave. and 36th st. se.. Shoap succeeds Lieut. Comdr. Henry E. Solomon, USCG.

John C. Estes was elected vice president; Henry M. Schroen secretary, and David Aronin treasurer. Shoap will continue as the group's delegate to the Southeast Council and the Federation of Citizens Associations. Solomon was appointed delegate to the Federation. However, at his own request he will no longer serve as a delegate to the Southeast Council.

Bethlehem Makes Low Bid on Bay Bridge

Baltimore, March 8 (AP).—Bethlehem Steel Co. today submitted a low bid of $16,854,104 for building the superstructure of Maryland's new bridge across Chesapeake Bay.

Special Policemen May Work In More Than One Precinct

District Commissioners decided yesterday to amend the new regulations on special policemen to permit those on duty before January 1 to continue operating in more than one precinct.

Under the new rules, which went into effect January 1, special policemen are restricted to functions in one precinct.

The change is being made in the rules at the request of Harry Tipp of 2800 Woodley rd. nw., a special policeman for the past 17 years. Tipp and his attorney, Raymond Gittelman, told the city heads yesterday that the one precinct limitation would make it impossible for the special policemen to earn a living.

Tipp argued that the special officers save police patrolmen much time by checking on doors of commercial establishments and mentioned many citations given by police to the officers for their aid.

Tipp was arrested in January for violating the new rules by acting as a night watchman in four precincts and charged him with carrying a dangerous weapon, a nightstick. The case was continued pending action by the Commissioners on the rules.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said the charges have not been withdrawn and that Tipp will have to reapply for a special officer's permit under the revised rules. At that time a decision will be made on whether to prosecute the pending charges, West said.

Old Soldier Hit by Auto, Badly Hurt

An 85-year-old resident of Soldiers' Home suffered possible fractures of both legs yesterday when struck by a car at the entrance to the grounds.

Police said the man, Max List, was walking on East-West rd. when hit by an automobile driven by Randolph H. Fires, 4608 N. Capitol st. He was taken to the Soldiers' Home Hospital, then transferred to Walter Reed Hospital, where attendants said his condition was critical.

In another accident, a 61-year-old motorist suffered a concussion and cuts and bruises when the car he was driving collided with the rear of a parked tow-truck in the 1500 block of New York ave. ne.

The driver, Fred T. Watson, of 2803 5th st. ne., was taken to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was described as critical.

Postlude

Philadelphia Orchestra Outdoes Self

By Paul Hume

Music of two great religious spirits opened last night's concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Constitution Hall's full house heard a choral prelude by Bach, arranged for orchestra by Eugene Ormandy, and the seventh symphony by Anton Bruckner. Ormandy's transcription of the Bach is good, calling for smooth strings and moderate winds throughout, with only a slightly questionable crescendo at the last chord. If the phrasing is not what my old organ teacher would have sugegsted, it is at least appropriate for symphony orchestra.

Anton Bruckner had the misfortunie to become the principal figure in one of the late nineteenth century's most notorious and odorous squabbles. Falling between two such giants as Brahms and Wagner, Bruckner never comes into his rightful acclaim except when given such great performances as last night's. For the Philadelphia men and Ormandy outdid themselves every way, to mafle explicit the vast dreams and visions of the truly mystical composer.

The orchestra was supplemented by four "Wagner" tubes, designed by Wagner himself for some of his larger works, and much admired by Bruckner. These blended with the other brass and woodwinds in unusual splendor.

The slow movement of the symphony, a piercing threnody to the dying Wagner, was eloquent to the point of true grief. The scherzo, brilliantly turned out, is empty of ideas, but not of superb attire. It was completely satisfying to hear one of the great Bruckner scores, and in such a reading.

Benno Moiseiwitch soloed with the orchestra in the second of Tschaikowsky's piano concertos. It may well have come as a revelation to many in the audience to know that there was more than one, but Ballet Theater has more than once danced its Ballet Imperial here, to this same music.

Moiseiwitch, who says that there are actually five piano concertos by Tschaikowsky, is assuredly one of the men born to play such music. He was brilliant, assured, and in calmer moments, evoekd gentle songs from the piano. With the kind of accompaniment always afforded by this orchestra, the concerto brought the house down.

3 Children Saved From Fiery Death

D. C. Firemen Brave Smoke to Rescue Youngsters Trapped In Blazing Room

Three small children were saved from death by firemen when a blaze broke out yesterday in a rooming house at 1823 Vernon st. nw.

Three firemen got a bad dose of smoke as they groped about the flaming room of Mrs. Sylvia Hughes, 20, for her three children, Leroy, 2½ years; Gilbert, 18 months, and Cecelia, 5 months.

The rescue was accomplished by Sergt. E. D. Swanner and Pvt. M. B. Raedy of No. 9 Engine Co., and Pvt. S. A. Bishop, aide to a battalion chief.

Swaner said when they arrived shortly before 9 a. m. the mother was in the building, but not in her third-floor room.

Smoke obscured the room as the firemen searched for the children. Two of them they found in a crib, the frame of which had already begun to burn. The third was on a couch, the mattress burning.

After emergency treatment by a fire rescue squad, the children were taken to Children's Hospital. All of them had suffered from inhaling smoke, and shock. Gilbert also had first and second degree burns about his chest and hands.

The fire marshal's office late yesterday had not determined the origin of the fire, but suggested it might have been started by a hot plate or a cigarette.

Donald and Delores Middleton, 16-month-old twins burned Sunday in a fire at 313 O st. sw., remained in "very critical" condition at Providence Hospital.

That fire already has cost the lives of Sylvester Gaither, 2, and his brother, Joseph, 1.

Maloy Found Innocent in Gaming Trial

Edward J. Maloy, 43, of 8502 Greenwood ave., Takoma Park, Md., yesterday was found innocent in Montgomery County Circuit Court of accepting a race horse bet and gaming in connection with a pinball machine.

A jury deliberated three hours before returning the verdict.

Maloy was one of 12 persons arrested in a raid last November 6 in the Silver Spring area. Others including Robert Lee Hunter, 37, of 8708 Colesville rd., Silver Spring, co-operator with Maloy of Lee and Eddie's Grill, 8504 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, will be tried this week.

Elmer Davis Heads Association of Radio Newsmen

Elmer Davis, ABC network commentator, yesterday was elected president of the Radio Correspondents' Association which is composed of members of the radio gallery of the Senate and House.

Davis

Davis, a former New York Times newsman, was wartime director of the Office of War Information. Last week, he received the Overseas Press Club of America award for the "best radio interpretation of foreign news."

William R. McAndrew, WRC-NBC, was elected vice president; Francis W. Tully, jr., Yankee Network, secretary, and Bill Shadel, CBS, treasurer.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Henry K. Willard, of 2425 Wyoming ave. His great-grandfather, Henry A. Willard, built the Willard Hotel

Macdonald Gets County Attorney Post

David Macdonald, a Government lawyer and Silver Spring resident, yesterday was named to the post of county attorney for Montgomery County.

The former assistant chief counsel of the Congressional Joint Committee on Labor-Management Relations will earn $9500 annually in the post.

The county attorney, a full-time post established under the charter adopted by county voters last November, is second in importance only to the county manager.

Harvard Graduate

Macdonald is 35 years old. He is a Harvard graduate who also completed law studies there. He was employed by two New York law firms from 1939 to 1947, when he came to Washington. He was an infantry officer during 1945-46.

He moved to Montgomery County in January, 1948, is married, with three children, and lives at 1807 August dr. He is a member of the New York bar, and his application for the Maryland bar is pending.

In a move admittedly aimed at "spiking" rumors that Police Chief Charles M. Orme of Montgomery county should be fired, the county council also accepted Acting County Manager I. G. McNayr's recommendation that Orme be reappointed. His salary is $5400 a year.

License Study Ordered

At its regular meeting in Rockville, the council also ordered an immediate study of the county licensing and permit system. Present laxity of dealing with amusement permits was given as the reason for the study.

Passage of a new dog ordinance was urged by spokesmen for the Montgomery County Dog Owners Association and the Montgomery County Animal Rescue League. They also asked improvements at the county animal shelter on East-West Highway.

Limping Gunman Holds Up Store, Flees With $400

Sam Shapiro, 55, manager of the Appollo Liquor Store, 654 H st. ne., last night reported that a limping gunman entered the store about 6:50 p. m. and forced him to hand over the day's receipts amounting to $400.

Shapiro said the robber wielded a blue-steel automatic, forced two men in the store to lay down on the floor, and after he got the money, forced Shapiro into a back room. The gunman was described as 35-to-40-year-old light skinned Negro, 6-feet 1-inch tall, wearing a tan gabardine topcoat, and limping on his left leg.

2 Brothers Face Murder Charge in Fatal Beating

Fairfax Police Hold Alexandria Men In $7500 Bond Each After Sunday Fight

Fairfax police last night charged two brothers with murder in the fatal beating of a 39-year-old welder, after they surrendered to Alexandria police.

Held in $7500 bond each are Ted J. Johnson, 23, a photographer, at the Pentagon, of 2707 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria, and Harold C. Johnson, 21, a Quartermaster Corps clerk, of Route 3, Alexandria.

Police said the Johnson brothers, who gave themselves up through an attorney, admitted having been in a fight with a man Sunday, but gave no further details.

The beating victim, Courtney Whalen of 3039 Colvin st. Fairfax County, near Alexandria, died in Alexandria Hospital yesterday morning from injuries police say he suffered during the fight Sunday.

Police said the fight took place in and outside of the Dun Law Inn, on Colvin st. near Duke st., extended in Fairfax County and that Whalen was thrown through the inn's plate glass window.

Then, they said, both men threw him to the street, kicking and beating him before they fled.

Prince Georges Hospital Faces Deficit Threat

The Prince Georges County General Hospital at Cheverly is expected to operate at a deficit of $50,325 in 1949-50, Superintendent A. KW. Besley revealed yesterday.

In announcing the probable deficit, Dr. Besley submitted a hospital budget to the county commissioners at their weekly meeting which calls for expenditure of $577,543 next year. Operating receipts will be about $527,218 during the same period, he said.

Dr. Besley told the commissioners that the hospital will operate at an estimated loss of $30,394 through the current fiscal year. Expected deficit next year is about $20,000 higher than this year's shortage, he anounced.

He warned that curtailment of clinic and emergency room service, and other operations, will ensue if the expected $50,325 shortage is not made up by county funds.

The commissioners also were handed a Health Department budget yesterday asking for $32,090. This is $4200 more than the current one.

A request for $31,200 for 1949-50 operation of the Sanitation Division was put in by Charles L. Wood, county sanitary engineer. Last year, Health Department and Sanitation Division budgets were submitted jointly and came to $40,500.

The commissioner took the budget requests under advisement and gave tentative approval to the summer recreation program's request for $23,890.

Submitted by C. Paul Barnhart, director of the summer recreation program, the budget would operate 32 county playgrounds from June 27 to August 19. The request is $10 less than the current summer recreation budget.

'The Pribilof Story'

The Men's Club of Christ Episcopal Church, Georgetown, will present "The Pribilof Story" in Linthicum Hall, 3116 O st. nw. at 8:30 p. m. today. The program will include a color film on the Pribilof Islands, an exhibition of old Alaska seal coats, and a demonstration of modern fur treating methods. Women from Christ Church will model the coats.

Girl, 16, and Her 2 Husbands Take Their Problem to Police

The plight of a 16-year-old, attractive Washington bobby-soxer—with two husbands—was in the hands of Montgomery County authorities yesterday.

The condition was brought to light, officials said, by the girl herself who on Monday night, accompanied by her two husbands, visited police in Silver Spring to explain her marital complications.

"What shall I do now?" she was quoted as asking police.

The two whirlwind marriages took place in the past six months, the girl, curvesomely clad in a tight sweater, told juvenile officials. They said she falsified her age in both cases.

After meeting Carl Belcher, 21, of 4905 Byers st. se., an apprentice carpenter, in a Washington church, she married him in August, she said. They lived together about a month.

Obtaining a job as a waitress, she met Joseph Lagana, 26, of Capitol Heights, now a Fort Meade, Md., Army private, at a movie last month. They were married on February 18 in Rockville, Md.

Corp. Eugene Brown, county juvenile officer, said the second marriage was discovered by the girl's stepfather, who introduced the second husband to the first husband and urged the two to seek out the authorities.

Brown said the girl, after giving herself up, refused to stay with either husband or her family, and at her own request she spent Monday night in detention quarters in Rockville courthouse.

Juvenile Judge Alfred D. Noyes ordered her placed in a Baltimore training school pending a complete investigation.

Infant Hurt, Says Baby-Sitter Suit

Charging that his 6-month-old daughter was beaten by a professional babysitter, Marine Master Sergt. Donald J. Morton, 4136 Arkansas ave. nw., filed suit yesterday for $105,000.

Named as defendants in the District Court action are Laura Christy Webster, doing business as Part-Time Mothers' Registry, the Westory Building, and Miss Harriet A. Fitzgerald, 58, of 1800 F st nw.

Miss Fitzgerald was a babysitter for the registry, which sent her to the Mortons January 7. According to the suit, the child, Kathleen, was found by the mother to have been badly bruised by the sitter, who subsequently was fined $25 for assault in Municipal Court.

The suit charges that the baby's nervous system was damaged, and said that the registry fraudulently stated it had investigated its employes. Morton's attorneys are David Bress and Sheldon Bernstein.

Stolen Truck Found

A truck and trailer, containing $30,000 worth of paint, and reported stolen March 3, in Richmond, Va., was recovered here yesterday by members of the police automobile squad.

The truck, bearing Florida license plates, was found abandoned in the 1300 block of 3d st. nw. Police said the 805 cases of paint found intact in it were being shipped by the Marine Corps from Camp Lejeune, N. C., to a Philadelphia, Marine Base.

Boys' Club Week

Government Attorney, 42, Ends His Life

Warren T. Faircloth, 42, an attorney in the Justice Department's claims division, shot himself fatally yesterday morning in the bathroom of his home at 2851 29th st. nw.

Faircloth

Police said the body was found about 9:30 a. m. by Faircloth's father - in - law, Fred C. Geiger.

Faircloth had shot himself in the mouth, according to police, and the weapon, a .38-caliber revolver, was still in his hand. He was fully clothed.

Both Faircloth and his wife have been active in citizens' association work. He was at one time treasurer of the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association and she is former first vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Faircloth was a graduate of National Law School. Mrs. Faircloth holds a law degree from George Washington University Law School.

He was an accountant at the General Accounting Office until 1945, and then served two years as a Marine Corps supply sergeant. He returned to the GAO briefly after his Marine Corps service, then resigned to take up private practice. He was in private practice for almost two years before joining the Justice Department.

More Room for Logan Pupils . . .

Harry J. T. Kraft

Funeral services for Harry J. T. Kraft, 75, a lifelong resident of Montgomery County, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Thursday in St. Mary's Church, Rockville. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

Mr. Kraft, who managed the Corby estate on Rockville Pike for 40 years before his retirement five years ago, died Monday in Suburban Hospital.

His entire life was spent in Montgomery County. Six of his eight children still live there. At the time of his death, Mr. Kraft lived with his wife, Mrs. Minnie Harmon Kraft in Halpine, near Rockville.

His eight children are: Mrs. Mary M. Gaver, 4713 Maple ave., Bethesda; Mrs. Pauline C. Baker, 105 W. Glenbrook rd., Bethesda; Mrs. Dorothy Clagett, Rockville; Mrs. Hilda R. Boswell, 6210 7th st. nw.; Mr. Harry L. Kraft, 804 Rittenhouse st. nw.; Mrs. Marjorie M. Saunders, Halpine; D. Leonard Kraft, Halpine, and J. Woodrow Kraft, Rockville. A sister, Mrs. David J. Rabbitt, 4713 Maple ave., Bethesda, also survives.

Mrs. Salisbury Dead After Brief Illness

Mrs. Elizabeth Salisbury, 74, daughter of a Western pioneer family, died yesterday in George Washington Hospital of heart trouble. She had been ill for about a week.

Mrs. Salisbury lived at Holly Oaks, on Tilden la. between Bethesda and Rockville, Md., the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Burks Summers. Mr. Summers is the president of the General Credit Co. and chairman of the board of the Global Trading Corp.

When the railroads opened the way to the Northwest, Mrs. Salisbury moved with her father, John Trewick, an English cattleman, from her birthplace in Nevada to Washington State, where they took part in the development of that area.

Mrs. Salisbury came here in 1922. After two years' residence, she spent a year in Florida, nine years in Philadelphia, and returned here with her daughter in 1935.

Her husband, Albert Salisbury, who was counsel for the Great Northern Railroad, died in Spokane, Wash., in 1910.

Mrs. Summers is the only survivor.

Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the Senate, will conduct the funeral services at Gawler's chapel, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw., at 2:30 p. m. today. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

M.C. Hargrove, Once District Official, Dies

Marion C. Hargrove, 81, who rose from a volunteer field engineer to become District purchasing officer in 52 years as a municipal employe, died at his home yesterday at 2600 36th st. nw.

Mr. Hargrove

When he retired in November, 1939, he had been purchasing agent for 33 years, and was the oldest city employe in length of service.

A native of Nelson County, Va., Mr. Hargrove was brought to Washington in 1873, as a boy of five.

At 16 he became a page in the Supreme Court, and held the job for three years while he studied at the old Spencerian Business College.

In 1886 session of the Supreme Court, when he was too old to continue as a page, he applied for a job with the District government.

None was available. So he volunteered to work without pay until a vacancy occurred. His offer was accepted and two months later he was hired regularly at $2 a day and assigned to an engineering field party.

Six months later he was transferred to a clerkship at $900 per year. In 1894 he was appointed deputy property clerk and in 1905 was promoted to property clerk at $2500 per year. The title of this office was changed to purchasing officer some years later.

During his career as purchasing officer, he supervised the spending of aproximately 100 million dollars.

Mr. Hargrove remained in close contact with the District government after his retirement.

In 1939, Mr. Hargrove's brother Julian suffered a fatal heart attack at his home. Before he died, a fire department rescue squad was called to administer oxygen.

To show his appreciation, Mr. Hargrove donated $500 to the Fire Department's coffee fund and bought magazine subscriptions for the 33 appartus stations then in existence.

Funeral services will be held at his home at 2 p. m. today.

At Mass Today

Sol Bloom's Orphan Pals To Honor Him

For a kindly Jewish statesman who every year brought happiness on this date—his birthday anniversary—to the children of St. Ann's Infant Asylum, a mass will take the place of the usual party today.

The Very Rev. Donald M. Carroll, chaplain of St. Ann's will say mass for Representative Sol Bloom at 6:30 a. m.

The New York Democrat, who would have celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday today, died of a heart attack Monday night

Meanwhile, men of high rank in national and international affairs eulogized the man and his achievements

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, of which Representative Bloom was chairman, announced that services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at West Side Institutional Synagogue, New York.

Dr. Herbert Goldstein will conduct the Orthodox Jewish ceremonies. Burial will be in Mount Eden Cemetery, Westchester Hills.

President Truman was among scores of prominent figures in Government to mourn publicly the death of Representative Bloom

The House adjourned after leading Republicans and Democrats eulogized the immigrant's son

Representative Bloom's successor as House foreign policy chief, Representative John Kee (D., W. Va.), announced his intention of continuing the New Yorker's established policies with "very little, if any, change."

Democratic Leader John W. McCormack described Representative Bloom before the House as "a figure of national and international importance whose death is an irreparable loss to our country."

Said Speaker Sam Rayburn: "Few deaths, since I have been a member of Congress, have affected me more deeply. There are few men in all my life for whom I have had a deeper affection than Sol Bloom."

Representative Charles Eaton (R., N. J.), ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, called on his colleagues to "carry out the ideals he so nobly represented."

In the Senate, Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) of the Democratic National Committee, said: "Men of good will in free nations the world over will be shocked and saddened by the death of Sol Bloom, whose wisdom and legislative skill have played such an important part in our foreign policy during these days of troubled international relations."

Mrs. Newbold Dies; Active In Charities

Mrs. Emilie Cresson Newbold, 69, member of the boards of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, the Children's Country Home and St. John's Orphanage, died yesterday at Garfield Hospital, where she had been a patient since last Friday.

Mrs. Newbold, 1819 Q st. nw., was a native of Conshohocken, Pa., but moved to Washington as a young girl.

She was married in 1896 to John L. Newbold, head of the Merchants Transfer and Storage Co., and brother of Fleming Newbold, late president of the Evening Star Newspaper Co. The couple was divorced sometime before John L. Newbold's death in 1931.

She leaves her son, John L. Newbold, 2435 Tracy pl. nw., and four grandchildren: John L. Newbold, 3d, Fleming Newbold, 2d, and Nicholas Wilkins Newbold, all of the Tracy pl. address, and Miss Mariamne Newbold of Philadelphia, Pa.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in St. John's Church, Lafayette Square. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT
Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress
Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.
Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.
To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.
Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

GLAD TO HAVE YOU ABOARD
COURTESY CLUB

— by this emblem you shall know them

You may have seen some of Capital Transit's operators proudly wearing the "Glad-to-Have-You-Aboard" emblem on their right shoulders. You, the transit rider, gave them this privilege. Your voluntary letter or phone call to Capital Transit recognizing their "Glad-to-Have-You-Aboard" attitude, plus their good record for courtesy and helpfulness, made them eligible to wear this honored emblem.

Any Capital Transit operator can qualify for membership in the "Glad-to-Have-You-Aboard" Club. The friendly welcome, the helpful considerate attitude which makes your transit ride more comfortable and enjoyable are the basic requirements.

Look for the "Glad-to-Have-You-Aboard" emblem when you board a street car or bus. It means you are riding with an operator who knows and likes his job . . . and people.

23% of Goal Is Reached By Red Cross

The Red Cross yesterday reached 23.05 per cent of its 1949 Washington campaign goal of $924,000. Gifts totaling $212,973.79 were reported at this year's second report luncheon in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

Highest percentage of quota reached by any major campaign unit was announced by the residential unit, which has collected $25,438.80, or 35.83 per cent of quota.

Other major units reported as follows: city unit, of smaller businesses, $11,895.00 or 33.99 per cent of quota; government, $109,396.84, or 25.21 per cent of quota; general business, $62,830.27, or 22.85 per cent of quota.

In special reports from units of the armed forces, the Air Force achieved top honors with 104.2 per cent of its quota filled already.

The Navy Department announced 95 per cent of its quota completed, and the Coast Guard reported 75 per cent of quota turned in. Record of other armed forces units was: Department of Defense, 65 per cent; Department of the Army, 18.58 per cent; Potomac River Naval Command, 26 per cent.

Other groups in the government unit announced: Library of Congress, 105 per cent; Women's Bureau, 92 per cent; Labor Department, 60 per cent; Treasury Department, 62 per cent; Agriculture Department, 88.77 per cent.

Officials Deny School Board Has a Surplus

Arlington County school officials yesterday denied that the school board has a $424,238 surplus in its current 1948-49 budget.

The charge was made Monday night by County Board Chairman Easil M. DeLashmutt, who said the school board claimed no surplus in its 1948-49 budget despite having the "unencumbered" $424,238.

DeLashmutt asked for an explanation as the county board received a record $3,067,056 school budget for 1949-50 Monday. The county board must approve the school budget.

The $424,238 was found to be "surplus" by auditors who went over the county books for the year ending June 30, 1948, DeLashmutt said.

But school officials declared that $202,257 of the sum had been borrowed from the school operating fund to complete construction work and was therefore not surplus.

The remaining $221,981 was not "unencumbered" surplus, they said, but earmarked for seven construction projects.

At Brilliant Reception

Gen. Blake, Bride Feted By Mme. Vladimir Rybar

By Marie McNair

BRIG. GEN. Robert Blake, USMC, and Mrs. Blake, who went to New York after their marriage little more than a week ago, returned for a wedding reception given yesterday by Mme. Vladimir Rybar, the bride's only attendant at her wedding.

The party was held at Alban Towers where Mme. Rybar lives, and in the reception room spring flowers decorated the buffet tables and a fountain of champagne cascaded over soft colored lights.

It was a "black and white receiving line" headed by handsome Robert Geauque, son-in-law of the hostess. Mme. Rybar's gown was of white crepe studded with brilliants; Mrs. Blake wore a Lanvin black lace appliqued in white lace and Mrs. Hazel Hayes Putt of New York, who's visiting the Blakes was in smartly cut black.

Misses Rybar Lovely in Black

MME. RYBAR'S two daughters—Mrs. Geauque who is blonde, Mrs. Rowe Saltzman, brown haired and the image of her mother—both wore black and in Elvina Geauque's smooth blond hair she had tucked two silky whit flowers

Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Ambassador, in a new spring bonnet which sprouted pink rosebuds, was among those taking their turn at the tea table. Mme. Wellington Koo, wearing a slim black tunic effect dress, embroidered in clouded crystals, brought along her guest, Mme. Brusset, whose husband is Financial Counselor of the French Legation in Lebanon. Chic and charming, and Titian haired, Mme. Brusset is dressed by Dior and her black frock was topped yesterday with a cloche which trailed pink roses from its brim.

Lady Berendsen Assisted

OTHERS at the tea and coffee services were Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Ambassador, smiling from under a pale blue flower hat; Mme LeGallais, wife of the Luxembourg Minister; Senora de Dillon, wife of the Ecuador Ambassador—he came too; Senora de Thome, Mme. Thors in toast brown lace; Mrs. Harry Andrews and Dr. Mica Trbojevic, hostess for her brother, the Yugoslav Ambassador, Sava Kosanovic, who was also at the party.

Those ladies in long gowns who were busily engaged in keeping the places at the tea table filled were Mrs. Jesse M. Saugstad, Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Mrs. Julian Gillespie, Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. Leo Brison Norris, Mrs. Edward Bartelt, Mrs. James Souby, Mrs. John N. Greely—she's lost pounds and looks years younger; Mrs. Robert Shugrue, Mrs. Clark Woodward, Mrs. George Allen and Mrs. Wade Haislip.

Throng Greets Conger Pratts

OTHERS assisting were Mrs. Clifton Cates, Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. George Thorpe, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, Mrs. Oscar Brice, Mrs. Oliver Smith and Mrs. Louis Renfrow.

The Mexican Ambassador and Senora de la Colina were there, the Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani and the Finnish Minister and Mme. Jutila.

Saw Col. O. Munthe-Kass, Military Attache of the Norwegian Embassy, in his red tabbed uniform; Gen. Conger Pratt, and Mrs. Pratt who got no farther than the entrance before she was stopped by friends; Raymond Dreux of the French Embassy and pretty Mme. Dreux; Senora de Copello and Col. and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Col. Robert Guggenheim and his Mrs., recently back from their South Carolina plantation near Charleston, were being welcomed all around. The colonel entertained later at a stag dinner with South Carolina quail as the piece de resistance.

Then there were the Elmer Pratts, Mrs. George Malone, Representative Eugene Cox and Mrs. Cox, the Le Murphys, Mrs. Owen Brewster, Gen. and Mrs. Samuel Cumming, Gen. and Mrs. Richard Ruble and Representative Paul Jones of Missouri and Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Robert Dyer came first, Captain Dyer joining her later; and I saw also, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon P. King, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark, Arthur Saul, Mrs. Deborah Glassford, Mrs. Nathanial Dial, Mrs. Effingham Townsend, Commander and Mrs. Charles Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Mrs. George Trible, looking fit again after an illness; Col. Frank Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vennell, Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, Mrs. Parker West and Mrs. Lorton Sims.

Mrs. Doyle Entertains For Radcliffe Club

MRS. HENRY GRATTAN DOYLE entertained at a buffet supper last evening for members of the local committee and other workers for the Radcliffe College seventieth anniversary fund of which she is Washington and Maryland chairman.

Among those present were Mrs. Charles Bittinger, Mrs. Angus Dun, Mrs. Bruce K. Fuller, Dr. Martha Eliot, Miss Mary Switzer, Mrs. Thomas M. Woodward, of the committee, and active workers, Mrs. William Coblentz, president of the Radcliffe Club; Mrs. Royal C. Bryant, Mrs. Alice Mason D'Amore, Miss Beatrice H. David, Mrs. Eugenia Elsbree, Mrs. Paul W. Jones.

Miss Truman Offered a Part In New Hasty Pudding Revue

Cambridge, Mass., March 8 (AP).—Miss Margaret Truman, was acclaimed "our woman of the year" today by the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club."

And the old social and dramatic club invited her to be "the first woman in 101 years to sing in a Hasty Pudding show."

In the letter, signed by club President Alan Winslow, Miss Truman was informed she could sing anything—anything at all except a Yale song. The club's 1948 musical, "Tomorrow Is Manana," opens Friday at the Hasty Pudding Theater and runs through March 26.

In making public its invitation to Miss Truman to sing in at least one performance, the club pointed out that for a century, scions of nationally famous families: Roosevelts (Democratic and Republican), Saltonstalls, Cabots, Lodges, Holmeses, others, have appeared in Hasty Pudding shows.

"We feel you are a kindred spirit," the letter to Miss Truman said, in explaining her choice as "woman of the year."

"We pursue our theatrical and musical interests in spite of our preference for deep study and scholarly pastimes.

"You have shown great courage and devotion to the arts in pursuing your singing and operatic career to the exclusion of the Washington social whirl.

"We salute you.

"Will you help us start off our second hundred years in a most auspicious way?

"You can sing one of the catchy songs from the show or anything of your own selection, providing, of course, that it isn't a Yale song."

The Boston Traveler reported it had reached Kenneth Allen, jr., partner of James A. Davidson, Miss Truman's agent, in Davidson's New York office.

Allen was reported to have said that Miss Truman was turning down all personal appearance requests till at least mid-October," adding, "she isn't likely to make an exception in this instance."

Tenacity Will Win Cold War CBS Analyst Tells Peace Group

By Genevieve Reynolds

Tenacity of purpose and effort will determine the eventual outcome of the cold war between Soviet Russia and the Western Democracies. This was the belief expressed by Joseph C. Harsch, news analyst for the Columbia and British Broadcasting Systems, in a luncheon address yesterday before the Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace.

"To date we are definitely ahead of the game in the cold war," he pointed out. "Except in China, Russia has not been able to extend her power beyond the front lines of the Red Army."

He pointed out that Russia's idealogical weapons have failed in Germany, Italy, France and Greece and that Turkey is also still within the Western sphere of influence.

But he warned, "to be the final victor, the United States must show as much tenacity as did Great Britain when she curbed Russian expansion for half a century following the Napoleonic Wars."

As for Russia's successes in China, he said that on the surface the Communists have won a complete military victory but that only time could tell.

Harsch said that should Russian influence extend beyond the territory obtained through war with the Japanese, the situation in China would be extremely critical.

At the same session, members of the organization heard Victor Fediai, a White Russian displaced person, who arrived in Washington recently, declare that DP immigration should be simplified.

Fediai worked with International Refugee Organization, UNRRA and the United States Army and served as editor of a DP newspaper in Munich following his liberation from the Nazis by the Allied forces.

He pointed out that the DP problem which was created by the Nazis is difficult and dangerous because of communism

Mrs. Richard Harkness, chairman of the Washington branch of the WALP, presided at the luncheon held in the Wilard Hotel and introduced the speakers.

Among the guests at the head table were Dr. Esther Brunauer, Mme. Henri Helb, wife of the Counselor of the Netherlands Embassy; Mme. Raymond Dreux, wife of the French Commercial Counselor; Mrs. Ralph Flanders, wife of the Vermont Senator; and Mrs. Lister Hill, wife of the Alabama Senator.

Shoes for Spring Are Pretty and Practical

FOR those who like "wedgies," there is news in the shoes pictured here. Low cut vamp and delicate criss-cross instep straps make it cool and airy for spring and summer

METAL studs on doeskin lend formality to this afternoon-to-evening shoe. Shell cut vamp has closed toe but heel and remainder of shoe consists simply of straps. Available at I. & J. Slater's

Open Silhouette Popular In This Season's Footwear

THE CONTROVERSY of the open versus the closed shoe continues to rage whenever women discuss footwear. The latter has made headway this winter, but with the approach of spring and warm weather, the open shoe is once again coming into its own.

However, 1949's version is somewhat different than that of former years. The open silhouette is accomplished by means of stripping, straps, lacings, openwork and cut-out detail. The more open the silhouette the better, yet the toe and heel frequently remained closed. Airiness is achieved by extremely low cut vamps, or lacy open work over the toe.

Instep straps are gaining in importance, overshadowing the high ankle strap and lower heels are being shown in these dressier patterns.

There is a dainty, feminine air to this season's shoes, in line with fashion's gentle silhouette. The deep cut shell vamp, for instance, repeats the low neckline of the Directoire styles.

Softly polished calf is excellent for spring and the forecast is that it will have continued importance next fall. For summer doeskin, linen, shantung and straw will be favorites.

Like our model above, who is smiling and at ease, choose a shoe for comfort as well as beauty.

Designer Creates Gown on Model At Fashion Show

The designing of a wedding gown in full view of her audience was the highlight of a fashion show presented by Mme. Louise Brune yesterday in the East Room of the Mayflower.

A "sculptress of fabrics, color psychologist and fashion consultant," Madame Brune designed the gowns worn by Mrs. Max Truitt, daughter of the Vice President, during the Inaugural festivities. Mrs. Truitt was in this afternoon's audience, as were Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Mrs. George R. Holmes, Mrs. Willis Ballinger and Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburgh.

Acting as the model for Mme. Brune when she draped the wedding gown was Miss Gwendolyn Fairlamb. During the war Mme. Brune designed wedding gowns for sale by the American Theater Wing to benefit the Stage Door Canteen.

Jewish Women Observe 55th Anniversary

The National Council of Jewish Women celebrated their fifty-fifth anniversary yesterday with a luncheon program in the Jewish Community Center.

Mrs. Melvin Gusdorf was chairman of the luncheon which was followed by an original play "Prescription of Happiness," under the direction of Mrs. Daniel Cole, Mrs. F. E. Leninson and Mrs. Bernard Nordlinger. The cast included Mrs. Herman Becker, Mrs. Julian Cohen, Mrs. Joseph DeYoung, Mrs. Joel Kaufman, Mrs. C. Haskell Small and Mrs. Sam Kaufman.

In the chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Bernard Mills, included Mrs. Joseph Bendheim, Mrs. Sidney Gubin, Mrs. Sidney Kellner and Mrs. Robert Viener. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Bernard Mills, president of the Women's Council of the Montgomery County Jewish Community, and Mrs. Theodore Peyser, president of the local group, presided.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

A family bulletin board, in addition to being a convenient method of keeping track of family engagements and leaving messages for one another, can play its part in the fun that families should have together.

The young fry enjoy putting p the painting they have made at school for the rest of the family to admire. If a letter has come that should be shared with the whole family, it can be fastened to the board.

Cartoons and jokes have their place, too. In most magazines coming into our homes today, there are many good cartoons. The newspapers have similar "picture jokes." They are often of the sort that all the family will enjoy.

Mother, father, and the children may very well hear jokes that they would like to share. They, too, have their place.

Of course, if it is common for the family to have a good deal of time together at meals and on other occasions, such a use of the bulletin board won't be so pertinent. But leisure time is often at a premium even at home and the family bulletin board can do its part in drawing family members together through helping them share things with one another.

Young Wife and Mother, Married Six Years, Gets on Well With Husband, Except for His Cold Abusive Dislike of Daughter, Who Is 5

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married six years and have three children. My husband, Roy, and I get along very well, except where our eldest daughter is concerned. Connie is five and one half years old, in the first grade of school and very bright for her age.

According to Roy, everything about Connie is wrong. He watches her every move and criticizes everything she does or says. He plays with the other two children and with our pet terrier, but never has a pleasant look or word for Connie.

He scarred her chin once by shoving her face into a dish, because she didn't want her vegetables; and she's had innumerable black-and-blue handprints on her little legs. This sort of thing is continuous and has been in full swing for almost three years now.

Man's Unfairness Pains His Mother

WHEN WRONGLY reprimanded, Connie tries to explain her actions to him, and he claims she is trying to make a fool of him. I have told him he acts like a little boy and makes a fool of himself. His attitude towards Connie has broken his mother's heart, because she loves her grandchildren very much.

Every time these arguments come up, which is almost daily, Roy threatens to leave me, saying I'll be left with bread and water, etc.; and I don't want our marriage to end like this. I still love him, although I've lost a lot of respect for him; and I have asked him to see a psychiatrist with me, but he says "It's a lot of bunk,"—his own words.

I've tried to get some one to care for the children, so I could go to work and be independent of him; and I even had to call in the police one night; but nothing seems to daunt him. What can I do? Can you please help us? C. B.

What's the Meaning of Man's Behavior?

DEAR C. B.: You say you've been married six years, and Connie is five and a half. Thus I wonder, was she conceived out of wedlock and did Roy feel he "had" to marry you? If so, this might explain why he resents her very existence, as he plainly does. Heaven knows he seems irrational enough to blame the baby, if such is the story.

Or, assuming the courtship was proper and the marriage "regular," it may be that Roy "rejected" Connie at birth for being a girl, not a boy—and to justify his thankless reaction he may have developed the theme of fault-finding.

Various men of inferior caliber, with no earned right to respect, think it "important" to sire a son as the first born, as if to prove superior maleness, at least. Yet siring a girl is an equal or greater biologic feat, I gather, inasmuch as boy babies are more numerous than girl babies, also their infant-mortality is greater. Which indicates that girl babies may be nature's "preferred stock" in the human breed—at once more rare and vigorous than male infants.

So perhaps Roy's biologic ignorance has a bearing on his curt treatment of Connie. Or maybe his resentment took hold when he first realized that you were enraptured by her bright cunning ways, so that he jealously felt "left out" and began to "fight" her as a rival.

Jealousy of Child Is Active Symptom

VERY LIKELY jealousy of Connie is the emergent sore-spot, and naturally the more he abuses her unfairly, the more you champion her devotedly, which of course heightens his rancour, and thus the vicious circle goes.

Also it seems there is no rapport between Roy and his mother, either. He flouts her feelings as well as yours; indeed, strikes at both of you in tormenting Connie. Which suggests that his unconscious reaction to the opposite sex is indiscriminately hostile. Thus a good psychiatrist might help him a lot; but if he balks at examining himself, he is hopeless—period.

Now, about Connie: Turn to the State Board of Child Welfare, which has a regional office in your county seat. Its business is to protect children, and its staff can tell you what steps to take on her behalf. M. H.

Lenten Recipes . . .

For the St. Patrick's Day luncheon serve a hearty macaroni and salmon salad in crisp green pepper halves. For four persons you need about 4 ounces macaroni. Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse with cold water. Mix the macaroni with 1 cup flaked salmon, ½ cup chopped sweet pickle, ½ cup chopped celery, ¼ cup French dressing, ¼ cup mayonnaise and ½ teaspoon salt. Chill. Serve in lettuce cups.

Macaroni Puff with string beans is a good choice for Lenten meals. Fold macaroni and pimiento into a cream sauce and arrange in serving portions. Top each with small cooked whole green beans garnished with a thin pimiento slice. Serve hot.

Cheese Puff offers something a little different in the realm of Lenten main dishes. Combine 2 cups of milk and ½ teaspoon salt in top of double boiler. Heat milk and add 2 ounces fine noodles. Cook about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, until noodles are tender and mixture is slightly thickened. Add ¼ pound shredded cheese, stirring until melted. Separate three eggs. Beat yolks until thick and fold into noodle mixture. Beat egg whites stiff and fold in. Pour the mixture into 1½-quart casserole set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1¼ hours. Makes 4 servings.

Packing Box Lunch For the Small Fry Requires Planning

Packing a good box lunch for small fry is an art that requires a little planning, a little forethought and a warm heart, says the food editor of the Woman's Home Companion.

While a hot lunch at home or in the school cafeteria is the ideal, many a youngster totes his own and here are some suggestions to help a busy mother. Make the lunch look good, says the Companion by wrapping sandwiches neatly and packing sundries like salads in paper cups. Plan the lunch box right. Milk should be present (whole or in cream soup, cocoa, custard); so should fruit. Include something crisp and raw and something hot. Omit too juicy sandwich fillings and whet Junior's appetite once in a while by substituting nut, orange date bread or soft rolls for standard varieties.

Include a surprise sometimes. This could be tidbits such as nuts, cookies, raisins, figs, dates, marshmallows. Or a treat—a birthday card, a funny picture, a note from Daddy or a new ball or marbles. A final reminder. Take care to scrub box and vacuum bottle; sun-dry when possible.

Breakfast Eye Opener

Add a refreshing note to your breakfast menu by serving a grated raw apple. The crisp, spicy red Winesaps from Washington State are especially good because this apple variety is tender and juicy. Grate the apples, pile in a bowl and eat, or spread over cereal.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

A family bulletin board, in addition to being a convenient method of keeping track of family engagements and leaving messages for one another, can play its part in the fun that families should have together.

The young fry enjoy putting p the painting they have made at school for the rest of the family to admire. If a letter has come that should be shared with the whole family, it can be fastened to the board.

Cartoons and jokes have their place, too. In most magazines coming into our homes today, there are many good cartoons. The newspapers have similar "picture jokes." They are often of the sort that all the family will enjoy.

Mother, father, and the children may very well hear jokes that they would like to share. They, too, have their place.

Of course, if it is common for the family to have a good deal of time together at meals and on other occasions, such a use of the bulletin board won't be so pertinent. But leisure time is often at a premium even at home and the family bulletin board can do its part in drawing family members together through helping them share things with one another.

Young Wife and Mother, Married Six Years, Gets on Well With Husband, Except for His Cold Abusive Dislike of Daughter, Who Is 5

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married six years and have three children. My husband, Roy, and I get along very well, except where our eldest daughter is concerned. Connie is five and one half years old, in the first grade of school and very bright for her age.

According to Roy, everything about Connie is wrong. He watches her every move and criticizes everything she does or says. He plays with the other two children and with our pet terrier, but never has a pleasant look or word for Connie.

He scarred her chin once by shoving her face into a dish, because she didn't want her vegetables; and she's had innumerable black-and-blue handprints on her little legs. This sort of thing is continuous and has been in full swing for almost three years now.

Man's Unfairness Pains His Mother

WHEN WRONGLY reprimanded, Connie tries to explain her actions to him, and he claims she is trying to make a fool of him. I have told him he acts like a little boy and makes a fool of himself. His attitude towards Connie has broken his mother's heart, because she loves her grandchildren very much.

Every time these arguments come up, which is almost daily, Roy threatens to leave me, saying I'll be left with bread and water, etc.; and I don't want our marriage to end like this. I still love him, although I've lost a lot of respect for him; and I have asked him to see a psychiatrist with me, but he says "It's a lot of bunk,"—his own words.

I've tried to get some one to care for the children, so I could go to work and be independent of him; and I even had to call in the police one night; but nothing seems to daunt him. What can I do? Can you please help us? C. B.

What's the Meaning of Man's Behavior?

DEAR C. B.: You say you've been married six years, and Connie is five and a half. Thus I wonder, was she conceived out of wedlock and did Roy feel he "had" to marry you? If so, this might explain why he resents her very existence, as he plainly does. Heaven knows he seems irrational enough to blame the baby, if such is the story.

Or, assuming the courtship was proper and the marriage "regular," it may be that Roy "rejected" Connie at birth for being a girl, not a boy—and to justify his thankless reaction he may have developed the theme of fault-finding.

Various men of inferior caliber, with no earned right to respect, think it "important" to sire a son as the first born, as if to prove superior maleness, at least. Yet siring a girl is an equal or greater biologic feat, I gather, inasmuch as boy babies are more numerous than girl babies, also their infant-mortality is greater. Which indicates that girl babies may be nature's "preferred stock" in the human breed—at once more rare and vigorous than male infants.

So perhaps Roy's biologic ignorance has a bearing on his curt treatment of Connie. Or maybe his resentment took hold when he first realized that you were enraptured by her bright cunning ways, so that he jealously felt "left out" and began to "fight" her as a rival.

Jealousy of Child Is Active Symptom

VERY LIKELY jealousy of Connie is the emergent sore-spot, and naturally the more he abuses her unfairly, the more you champion her devotedly, which of course heightens his rancour, and thus the vicious circle goes.

Also it seems there is no rapport between Roy and his mother, either. He flouts her feelings as well as yours; indeed, strikes at both of you in tormenting Connie. Which suggests that his unconscious reaction to the opposite sex is indiscriminately hostile. Thus a good psychiatrist might help him a lot; but if he balks at examining himself, he is hopeless—period.

How to Make Shrimp Au Gratin

I would love to know how shrimp au gratin is prepared at a seafood restaurant in the 1700 block of Pennsylvania ave. If you have his receipe, will you be so kind as to print it in your column?—B. R.

The proprietor of the restaurant you mention is truly very generous with his recipes. Here is his receipe for shrimp au gratin.

2 tablespoons butter.
Pinch of salt and pepper.
2 cups of milk.
24 jumbo shrimp (about 1½ pound).

Put butter in a sauce pan and melt—do not overheat. Add flour, salt and pepper. Add the well-beaten egg yolk and stir into fat flour mixture like gravy. Do not let it get too hot. In another sauce pan heat the milk, but do not let it boil. When milk is hot, add it to the sauce in the other pan, continuously stirring the sauce. Into a casserole put the steamed, cut-up shrimp. (Cut each shrimp into about 4 pieces.) Place into the oven and just heat. When hot, pour the hot sauce over the shrimp in the casserole and put under the broiler. When the sauce starts to bubble on top, remove from broiler and sprinkle grated American cheese over the top. Return to the broiler and leave until a golden brown. Serve immediately. Recipe serves 4.

Will you tell me how one can join the D. A. R.? I. B.

Since it is necessary for you to prove your genealogical history back to a Revolutionary war soldier to become a member of the D. A. R., I suggest you write direct to the National Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, 1720 D. Street, Washington 6, D. C., for the forms and other pertinent information.

I have seen a child's rocking chair with a music box attached to the rocker. Could you tell me what firm makes them and if it is possible to get the music box separately as I have a chair I could put it on? M. V. C.

One firm which makes a musical rocker is Thayer, Inc., 132 Cross st., Gardner, Mass. I am told that the demand exceeds the supply of these music box chairs so there is a chance that the manufacturer would not care to sell the music box unit separately. However, it's worth a try, so I suggest you write them direct.

Before getting a cradle for logs, we had placed logs on the shanks of the brass andirons. The burning of the logs at the front has caused the whole lower part of the andirons to change color. They are now almost black. We have tried various commercial brass polishes with lots of "elbow grease" but it has had no effect. Someone also had told us to try applying alcohol, which also was to no avail. Would you know how this discoloration could be removed so that the brass might be restored? S. D.

When brass has become so heavily discolored, no hand method will remove the deposit. Firms which specialize in metal refinishing have mechanical equipment to buff them. If the andirons are solid brass the discoloration can be completely removed by the mechanical buffing. If they are plated, they may need to be replated. One firm which does this work can be reached by calling Metropolitan 1134.

With regard to M.M.P.'s question on the whys and wherefores of baking that recently appeared in your column, the United States Department of Agriculture puts out a pamphlet "Homemade Bread, Cake, and Pastry," Farmers' Bulletin No. 1775. This is quite informative and may be obtained free from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. M. B.

To M. M. P., who wants whys and wherefores of baking, I would like to recommend a most delightful booklet that is sent out via the New York Times, for 15c, titled "A Primer of Yeast Breads," by Clara Gebhard Snyder. I adore my copy! E. L. S.

Is there any way I can dye or recolor a beige-colored, silky-finished raincoat? I don't see how it can be dyed by the usual boiling method without ruining it's water repellency. I thought I had heard of applying a coat of something with a brush. Can you you help me? E. G. S.

I'm sorry, but I know of no finish that could be brushed on to change the color of the raincoat. Some of the larger cleaning and dyeing firms dye raincoats (those made of woven materials) at the owners risk, then apply a water-repellent. However, they say a splotchy dye job often results as all the old water-repellent doesn't come out of the cloth.

If you can't use the coat in its present color, you might sell it and apply the money on one of a more suitable color. A shop in Alexandria that sells used clothes in good condition can be reached by telephoning Alexandria 0649.

Skip the Snacks For Healthful Slimming Routine

By Ida Jean Kain

THE teen-agers who eat heartily between meals are inclined to regard wholesome meals as too, too fattening. "Potatoes! Really, Mother—how could you!"

To help you straighten up and fly right, here's some advice from Kay Starr, radio songbird. And Kay ought to know—from 13 to 15 she weighed 170 solid pounds.

"Tell your teen-agers it's not regular meals that are fattening," said Kay, "it's the strawberry sodas, chocolate bars and sweet drinks that are adding the padding. Tell them to eat to take off weight, and not go on any daffy diets."

When Kay was going on 16, she suddenly decided to "get thin" and practically stopped eating. Then one day she fainted on the way home from school, and her mother took her to a doctor who put her on the right track. Kay loved to sing, and the doctor warned her that unless she gave good food a chance she couldn't have a bright future—or any future at all. Then and there she decided to eat everything that was "healthy" and cut out the candy, sweet drinks, pastries and sodas. On three good meals a day, minus the extras, the fat disappeared like magic . . . and she soon had her old bounce back.

Today Kay has a honey of a figure. I hadn't the slightest notion that was to be her story when I met her recently in Washington while she was here to sing at the Inaugural gala. When I commented on her good figure, she looked ever so pleased and said that she had learned to eat to keep her weight normal—and then to my surprise added that she used to weigh 170 pounds! I got out my pencil . . .

Kay believes that if girls would learn good food habits in their teens, they wouldn't have to go on diets later. And now that she has a young daughter herself, she is teaching her nutrition—at age 2. The whole thing is to eat regular meals and leave sweets alone. Kay is 5 feet 3½ inches tall, weighs 125 pounds and has a 25-inch waist, 34-inch bust and 36-inch hips.

The doctor showed Kay that certain foods are "high-powered" and that others are merely high in calories, and that good, wholesome food is a daily necessity. She concentrated on the high-powered foods and look what it did for her. Here is the diet she followed—it contained about 1600 calories, and a rosy future for singing star, Kay Starr . . . who now has her own radio show.

Beauty Memo...

HAND lotion is a must for the girl who would present soft, pretty hands to the world. A little discipline and daily attention will make the hands of a Judy O'Grady as fine as those of the Colonel's lady

THE ALLURE of fluttering, helpless little hands is no more. Lovely hands, by twentieth century standards, are all the more attractive because they are capable and competent.

But pretty, practical hands require just as much grooming as the fragile, ineffectual kind. A woman is often judged by her hands, for they tell the story of her personality and her mode of life. In this busy, competitive world, it behooves any girl to see to it that her hands make a good impression. Perfect grooming should extend to the tips of her nails.

Begin at the very beginning of the hand care ritual, and first study your "hand complexion." By the color of the skin you know what shade of nail polish to use. Polish shades with a bluish cast make skin appear whiter; orange reds look best on clear, ivory hued skin.

Before applying polish, give your hands and nails the following treatment:

1. Wash hands thoroughly and let fingertips soak in warm soapy water containing a drop or two of olive oil. Dry hands in the same manner used when pulling on gloves. Work towel downward, pressing back the cuticle.

2. Style your nails with an emery board, wielded in long, one way strokes, never saw it back and forth. Slightly rounded nails last longer, so avoid a pointed tip. Keep the nails at a uniform length and allow them to grow out at the extreme sides until wide enough to support the strain of their length.

3. Don't be snippy with the scissors and apply a piece of cotton soaked in oil to hangnails and rough cuticle.

4. A penetrating cuticle oil should be rubbed into the base of each nail. Used several times a week, this same oil will prevent brittleness and lessens the chances of your manicure being ruined by a broken nail.

5. After applying polish, massage hands with a good hand lotion. During the month of March, when hands are apt to chap and become rough, the latter care is a definite must in your routine. Only by keeping the skin soft and pliable can you hope that your hands will make a good impression.

Soothe the Crying Child

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

This column has received many letters on colic since an article about it appeared some time ago.

Because of the modern practice of feeding babies early in their lives, and giving them all they want to eat whenever they want it, colic as a symptom of hunger would seem to have diminished appreciably. There are always reasons why a baby, adjusting himself to a strange food, such as is cows' milk, might suffer indigestion and cramps.

The end of one of these letters seemed to me pertinent to print because it answers the question so many parents put to themselves when they are rocking or walking a crying baby.

Mrs. K. M. writes, "Lest some mothers think that walking or rocking or other methods of soothing a sick baby will cause him to be spoiled, believe me, it will not happen.

"My baby let me know when he was better and did not want to be handled so much. I am happy, now, to think that I did not let the baby suffer unsoothed and uncomforted and will never regret it though it was inconvenient.

"We now have a healthy, alert, unspoiled baby. He weighs 21 pounds at 6 months of age. He eats literally everything, cereal, fruit, baked potato, vegetables, custard, ice cream, gelatine, cookies, zwieback, toast and unboiled, whole milk. He is cutting teeth with no trouble.

"During the time he had colic these are some of the methods I used to alleviate the pain. I used warmth, either from a hot-water bottle or by holding him close to my own body. Also, I put him on his stomach and rubbed his back gently. I sometimes used a four-ounce enema of plain, tepid water to help relieve the gas."

These are old and tried remedies and they help the child to belch up the gas in the stomach or—helped by an enema—get rid of the gas in the intestines. That is usually sure relief for the pain.

If the crying is from hunger then the quickest cure is food. A check of the baby's gains in weight, and a comparison of his diet with standard ones for his age, should always be made to be certain that what he suffers from is indigestion from too much and not emptiness and discomfort from too little.

Counsel on Home Decoration

NEED ADVICE on home decorating or color harmony?

Such counsel—particularly as it applies to carpets—will be available free of charge from Miss Clara Dudley, color scheme consultant for Alexander Smith Rug Co., who will make her headquarters this week at the Hecht Company rug department.

Miss Dudley, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, has had long experience in the field of interior decorating. She at one time manufactured her own hand-screen printed fabrics, has been decorator consultant for a large drapery and upholstery fabric firm, and lectured for two years from coast-to-coast as a decorator consultant. She will be at the Hecht Company downtown store through Thursday and at the Silver Spring store on Friday.

You'll Be in the Pink Next Winter

Any girl who doesn't look well in pink may have to live in a barrel next winter, says designer Lilly Dache. Everything from flesh to blush, from rose red to salmon, strawberry and Texas rose will dominate the fall and winter 1949-1950 fashions. In fact, any color, just so it's pink, says Lilly.

Scents Make Sense, and Dollars

Hit the Ladies in the Nose With a Rose to Sell Those Hose

By Alton L. Blakeslee

Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, March 8 (AP).—It's good business to hit a lady in the nose—if it's done psychologically, with scents. Men react the same way.

Women will buy hosiery through their nose, for example. If they are shown two identical boxes of stockings, of the same price, make, quality and color, they'll choose the box scented with a slight perfume. In one test, the perfume smelled faintly like ocean spray.

So strong is the nose appeal that one hosiery manufacturer plans to go a little further. Printing inks can be scented in newspapers, magazines, or circulars. He's planning to use a scented ink in his ads, and the same scent in his packages. He hopes women's noses will help guide them to his stockings.

The scented inks have struck novel chords in advertising mint juleps, smoked hams and bakery goods.

The spreading uses of scent are based on the importance of the human nose. Some psychologists estimate that half the impressions of conscious life come from the sense of smell.

Perfuming for a purpose is an old and big business. Soaps, paints, fly sprays, shoe polishes and hundreds of things are treated with odor neutralizers or are given pleasant odors to mask unpleasant ones. More than a billion dollars a year are spent to perfume or flavor a huge list of common articles, Ray P. Caulk of the Monsanto Chemical Co. writes in Monsanto Magazine.

Perfumes, of new mown hay, pine, jasmine, lemon, wisteria, are added to insecticidal fogs used in homes, offices, beaches, and mountain resorts. The scent can be chosen for the particular locality.

Some greeting cards are scented, using a little blotter, to carry a floral greeting to the nose as well as the eyes.

Someday we may even have "aroma concerts" to please our noses, says Caulk. Chemistry may make it possible to "attend aroma concerts, in which sweeping symphonies of odors, delicate and massive, will evoke untouched depths of emotion."

THE proposed District home rule bill was the topic of discussion, both at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club dinner meeting yesterday, and the pre-dinner conversation of (left to right) Miss Genevieve Rogers, Dr. George B. Galloway and Miss M. Geraldine Walsh. Dr. Galloway discussed the proposed home rule bill

BPW Hears Senate Aide on Home Rule

By Nicha Soure

Approximately 100 members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club learned details of District home rule at the first dinner meeting of the club, at YWCA, last night.

Responsible for the clarification was Dr. George B. Galloway, advisor to the Senate Committee on Home Rule, otherwise known as the Kefauver committee.

Dr. Galloway traced the District government from the granting of the charter to the present day. The House of Representatives of the Eightieth Congress, he said, attempted to pass a home rule bill but drew opposition, "stemming mainly from Southern Democrats, who, for reasons known only to themselves, kept the bill from coming to a final vote." Under the Kefauver committee, he said, the proposed home rule bill is getting a "fresh start" in the Senate.

Opposition to the proposed bill can be classed in four groups, Dr. Galloway explained: (1) those who "fear" democracy in the Nation's Capital; (2) those who are afraid they might have to pay more taxes; (3) those who are afraid of "losing posts of honor"; and (4) those with minds so closed that they fear a change of any kind.

In a question-and-answere period following the talk, Dr. Galloway was asked if the bill would increase the local taxes. He replied that with the relief of the present cumbersome government, taxes would be one-half million dollars less in the proposed bill than at present.

Dr. Galloway was asked which proposal he favored, the granting full legislative power by Congress to the city council or having the council submit legislation to the Congress and to the President.

He replied that either method is constitutional but that it was "a problem of politics" in that Congress might not want to relinquish all of its power.

The speaker was introduced by Miss M. Geraldine Walsh, chairman of the legislative committee. Miss Genevieve Rogers, president, presided at the meeting.

Doings of the Day . . .

Foreign Visitors to Tell Of Homemaking

At the March meeting of the Mount Vernon homemakers today, five foreign visitors will tell of homemaking in their native lands. The group will meet in the home of Mrs. Bernard Joy at 1718 N. Hartford st., Arlington, at 7:15 p. m.

The guests of the evening will be Miss Felicitas Tacderas, a Philippine student at Maryland University; Mrs. Yvonne Khin, wife of U Khin of the Burmese Embassy; Miss Leonar Garcia of Columbia, Phil Verges of Spain, and Alemdag Seres of Turkey.

Mrs. Buck Asks Fund to Bring Korean to U. S.

Plans are under way to bring Mrs. Esther Whang Park, president of the Korean Federation of Women's Clubs, to the United States. So revealed Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in a luncheon address yesterday before members of the Bethesda Woman's Club.

Mrs. Park was Mrs. Buck's guide when she visited the Korean Federation of Women's Clubs last fall during a five-week tour of affiliated federation clubs in Korea, Japan, the Philippines, China and Hawaii.

Calling upon the Bethesda women for financial assistance, Mrs. Buck said that $2000 would be necessary to make Mrs. Park's trip possible. "About half the amount already has been contributed but the additional amount must be raised quickly if Mrs. Park's trip is to be arranged in time for the federation's national convention, scheduled for April 25 to 29 in Hollywood, Fla., she explained.

Ki-Wives Luncheon Today

The monthly luncheon meeting of the Ki-Wives will be held today in the Mayflower Hotel with Mrs. Carl Werner presiding. Honor guest will be Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, daughter of Admiral Robert E. Peary, who will speak on her work as a women geographer.

The program will include the showing of a documentary film, "The Pribilof Islands Seal Story," taken by Roy Lyman Sexton who accompanied Department of Interior representatives on a survey mission through the volcanic island north of the Aleutians.

Also on the program will be the modeling of fashion furs by Mrs. Channing Walker, Mrs. Francis Fabrezieo, Mrs. Durwin Boglen and Mrs. Reid Wallace.

Mrs. Pinchot to Entertain for Clubwomen

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, chairman of the United Nations Forum, will entertain at a tea this afternoon in her home in honor of representatives of 60 local women's clubs. The guests will hear plans for the Forum's proposed lecture, "American Influences Abroad," to be given at the Lisner Auditorium on Monday, April 4. Tickets will be available through the local clubs as well as The World Affairs Center, 1712 H st. nw.

Chairman of hostesses for this afternoon's meeting will be Mrs. Walter Wyatt. Others serving are Mrs. Hale T. Shenefield, Mrs. Thad Brown, Mrs. Oliver McKee, jr.; Mrs. Donald Hogate, Miss Margaret Lambie, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon and Mrs. Owen Brewster.

Others active on the Forum's committee are Mrs. Harold H. Burton, Mrs. Irene B. Caldwell, Mrs. G. Howland Chase, Mrs. Raymond Clapper, Mrs. Edward U. Condon, Mrs. James G. Crowley and Mrs. William S. Culbertson.

Alien Denied Right To Fight Legality Of Law of Land

An alien seeking entry into this country lacks the right to attack the constitutionality of an act of Congress, a three-judge tribunal ruled yesterday.

The court, composed of Judge James M. Proctor of the United States Court of Appeals, and F. Dickinson Letts and Alexander Holtzoff of District Court, made the ruling in refusing to entertain a suit brought by Leon Kaminer, his wife and his 8-year-old son, all now at Ellis Island.

Kaminer and his family came from Romania via Paris and were denied without hearing the right to enter the States.

In a brief opinion, the court held that as an alien merely knocking at the door of the country, Kaminer was disabled from invoking the Constitution in a case like this, and in any event that the law involved was constitutional.

$380,000 Suit Based on 1948 Silver Spring Blast

A total of $380,000 damages were demanded yesterday in a District Court suit filed as a result of an explosion of gas March 10, 1948, at the National School of Photography at 922 Burlington ave., Silver Spring, Md., previously used as a telephone exchange.

The suit was brought by five persons injured in the blast. They are Henry Tobin, 1224 Blair Mill rd., Silver Spring, who alleges he lost the use of two hands; Kazimer N. Gorski, 1203 Holly st. nw.; Edward M. Berquist, Glens Falls, N. Y.; Joseph J. Mascolo, 640 I st. ne., and Allen M. Edelman, 1616 Allison st. nw.

Defendants are the Maryland and Washington Gas Light Co.'s, and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co's of Washington and Baltimore.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs are Nicholas J. Chase, Karl J. Hardy, Albert E. Brault and Alvin Newmyer.

Forget the Weather

By James J. Metcalfe

Somewhere today the wind is cold . . . And blusterous and wild . . . And somewhere there is sunshine and . . . The temperature is mild . . . In certain regions there is rain . . . To shower field and street . . . While other areas on earth . . . Are wrapped in snow and sleet . . . All sorts of weather now prevail . . . In places near or far . . . And yet we cannot take our choice . . . No matter where we are . . . We have to make the best of it . . . However dark or bright . . . Whatever moment of the day . . . Or hour of the night . . . So why should we get all upset . . . And why should we complain . . . Because the world is hot or cold . . . Or splashing in the rain?

Disarmament Spreads To Little Squirts

A new drive has been launched against local gun toters—and without benefit of special legislation.

The management of the Kennedy Theater, 4th and Kennedy sts. nw., is currently insisting that all weapons be checked at the box-office.

Patrons who look like they are young enough to be harboring water pistols are frisked at the door, and forced to disarm.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two handsome, housebroken male kittens, about 6 weeks old." (Michigan 3329.)

"Lovely little black and white female cat; very affectionate, nice pet." (Axminster 6991.)

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

With daylight saving legislation pending on the Hill; new license tags appearing on our autos; and Povich discovering slugging outfielders and winning pitchers in Florida—can spring be far behind?

COMPENSATION

I cannot cook or sew.
My one redeeming feature is
My dad had lots of dough.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

A recent survey among television manufacturers indicates that Washington ranks sixth in TV receivers.

According to the figures, 256,000 sets have found their way to New York, 98,000 to Philadelphia, 87,000 to Newark, 75,000 to Los Angeles, 72,000 to Chicago and 30,000 to Washington.

We're 1000 ahead of Boston, 3000 ahead of Baltimore, 5000 ahead of Detroit, 11,000 ahead of Cleveland, and almost double the St. Louis figure.

Obviously, the number of transmitters in the various areas and the quality of their programs has influenced the sale of receivers to a great extent.

Although we're sixth in TV sets, the 1940 census figures had us eleventh in population.

MISCELLANY

"How can we expect to progress in the world unless we break down enough to spell the plural of woman 'wimmen'?" inquires Bill Nesbitt of 14 E. Woodbine st., Chevy Chase, Md. . . . Here's a pied type item from one of our mail subscribers, Anna L. Bennett of 2232 Hawthorne st., Dallas, Tex. She forwards a clipping which says that a missing local attorney was found "visiting a friend in New Persey." Comments District Liner Bennett from deep in the heart of Texas: "No wonder they had so much trouble finding him. Where is it?" . . . The first day we took over WTOP, the printers made our radio box atop Page B-1 read "Today on WINX, 1500 kc" . . . I thought I'd get dozens of clippings, but I heard from only three people on it: Donald Sturgis of 1030 Burns st. se., Tommy Vance of 915 Ridge rd. se. (who sent postcards) and John Hayes, WTOP manager (who just spluttered) . . . The management of the National Theater was so sure that its patrons would like "The Return of October" that they "guaranteed" the picture. Anybody who didn't like it could ask for a pass to any future film. As of yesterday, five passes had been given out—and one of them was presented at the box office later the same day. The pass had been demanded by a youngster—who wanted his buddy to see the show.

PERSONAL NOTES

Warren Reid, 228 W. Glebe rd., Alexandria, Va., Dick Fuller, Rockville, Md., M. E. Linder, 3500 14th st. nw.; and A. O. Edwards, 3341 Massachusetts ave. se.: Thanks for your help and encouragement. I'm going to keep on yapping about the management of our local public golf courses until we get the kind of facilities Congress meant for us to have.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I'm a native Washingtonian, and I get The Washington Post every day while I'm out here attending Drake University because I've found it's the best medicine for homesickness. Keep up the good work.

Dear Mort:

Thanks, pal. Our circulation department loves to hear those words.

By the way, who gets your carrier boy complaints—the mailman?

Bill

OVERHEARD

"What a dizzy dame. She must have spent her formative years on a merry-go-round."

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air, Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Greta Garbo still persists in using the name "Harriet Brown" in her incognito travels. It was as Harriet Brown that she was introduced to Ivor Novello, the British star. He addressed her as "Miss Brown" for several weeks, and during these weeks he saw her constantly. Then, just before Garbo left for Hollywood, Novello said, "My dear, dear Miss Brown. Now that we've become such good friends—may I call you 'Harriet?'"

The day Pearl Buck received the Child Study Award from Norman Cousins, she startled the assembled guests by advocating the abolishment of homework for children. "Homework doesn't instill self-discipline in a child, but stirs his antagonism," Mrs. Buck said. "My own 6-year-old child, doing his homework, frequently asks me questions I can't answer—nor can my cousin, a Harvard graduate" . . . Mrs. Buck then told of asking her son how he liked school. "It's all right, except for one thing," the boy insisted . . . "What's the one thing?" asked Mrs. Buck. The boy complained: "They're always trying to teach me something."

Rex Harrison and his wife, Lili Palmer, supped with Charles Boyer at the Stork Club one day, and heard him discuss camera-angles. Boyer confided that he prefers the camera to shoot at the right side of his face. "My left side is the bad one," he said . . . "So's mine, and so is Rex's," said Miss Palmer. "In fact, that's why Rex and I never can appear in a movie together. Our right sides are the good ones, and so we never could be photographed facing each other in profile."

Before Gertrude Lawrence visited G. B. Shaw last week, she asked his secretary what gift Shaw would like. "Not candy. He gives all the candy away to the people in the village," said the secretary. "He loves tea, and it's difficult to keep him supplied with enough of it" . . . Miss Lawrence scoured London for packages of tea, and brought them to Shaw's house, together with a box of candy. "What's in the parcel?" Shaw asked her, and she held out the tea. "Never touch it," said Shaw—then eagerly took the candy.

Czech Purge Reported Imminent

By Drew Pearson

Sensational developments are expected in Czechoslovakia following Vishinsky's appointment as Russian Foreign Minister . . . The U. S. Embassy in Prague reports Vishinsky has definitely decided that Czech Communists are too independent and that Klement Gottwald, the present Communist boss of Czechoslovakia, must be purged.

Gottwald

It's feared he will become another Tito . . . Vishinsky is reported to have reached this conclusion during his three-week so-called "vacation" in Czechoslovakia at the resort town of Karlsbad. Actually, Vishinsky, apparently knowing he was to be named Foreign Minister, came to Czechoslovakia not only to rest but to look into activities in a country which the Politburo considers the weak link in the satellite chain around the Iron Curtain . . . Gottwald confirmed Moscow's suspicions by flatly refusing Russia's request that he take back into Czechoslovakia some 300,000 Sudeten Germans expelled by the Czechs into the eastern zone of Germany. This was the last straw as far as Vishinsky was concerned, and he has recommended that Gottwald be liquidated.

TIP TO TRUMAN—Friends have sent the White House the following:

Once there lived a Mohammedan village philosopher, Nastradin Hotza, whose wise sayings have become a by-word in the Near East among Christians, Mohammedans and Jews. When Nastradin was once invited to deliver the Friday evening prayer before the sultan's representative, he mounted the minaret, raised his arms toward heaven, and said: "Almighty Allah, I pray help this humble servant of yours to live according to thy law, and guide his footsteps in the path of righteousness, above all, O Allah, I pray protect me from my friends" . . . worshipers later inquired of Nastradin why he did not ask Allah to protect him from his enemies, as was the usual custom in Mohammedan prayers. Nastradin replied: "I can protect myself from my enemies, but only Allah can protect me from my friends" . . . Fiorello La Guardia, one of the greatest public servants of our time, used to say: "My chief qualification for office is my monumental ingratitude to my friends."

MacARTHUR HUNTS COMMIES—General MacArthur has been given secret permission to increase the size of the Japanese police in order to probe for Communists who are gaining strength in Japan . . . Army Secretary Royall has approved MacArthur's plan for doing this, though simultaneously he vetoed MacArthur's request for more United States combat troops . . . The exact number of new Japanese cops will be up to MacArthur. But Royall will offer no objection if 10,000 more police, armed with pistols and light weapons, are put on duty.

IRATE SENATOR—GOP Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is blasting Government press agents again, alleging that they waste millions of dollars every year on whimsical, worthless publicity schemes . . . Bridges cites a set of recipes for cooking muskrat meat (put out by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service); also "Fleas in North America," "Sex of Watermelons," "Habits, Food and Economic Status of the Band-Tailed Pigeon"—all authored by the Agriculture Department.

LAGGING LATIN RELATIONS—Secretary of State Acheson isn't advertising it, but he's extremely worried about our badly deteriorated good-neighbor policy in Latin American. Acheson thinks relations with the American republics have been disgracefully neglected of late, has told top assistants it's time the United States starts paying closer attention to what is going on in our own front yard . . . Meanwhile, not even an Assistant Secretary of State is entrusted to handle Latin American relations—the last such expert, Spruille Braden, having been forced to quit by General Marshall because Braden was too hard on Dictator Peron of Argentina . . . Acheson has now decided to remedy this by reviving the position of Assistant Secretary of State for Latin America.

RED ARMY GROWLS—Selden Chapin, the American diplomat who was kicked out of Hungary, has warned the State Department that Hungary is secretly building up its army—in direct violation of the peace treaty. . . . Russian army officers are training Hungarian troops and organizing them into "action squads"—presumably aimed against Tito. . . .The peace treaty put a limit of 150,000 on the Hungarian army, but Chapin says the Hungarians have at least 50,000 to 100,000 more than this. Chapin also reports the Communist government of Hungary has authorized a substantial increase in the number of security police, to guard against a possible uprising by the Hungarian people.

LOSING Your HAIR?
Enjoy MORE Virile Hair in 30 Days or We Pay the Entire Fee!

R. W. FARRELL
National Staff Trichologist
Give your scalp a chance to grow hair! Don't let simple deterrents like clogged follicles or sluggish circulation stifle your scalp's natural urge to grow strong, healthy hair! Our intensive trichological treatments scientifically combine ultraviolet therapy, professional stimulation and exclusive laboratory-created formulae; they penetrate clogged hair passages, attack subscalp bacteria, eliminate itchiness and irritation, normalize the blood circulation which "feeds" the hair roots, and revitalizes the entire cycle of hair-growing activity. Delay is deadly and may lead to fatal follicle shrinkage. Come in today or tonight for a free comprehensive examination and consultation. Hopeless cases are never accepted. Yes, enjoy your hair's new virile look within 30 days—or we'll pay your fee!

4 GOOD REASONS

WHY THE HECHT CO. IS THE PLACE TO BUY NATIONALLY FAMOUS MEN'S CLOTHING

ONE GOOD NAME deserves another . . . That's why The Hecht Co. links its name with such Nationally accepted names as Society Brand, Worsted-tex, Middishade and Surretwill. Let's take our exclusive Society Brand Clothes. Why should this label demand the respect of so many style-conscious men? Because it stands for a traditional tailoring technique where painstaking unhurried hand needle work is the hallmark of each garment. It stands for distinctive styling and choice imported and domestic fabrics. It stands for easy elegance in your appearance. As for the House of Worsted-tex, their clothes have won approval on their own merit. A new idea in styling . . . "the British Lounge Model" . . . makes the thin man look broader . . . the heavy man appear thinner . . . suits that improve on nature. Middishade offers you years and years of tried and true styling and tailoring. Their neat patterns are the choice of businessmen from coast to coast. Surretwills are meritorious because this new outstanding fabric combines the virtues of covert with the wearability of gabardine. Added is a new fling in colorful styling befitting the Spring Season.
